ARE YOU GOING AWAY?

Subscribers of The Journal who go away for a week or longer may have the paper stopped at their residence and sent to any address by mail at the regular rates, and collection will be made by regular carrier after return to the city, except at Long Beach and Seaside, where The Journal has a regular carrier delivery. Albert Olsen of Ilwaco, Washington, has charge of The Journal on Long Beach and Lewis & Co. of Seaside have charge of The Journal on Seaside or Clatsop beach. Delivery will be made at these two points at regular subscription rates. Give your change of address to your carrier or Phone Main 500 and prompt attention will be given all orders.

A clubhouse, six tennis courts and three bowling alleys, all to cost about $10,000, will be embraced in the new home of the Irvington Tennis club, now under construction. The clubhouse is located on ground 200x200 feet, on Thompson between East Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets. The building will be 32x100 feet, one story high and a portion of the roof will be fitted for seats with an awning. The house will contain a reception-room and amusement-hall 32x60 feet, a caretakers-room, a kitchen, dressing-rooms, lockers and shower baths and will have a wide veranda running the entire length of the north side. The Irvington Tennis club now numbers about 150 members and is growing rapidly. Its officers are: President, Walter A. Goss; vice-president, A. B. McAlpin; secretary, F. J. Raley; treasurer, Hobart A. Brown. These, with V. S. Hardy, Karl V. Lively, Edward Morse and W. K. Scott, comprise the directory. Mr. Scott is chairman of the house and grounds committee.

The Portland General Electric company's new mortgage, filed yesterday in the office of the county clerk, provides for immediate issuance of $4,000,000 bonds, and later disposition of $6,000,000 more as need for the money arises in purchasing additional properties or building plants. The company will use $2,500,000 immediately for refunding outstanding bonds of higher rates of interest, and something over $1,000,000 will be used for paying other indebtedness. The new bond issue is subscribed by Boston and New York banks. The mortgage is made in favor of the United States Mortgage Trust company of New York.

An enjoyable smoker was given at the Drew house, 162 Second street, last night by local union 189, Cooks' and Waiters' alliance. In the early part of the evening President Gram of the State Federation of Labor occupied the chair, and after his departure Gealc Downes, a member of the alliance, presided. Many members of other unions were present, short speeches were made by Messrs. Gram, Parsons, Leto, Gurr, Grossman and Tomlinson and an excellent program was rendered.

Wheat stalks 6 feet 3 inches high and heavily headed were brought to The Journal yesterday by Rev. David Wolfe, pastor of Boring Methodist Episcopal church, who raised the wheat on the Fitzpatrick farm, six miles southeast of Gresham. Had the roots been preserved and measured the bunch of wheat would have been 7 feet in length. "It is one of the most powerful arguments I ever knew of in support of the claim of Oregon's great fertility," said the grower.

The Northern Pacific's Twin City Express, leaving Portland last night at 11:15 o'clock narrowly escaped wrecking near Scappoose. The wrecker placed a piece of steel rail weighing about 700 pounds across the track at a point where there is a down grade, two miles west of Scappoose. The pilot of the engine caught the rail, bent it double, and carried it about 100 yards before the engineer could stop the train.

At Oregon City the Southern Pacific is constructing an underground crossing on Third street and an overhead crossing at another point. These are the first crossings other than surface to be built in that city. The company is making various improvements to cost about $20,000, in return for a perpetual franchise in certain streets.

P. L. McKenzie has begun suit in the state circuit court against the Southern Oregon Mining & Development company for $1,200 for money loaned and services performed.

Louis Schlesinger, a spiritualist physician, aged 83 years, was found guilty yesterday afternoon in the police court by Judge Cameron and fined $75 for practicing without a license. He was also fined $15 for assaulting Emily Heverin, who charged him with striking her because she demanded the return of $10 she had given him when his medicine failed to benefit her. The defense of the old man was that he accepted no fees and that the money was a gift.

James White, for many years with the Ladd & Tilton bank of this city, has been promoted and given a place in the Tacoma branch. Mr. White has been regarded as one of the most trusted and faithful employes of the bank, and his multitude of friends rejoice over the merited advancement. He and Mrs. White will leave this evening for their future home.

DR. LLOYD WILL NOT TAKE OFFICE

Recently Elected Bishop-Coadjutor Declines the Honor Offered in Oregon.

