

ISSUE TEN MILLIONS IN BONDS

Portland General Electric Stockholders Authorize Big Issue for Improvements.

DEBTS WILL BE PAID AND NEW PLANTS BUILT

One Station to Be Built Near Golf Links — Another at Casadero Will Be Used.

Stockholders of the Portland General Electric company at a special meeting yesterday afternoon voted to authorize the directors to make a new mortgage to include all the property of the company for an issue of $10,000,000 of bonds, $4,000,000 of which will be sold at once to refund outstanding indebtedness at a lower interest rate, pay for the new plant erected at the foot of Twenty-first street, and provide a surplus in the treasury for improvements that are already planned. A new sub-station will be built this year near the golf course, and a duplicate 10,000-volt feeder will be run from this sub-station to sub-station "A," at the corner of Alder and Seventh streets. It is intended to have all the stations, including new ones at Casadero, run in multiple. The power to be generated at Casadero, being 10,000 volts, 23-cycle 3-phase, it will be changed to direct current for railway purposes by means of rotary converters, and to 60-cycle alternating current for lighting and power purposes. The Portland General Electric has signed a contract with the Oregon Water Power & Railway company to take all surplus power that may be generated at the Oregon Water Power & Railway company's new Casadero plant, which it is expected will be in operation by January 1, and which will be equipped to produce 20,000 horsepower.

The Portland General Electric, while it has a debt totaling $1,500,000, has made immense improvements in its plant in the last two years, and is now equipped to extend its current for power and lighting throughout the lower Willamette valley. Its capacity has been more than doubled by the recent enlargements. When the Lewis and Clark expedition management more than a year ago decided not to build its own power plant at the grounds but to buy 100,000 lights from the Portland General Electric for approximately $50,000, the company began construction of its new plant known as station "B" near the Eastern & Western Lumber mill at Gull's lake. The plant is economically operated with wood as fuel. The company now has five stations in operation, as follows: Station B, at Willamette falls; station C, formerly known as the Union power house, located at the corner of Berwick street and Twenty-first; station D, located at the corner of Mill and Chapman; station E, the new steam plant at Gull's lake; and sub-station A, at the corner of Alder and Seventh streets.

The total capacity of the Portland General Electric from its own generators is now about 22,000 horsepower. This current is disposed of for the following purposes: Lighting, public and private, in the city of Portland and suburbs; lighting the exposition; power for driving the Portland Flouring mills, and other industries, and auxiliary power for the operation of the Portland Consolidated railway, and the Oregon Water Power & Railway systems. The Portland General Electric, at its plant near the Inman-Poulsen mill, generates about two fifths the amount of power necessary to operate the system. The Portland General Electric furnishes the remainder.

MINERAL EXHIBIT COVERS THE STATE

California Has Splendid Showing of Ores and Gold at the Fair.

Superintendent Samuel Butler of the California mineral exhibit stated this morning that about 200 choice specimens were exhibited from the California mineral exhibit, and that a collection of nuggets, coarse gold and high grade ore from Blakely county would be here in a day or so. These additions will complete the mineral collection of the golden state and make one of the strongest presentations from any state mineral industry.

In arranging the California exhibit Mr. Butler says that it has been the purpose to give an average view, covering every phase of the industry. Shasta county's copper mines are represented by a collection of ores from the big properties, a large collection of cinnabar is had from the Santa Clara county region, where most of the United States mercury has been produced, and gold ores from the mother lode district to the remotest section have been assembled.

CARDINAL SETS PACE FOR CLASS MAGAZINES

Portland's High school has not been content with scholastic triumphs in this year of all years for the city. After athletic victories, establishments of high educational standards, and social preeminence, the editorial faculty of the Cardinal has excelled all other efforts in the closing issue of the term publication.

The most artistic magazine issued from the city or state this year is the closing number of the Cardinal. It gives a historical review of the events which are the basis for the centennial celebration. It is marked by fidelity to the authentic records, are school verses and many bright prose articles from the pen of the editorial staff.

The cover design is striking and apt. Lewis and Clark appear under outstretched wings; the lettering is embossed and of coin gold color. Printing is on paper of a delicate art finish, while cuts are on heavy enamel book, giving a pleasing alternating effect. Illustrations of a professor, benighted by the school faculty and including miniatures of class officers and members, and a multitude of society members. Artistic views of the exposition and its most striking buildings, with sketches of stories and verses, give the publication the elegance of high grade magazine work. This issue of the Cardinal will be memorable in school annals, and will establish a precedent which a generation to follow is not likely to attain again. Because of the closing of the school the magazine is distributed to subscribers at Meier & Frank's.

