Much Testimony Excluded.

Judge De Haven insisted that de-fendant's counsel must confine them-selves to the legitlmate range of crossexamination, and he therefore excluded much testimony which they desired to introduce, holding that such evidence must be presented, if at all, when the defense opens its case. Judge Bennett desired to show by Judge Tanner that Mitchell was in feeble health during est of the time since his last election to the senate, but the objections of the district attorney to this line of interrogation were sustained. The court also refused to permit testimony designed show that "Senator Mitchell was the busiest man in Washington," saying that court and jury would take judicial ognizance of the fact that a senator's time is fully occupied.

Some testimony was given showing that Mitchell gave but little attention the details of the business of the irm of Mitchell & Tanner. The monthly emittances of Mitchell's share of the irm's receipts were not accompanied by statements showing the sources from hich the money had come. On one oc casion, however, he sent to Judge Tanner for a copy of the firm's books ind it was sent to him.

New York, June 24 .- Employes of the American Smelting & Refining company have just received $200,000 cash as their share of the profits of the smelting trust for the year ending April 30. This is more than twice the amount apportioned among them a year ago by the company, $91,000 having been divided last June as bonuses.

The men who get a share of the profits are managers, superintendents, clerks, foremen, chemists, assayers and pur-chasing agents. In order to participate in the division employes must be in the employ of the company one year. A few exceptions, however, are made in the cases of new employes who show marked ability and enthusiasm.

The French statesmen deciared it would be puerlie and inglorious for them to say that their country had some into the African empire only in the interest of all nations.

The French view is opposed to article 17 of the treaty of Madrid relating to Morocco, which was signed by all the powers and which accorded another by Morocco. M. Delcasse would not admit that Germany had any right to interfere in the Morocco question, London, June 24.-A significant phase and having peaceably entered Morocco,

The French Contention. Frenchmen claim that France abandoned their situation in Egypt in return In the eyes of Frenchmen Morocco must become a dependency like Tunis. For this reason article 4 of the agreement with Great Britain in leaving existing in Morocco and in Egypt the regime of commercial liberty and of the "open door" during 30 years, has provided that this period may be extended. Article 4 also reserves to France the privilege in Morocco of supervising the granting of Morocco of supervising the granting of concessions for roads, railroads, ports, etc., under conditions that the authority of the state over such public works shall remain upaffected, as is the case with Grent Britain and Egypt.

Needless to say, this condition is precisely what Germany is striving to prevent and which she now seems on the cisely what Germany is striving to pre-vent and which she now seems on the point of going to war to head off.
