

PORTLAND WINS BY A GARRISON

Ninth Inning Rally Produces Winning Run After Two Men Were Laid Away.

TACOMA USES THREE PITCHERS IN GAME

With a Good Lead Tacoma Ties Score in Seventh Inning—Long Contest in Which Sharp Fielding Played Prominent Part.

Portland 4, Tacoma 5.
Batteries—Corbett and McLean; Emerson, Keefe, Fitzgerald and Graham.
Portland passed Los Angeles in the pennant race yesterday by virtue of a victory over Tacoma and the Angels' defeat at the hands of the Seattle Siwash.
Yesterday's victory was earned, even though the winning run came in on an error. The locals were busy from the start. Emerson started to speed the sphere over the plate, but got frightened in a minute and with two on the circuit gave way to Bobby Keefe. By this time the Portlanders were rampant for trouble and as soon as Keefe began shooting the ball over the plate the McCredits began to send them in all directions. Before the top of the second inning four runs were on Portland's side of the ledger. Fitzgerald was called into action in the second inning and although he was touched up in every inning but two he succeeded in holding his opponents down fairly well. Portland executed one more in the sixth. Tacoma had a run to her credit in the first chapter and the Tigers were being mowed down like alfalfa by Teddy Corbett until Runkle's bad muff of an infield fly in the seventh after two were out. Three corking hits scored four runs and the score was five all. In the eighth Portland had a splendid chance to score, but a lightning double play left things as they were. In the first half of the ninth Graham led off with a single, but died on the circuit. In Portland's turn things came in a way that upset the nerves of the visitors and the winning tally was hustled across after two were out. Van Buren singled and Householder beat out a short punt while the Tacoma infield was holding a convention as to who should field the ball. McLean flew out and Cates fouled out. Larry Schlafly was beseeched for a hit, but Fitzgerald kept the ball rather wide and Larry two-stroke the fact. With the bases loaded for base, and the crowd yelling for a hit, an error or any other thing that would produce a run Runkle swung mightily and the ball rolled toward the pitcher's box. Fitzgerald picked it up, dropped it, picked it up again and juggled it again, and while the clever young twirler was doing these several fantastic stunts with the shimmering sphere "Daddy Long Legs" Van Buren had crossed the Rubicon with the winning run. The crowd was wild, the game was won, Ben My smiled, and the day was done.

Yesterday's game revealed some of the real speed of the Portland team. All fielding was brilliant and the work of his stop being the best of its kind ever seen in this city. The official score follows:

BRITTS AND SULLIVAN OFFER TO REFEREES

After a Number of Adjourned Meetings Principals and Managers Agree on Referee.

BRITTS AND SULLIVAN READY FOR BATTLE

Interest in Tomorrow Night's Contest Is Not So Keen as the Promoters Would Wish — Welch Is Considered a Judge of Fighting.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
San Francisco July 29.—Jack Welch will referee the Jimmy Britt-"Kid" Sullivan contest.

It took Willie Britt and Al Herford three days to come to the way of thinking. At least, that's the way it looked to the public.

When Willie and Al, representing, respectively, Jimmy and the "Kid," met in Morris Levy's palatial apartments in the Adams house Friday night, Herford started the ball.

"Who do you want?" he asked.

"Any fair man will suit us," replied Willie.

To the uninitiated it may be explained that conferences on the referee question invariably begin in that fashion.

After a suitable pause Britt added, "What's the matter with Billy Roche?"

Levy threw up his hands at this point and said emphatically that Roche could not preside over any of theistic functions arranged by the Hayes Valley club. Exit Billy Roche.

"What's the matter with Eddie Graney?" then asked Herford.

Britt proceeded to eulogize Graney. He said "little horsehooper" was one of the best judges of ring pastimes in the world, but that he was given to understand that sickness in the family would prevent Graney from acting.

Up to this time Jack Welch's name "was never mentioned." It was nobody's darling, apparently.

Herford said it might be a bad idea to ascertain if Graney was free to act. Then it was suggested that Jack Welch would be a good man to add to the list of possible ringmasters.

The meeting then adjourned until Saturday night at the same place.

When the roll was called Saturday evening it was intimated that Graney would accept the position if the choice was made unanimous.

Then Willie Britt said that while he still entertained the highest regard for Graney, such as a man and an analyst of boxing bouts, he was afraid there would be a repetition of charges made in the past to the effect that the Britts always schemed to have Graney chosen for referee.

Herford mumbled something and the meeting adjourned till Tuesday night.

When all the interested parties were in their places there was a landslide for Jack Welch. Graney was but a moment away from being forgotten entirely. Explanations were not demanded and were not volunteered. Britt said he understood Welch was satisfactory to all concerned and all concerned acquiesced.

There are several heartbreakers, however, with the selection of a referee, and the present instance is no exception to the rule. The friends of some of the candidates are saying that matters have reached a point where a boxer's individual opinion on the matter cuts little figure. The story goes that certain referees, who have officiated often enough to be recognized as professional judges of ring events, are in a position to influence service votes when it comes to the granting of permits for boxing matches.

The first consideration in the matter of picking a referee used to be, is he honest and capable? Now the question is, how many votes can he swing? It doesn't follow, of course, that a man cannot swing votes and be honest and capable as well.

But whether Jack Welch was really selected Tuesday night or was chosen by the vote of the outcast, the fact remains that he is a great judge of fighting. He purposes visiting Sullivan at San Rafael tomorrow and on the following day he will interview Britt in regard to the style of fighting he is to engage in Woodward's tomorrow evening.
