

LURED BY LIGHTS, THEY SEEK THE FAIR

Little Mabel James Takes Her Flaxen-Haired-Doll on a Journey of Discovery.

LONG, WEARY WALK WITH FAIRIES BECKONING HER

And When Almost at Gates Tired Lassie Falls Asleep on Officers' Cloaks.

Over in Albina lives a little girl with dimpled cheeks and curly, jet-black hair. A smile forever sparkles in her eye; words turn to laughter on her lips.
But behind the smile is a gleam of childish curiosity.

Her name is Mabel James, and it was 12 summers ago that she came into this world. At home she has a family of dolls, to whom she is as attentive as is the most doting mother to her child.

For weeks and months she has heard her parents and neighbors speak of the great exposition. She did not know just what they meant, but from her home in Albina at night she could see the deep red glow of a mystic fairland across the river. She wondered, and asked them what caused the crimson sky where the sun was not setting.
They told her it was the illumination at the fair. Still she wondered, and listened as her parents told of the delights of the fairland, and watched by night the marvelous glory that illuminated the home of the dying sun.

Finally she decided on something, but kept her plans to herself. Only to Mildred, the flaxen-haired, did she discuss her intentions.

She and Mildred, the flaxen-haired, started out yesterday afternoon to find the fairland, and to see the great mystic city that she did not understand.
She had been to Portland with her mother, and there she had seen many strange and curious things. Toward Portland, accordingly, she started to find the cause of the deep red night-glow. The walk was long and weary, but she rested often and talked frequently with Mildred, the flaxen-haired, telling her the how and why and wherefore of the journey, and beseeching her not to be alarmed. Many persons tried to stop the tiny wanderer and question her, but she hurried on.

It was almost 10 o'clock last night when Policeman Roney, of the exposition squad, reached Sacier and Twenty-seventh streets, two blocks from the main entrance to the fair. It is on his beat, and when he reached the corner he stopped to rest his mustache and to raise the time of night with the clear man at the corner.

As he stood twisting his mustache ends he glanced across the street and something caught his eye. He looked again, intently, and presently there emerged into the brilliant radiance of an arc light a tiny form, batless, without a coat or wrap of any sort and carrying a flaxen-haired form smaller than her own. She stood hesitatingly, looking up and down the street, and glancing wonderingly toward the exposition grounds, where the deep red glow had expanded into an absorbing dearing whiteness.

"Where are you going, little girl?" queried the officer, as he walked toward the wide-eyed child.

"I am going to see the lights, me and Mildred," she said.

She slept peacefully at the temporary headquarters near the fair grounds.
Beside her lay Mildred. Officers made a bed for her of their cloaks and she slept soundly until 11 o'clock when her father arrived.

"You know she's been talking and asking about those lights for days," he said.

TAPS BY COMRADE HIS LAST REQUEST

Jesse M. Robinson, a veteran of company H, Second Oregon volunteers, died at his home on Thirteenth street yesterday afternoon, and is to be buried Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with military honors. Mr. Robinson was afflicted with congestion of the heart.
His last request was, "Have Roy Noble sound taps over my body at the grave." Captain Noble commences one of the Third regiment companies, and was musician in Mr. Robinson's company in the Philippines. The touching request of the dead soldier will be observed in the military funeral to be held at Lone Fir cemetery. The chapel services will be at Dunning's undertaking parlors, on the east side, commencing at 2:30 in the afternoon. The funeral will be under the auspices of company H and comrades of the Second Oregon.

PEACE IS IN SIGHT

Asian people. Alexis has had supreme direction of the navy since Russia built her first ironclads under Alexander III.
The announcement has been confirmed by imperial rescript relieving the admiral of command. Charges of mismanagement and corruption against the marine department have been rife for years, and since the war began they have increased tenfold. They have been universally censured since the defeat of Rojstevsky's squadron.

RUSSIANS ASK COAL.

Auxiliary Cruiser Kouban Off French
Port of Saigon.