PIONEER SALOON AND CHURCH ARE GONE

Patrolman O. F. Isakson, in a three-page report to Chief of Police Gritzmacher, bemoans the fact that two old landmarks have gone from his beat. One of them is a saloon, but Isakson asserts that it was a good saloon and probably carries out the prophecy of swords being turned into plowshares.

The first landmark is the Seven Corners saloon, at East Twenty-first and Division streets, says the patrolman. "It was closed by the prohibition vote at the last election, and although good people gladly bow to the majesty of the law, it can truly be said that that saloon was very quiet and orderly. It is more than many other saloons in the city.

WOULD ANNEX NEW SCHOOL DISTRICT

County Boundary Board Will Be Asked to Include Mt. Tabor in Number One.

TAXPAYERS BELIEVE AN INJUSTICE IS BEING DONE

Forced to Pay City Levy and Tuition Also—Willing to Pay for Benefits.

The east side office of the Journal is in the store of Mrs. J. W. McKinney, 200 East Morrison street. Telephone East 775.

Leading men of Mount Tabor are preparing a complete statement of the financial condition and needs of school district No. 5 with the view to asking the county boundary board to incorporate this in city district No. 1. There has been no petition prepared in the matter, and the movement has not yet reached the popular hurrah stage, but a business-like, complete statement of the needs of the district and its liability to bear new burdens is ready and backed by some of the leading business men of Portland who reside in the territory, it will be brought to the attention of the county boundary board.

This statement shows that district No. 5 has 442 children of school age in its bounds and that 641 children were enrolled in the Mount Tabor school last year. The assessed valuation of the district is $497,325, and a three mill tax levied for school purposes this year. The value of the school property in the district is $27,000, the value of the supplies and furnishings is $2,600, and the district has a debt of $115,000, of which all but $150 bears but four per cent interest and runs for a long period.

At present, though the larger part of the district is included in the city limits, the high school pupils are required to pay tuition in the city high school because they are from another district. In many cases taxpayers who live in Mount Tabor pay the city levy on Mount Tabor property under the recent annexation law, also pay taxes on other city property farther removed from their homes, pay a local school tax in district No. 5, and then are forced to pay $8 a year in tuition fees for every child they have attending the city high school.

WAS IT A THREAT?

East Side Judge Near Difficult Problem in Revere Case.

Does the statement "You dirty cur, you ought to be killed," imply a threat? This was the problem Justice Siston of the east side justice court faced yesterday in trying the case of A. W. Bennett against Mrs. Florence Revere of Arleta. The prosecution said the woman had threatened the life of Bennett.

Mr. Revere and her child were present with a host of friends. Mrs. Revere and her daughter told the court of Bennett's alleged insults. Bennett denied these and expressed his firm belief in the ability and determination of Mrs. Revere to assassinate him and his family. After half a day of various testimony the judge took the matter under advisement.

FIREMEN'S HANDICAP

Belmont Lodgings and Stores Injured Through Red Tape and Carelessness.

RUSCH & OSTER EXPERIENCE LOSS OF ABOUT $500

Telephone Out of Service — Train Stops in Front of Burning Building, Streetcar Cuts Hose and Quits Loss Their Property.

"Our house is on fire," cried Mrs. Charles Belmont, Fourth street, between Taylor and Belmont, through her phone, this morning at a few minutes before 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Belmont rushed through the house, calling to the 25 guests to escape with their lives, aroused her husband from sleep and then ran into the street to find some way to carry the news to Chief Campbell's firemen. A man heard Mrs. Belmont's cries, and volunteered to turn in the alarm.

Without delay the doors of the engine-house opened and the teams dashed away to the fire. The guests were pouring from the burning structure, having snatched what clothing they could find, and men were gathering from that neighborhood to assist any who might be belated in their escape from the roaring flames and blinding smoke.

The firemen with their apparatus reached the hydrants at Fourth and Yamhill streets, and were about to connect the hose, when the Southern Pacific passenger train, bound out on the west side line, came in front of the burning house and stopped.

Five minutes elapsed before the engine pulled out and the firemen could adjust themselves to the unexpected interruption. Just as the delay caused by the train was ended a streetcar ran over and out the line of hose that was laid from a hydrant on Fifth street, and added to the firemen's troubles.

When once the department had overcome the obstacles so unexpectedly interposed, the fire was quickly extinguished. The loss aggregated about $5,000.
