

MICHIGAN LOGGER VICTIM OF HARBIES

Stranger Spends Two Hundred Dollars a Day on Wine, Women and Barbers.

THEN WANTS SHERIFF TO RECOVER HIS MONEY

E. C. Watkins Says He Was Practically a Prisoner in St. Louis Saloon.

Two weeks ago E. C. Watkins, a logger, came to Portland from Detroit, Mich., bringing $1,400; the amount left of an inheritance of $2,000 received from the estate of his father.

AN EXPENSIVE DRINK

Watkins went into the saloon with the woman and bought her a bottle of wine. He was kept in the saloon, drunk, until this morning.

Though only $2.50 a bottle is charged for wine in the barroom of the saloon, the price charged Watkins in the balcony was $5.

"I woke up one night after falling asleep in the balcony," said Watkins, "and felt the hand of a man in my pocket. He left the place as soon as he saw I had detected him. How much money he got I don't know. He was not an employee of the saloon, but spent a good deal of time around there. My watch was not stolen until later, and the chain was broken when it was taken."

Two Dollars a Shave. "Not a cent was stolen from Ed Watkins," asserted Martin. "He came here voluntarily and spent his money. Yes, he spent quite a bunch. He bought wine for 14 days for Nadine Allen, the piano player. She is a nice little woman, and everybody that knows her will say Watkins was sober enough to go to the bank and draw money several times."

"He told us he had $8,000 more and that spending this meant nothing to him. He sent out a card to have a barber shave him and another card to have a barber trim his hair. He paid $2 each time. Nobody was treated better than this fellow, and he has no license to equal."

Martin further declared that Watkins had a revolver and that once or twice he drew it after drawing the weapon on J. S. Ormsby, he says, it was taken from the logger. This weapon, it is said, was a .38 Smith and Wesson.

A barber whose shop is located at 23 1/2 North Sixth street says that he shaved Watkins in the St. Louis saloon twice, but charged him only $1 each time.

"I have not definitely determined exactly what to do in this matter yet," said Sheriff Word. "The man spent the money, technically, but was virtually robbed. Such dives as this should be obliterated—they are not only a menace to the unwary, but a blot on the good name of the city."

Walla Walla Man Fires Bullet Into His Head. Walla Walla, Wash., June 14.—George Gray, a reporter on the Morning Ensign, attempted to commit suicide at 9 o'clock this morning on a charge brought by a boy who gave the alarm to the police, and when Officer Casey arrived at Gray's room he found the door locked. On kicking the door down, the officer entered just as Gray fired directly at his own head. The bullet passed through his brain, but may not prove fatal. He has not regained consciousness.

ALL-NIGHT SALOONS COUNCIL'S LATEST

Bill Introduced This Afternoon to Wipe Out Closing Ordinance.

Cost of Licenses Will Be Largely Increased

Clerk Copland's Claim for Salary as Chief Clerk for Treasurer Werlein Allowed.

An ordinance granting saloons permission to remain open all night was introduced at a meeting of the city council this afternoon. The ordinance promises that all saloons desiring to remain open all night shall pay a license fee of $300 a year or $300 more than the regular license.

It is said that the liquor interests of the city are in favor of the ordinance and that it was introduced to repay saloonkeepers for services rendered during the municipal election.

The claim of J. S. Copland of $700 was allowed by the City Treasurer Werlein's clerk over whom he has had so much trouble with the civil service commission.

Copland was declared ineligible for the position and his salary was refused him by City Auditor Devlin by order of the commission. The bill passed the council without a dissenting vote, showing that Werlein's attitude toward the commission was upheld by the city council.

MISS HOWE TELLS WHY FATHER SHOT FOGERTY

Student Had Attacked Her, and Would Not Permit Her to Leave Park.

Arthur Fogerty, the student at the Riverview academy, who was shot about 10:30 o'clock last Monday evening by Charles H. Howe, a brakeman on the Southern Pacific, is recovering rapidly from the wound he received in the shoulder.

Howe's daughter, Minnie, aged 16, left her home at 115 Gibbs street about 7:30 o'clock Monday evening, and after riding her wheel a few blocks met Thomas Whittaker and Gertrude Halton, eight friends, with whom she proceeded to walk to Terwilliger park. There she says her companions left her and shortly afterward Fogerty approached and prevented her leaving the park, although she made several attempts to do so.

In her struggle to free herself from Fogerty, she declared, the string in the knee of her bloomers was torn out.

When she failed to get home by 10 o'clock Howe armed himself with a revolver and started on a search for her, and finally discovered her in the park with Fogerty. When Howe approached he asked the lad what he was doing, whereupon Fogerty took to his heels. Howe called to him to halt, and when he failed to do so Howe fired two shots, one of which took effect in the left shoulder.

No arrests have been made, although President Newell stated last night that he would swear out a warrant for the arrest of Howe.

When Howe approached he asked the lad what he was doing, whereupon Fogerty took to his heels. Howe called to him to halt, and when he failed to do so Howe fired two shots, one of which took effect in the left shoulder.

No arrests have been made, although President Newell stated last night that he would swear out a warrant for the arrest of Howe.

Arthur Fogerty, the student at the Riverview academy, who was shot about 10:30 o'clock last Monday evening by Charles H. Howe, a brakeman on the Southern Pacific, is recovering rapidly from the wound he received in the shoulder.

Howe's daughter, Minnie, aged 16, left her home at 115 Gibbs street about 7:30 o'clock Monday evening, and after riding her wheel a few blocks met Thomas Whittaker and Gertrude Halton, eight friends, with whom she proceeded to walk to Terwilliger park. There she says her companions left her and shortly afterward Fogerty approached and prevented her leaving the park, although she made several attempts to do so.

In her struggle to free herself from Fogerty, she declared, the string in the knee of her bloomers was torn out.

When she failed to get home by 10 o'clock Howe armed himself with a revolver and started on a search for her, and finally discovered her in the park with Fogerty. When Howe approached he asked the lad what he was doing, whereupon Fogerty took to his heels. Howe called to him to halt, and when he failed to do so Howe fired two shots, one of which took effect in the left shoulder.