(Journal Special Service.)
Saigon, June 16.—The auxiliary cruiser Kouban, formerly the Hamburg-American steamer Augusta Victoria, has arrived at this port and asked for coal sufficient to reach the nearest Russian port. The vessel did not participate in the naval battle in the Sea of Japan, having been detached to reconnoiter the east coast of Japan, when she heard of the fate of Rojstevsky and steamed for this port.

Trial of French Spy.

(Journal Special Service.)
Tokio, June 15.—A. E. Bouguoin, a Frenchman, has been remanded for trial on a charge of furnishing information to the Russian government. He came to Japan as military attaché, M. Stranz, an Englishman and stepson of M.
Bouguoin, was discharged on insufficient evidence.

Invited to St. Paul.

(Journal Special Service.)
St. Paul, Minn., June 16.—Governor Johnson today wired President Roosevelt, inviting the peace commission to meet in the Minnesota capital. He suggested that St. Paul would be a cool enough spot for the peace envoys.

Japan Wants More War.

(Journal Special Service.)
London, June 16.—The Evening Standard's Tokyo correspondent cables that the war tendency is still strong in Japan and peace prospects unfavorable.

GIANT SNAKE WITH A PORCUPINE INSIDE

(Journal Special Service.)
New York, June 16.—A 28-foot python, with a porcupine inside him, is one of the jungle curios that arrived here on the steamship Polycarp from Brazil.
Among the varied collection of beasts and reptiles were this python and a porcupine. The day before the steamer reached port the snake wiggled through the bars of his cage and sought the company of the porcupine. It had been three days since the giant python had had a morsel of food. The snake was hungry and gobbled up poor "porkey." Pretty soon the snake was suffering the most excruciating pains and emitted strange sounds, which caused a panic among the other animals and snakes and brought the captain and crew to the scene. The struggling snake was secured and dragged back into its iron cage. Then it was found that the porcupine was missing. Captain James threw a flashlight into the snake's cage, expecting to find the reptile dead, but to his astonishment saw the sharp quills protruding from the sides of the python.
The snake still lives.

COMMENCEMENT AT WILLAMETTE ENDS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Salem, Or., June 16.—The sixty-first annual commencement of the College of Liberal Arts of Willamette university was held last night in the First M. E. church. The exercises were a piano duet by Messrs. Churchill and Catlow, two graduates from the College of Music.
Invocation, the Rev. Ford of Portland.
Mrs. Grace Scriber-Holbrook, soprano, sang the beautiful solo, "I Cannot Say Goodbye." The Hon. C. E. Wolverton, LL. D., chief justice of the supreme court of Oregon, gave the graduating address. Miss Ida Stegè, soprano, sang "Judith." Dean W. C. Hawley presented the graduates, George Eugene Whipple and Burgess Francis Ford, classical, and Ezra Kinney Miller, Lila Vinson Swarford, Edgar Francis Averill and Paul Worth Beach, scientific, to President John H. Coleman, who presented the di-plomata. This concludes the commencement exercises at Willamette.

DEATH OF MAXIMO GOMEZ MOMENTARILY EXPECTED

(Journal Special Service.)
Havana, June 16.—The condition of General Maximo Gomez has grown worse since midnight. His death is expected at any moment.

Popular Pianos

That is the kind we carry, and that is what makes ours the popular house of the northwest. That is what gives us such prominence at the Lewis and Clark fair. All the state and public buildings have pianos from our house, besides we have the only exhibit at the fair, and you don't want to miss that for there you will find the finest exhibit of up-to-date pianos you ever saw. And then our main warehouses here. You will miss a great deal if you fail to call and see the largest and finest piano rooms in the northwest. We have unquestionably the finest assortment of pianos you ever saw and our prices and terms are within the reach of all. Our facilities for buying and our modern method of doing business explains why we can sell you a piano on a smaller margin profit than can be obtained elsewhere. You will find good pianos here from $200 up and all are sold on our easy payment plan, which is so popular with the people.

SPECIAL EDITION OF SUNSET FOR EXPOSITION

Charles Sedgwick Allen of San Francisco, editor of the Sunset magazine, has been in Portland arranging for material for the July number of his periodical, which will be devoted almost exclusively to the Lewis and Clark exposition and