TELEGRAPHS REFUSAL TO DR. G. B. VAN WATERS

Controversy That Raged Over His Position Toward High and Low Church Elements Believed to Be Cause of Declination.

Rev. Frederick E. J. Lloyd, D. D., who was elected bishop-coadjutor for the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Oregon, will not accept the office. He telegraphed to Portland pastors that he had mailed a letter to this effect to the standing committee of the diocese, of which Rev. George B. Van Waters, D. D., rector of the St. David's church, is chairman. His action surprised the members of the Episcopal church here.

Immediately after his election at the recent diocesan convention, Rev. Dr. A. A. Morrison of Trinity church and four other pastors signed a protest against it, setting forth that Dr. Lloyd was a high churchman and that he had been presented to the convention in a nominating speech by Dr. Van Waters as a graduate of Oxford. These impressions, from subsequent statements, appeared to have been created under misapprehension; a counter protest was signed by many clergymen and lay delegates to the convention, and this was followed by a withdrawal of the protest and the assertion that Dr. Lloyd was satisfactory to the protestants.

Thought Matter Was Settled.

This was presumed to have settled the controversy and it was announced that nothing further remained to prevent the induction of Dr. Lloyd with the cordial support of all the clergy. His letter, which is addressed to Dr. Van Waters, explains his position, but the exact nature of its contents is not known and will not be until it has been received.

It was hoped by churchmen that the controversy over the high and low sections would be allayed by the withdrawal of the protest and the acceptance of Dr. Lloyd by those who signed it. Dr. Lloyd himself stated that he "would not be labeled," and that he held to the American interpretation of the prayer-book. He did not class himself with either the high or low churchmen, and said he was a minister to all churchmen alike.

The differences are not peculiar to this state, but have more or less convulsed the Protestant Episcopal church throughout the United States, while in England the Church of England has been torn into bitterly warring factions. The liberal or broad churchmen contend that the high church element is retroactive and that its disposition is to revert to the outward forms of papacy. Efforts to assuage the feelings of bitterness wherever the controversy has broken out have been almost uniformly futile, and in some portions of the United States the result has been that either one or the other of the sections has gained almost complete mastery of the situation.

The action that will be taken must await the meeting of the standing committee of the diocese, of which Dr. Van Waters is chairman and which will consider the letter of Dr. Lloyd when it shall have been received. It is not known whether or not a special election will be held or the choice of a coadjutor await the 1909 regular diocesan convention. Prior to formal action on Dr. Lloyd's letter of withdrawal the committee will make no announcements.

GRAVEL PITS SOURCE OF GREAT TROUBLE

Council Learns That Woodlawn Does Not Want Yawning Holes Dug Deeper.

Councilman A. N. Wills' resolution to reopen gravel pits within the city limits brought forth a strong protest from Councilman Vaughn of the tenth ward in the city council yesterday. An ordinance which prohibited the use of bank gravel in all street improvements was passed at the request of residents of Woodlawn, where yawning pits were dug by contractors, and contractors have complained that they could not secure gravel for their work other than that purchased from the gravel and sand trust and for which they had to pay an excessive price. They assert, too, that the river gravel does not make as satisfactory improvement as bank gravel.

As soon as Wills' resolution was read Councilman Vaughn secured recognition from the mayor and made an earnest plea in behalf of the residents of Woodlawn, who are opposed to the gravel pits in that vicinity.

The matter was laid on the table until the next meeting of the council and the gravel pits will be investigated by the members.

The council did not approve of the recommendations of the license committee to grant a blanket license to the Oaks for $300 a quarter exclusive of the saloon license and the matter was re-referred to the committee. Councilman Sharkey thought the Oaks company should pay the full amount prescribed by the general ordinances.

An ordinance was passed changing the number of members on the license committee from three to five, sewer and drainage from five to seven, streets from five to seven, ways and means from three to five and liquor license from five to seven.

BUT THE DOG CANNOT RETRIEVE THE HUSBAND

Edna Brown, whose color is black, is the possessor of a black and tan pup, which has the Raffles instinct and has been well trained. A short time ago, it is said, Millie Gray, whose hue is also ebony, stole Edna's husband, and in return Edna's pup stole Millie's pocketbook.

The women live in a lodging-house on Fifth street, between Everett and Flanders, next door to the Lake Charles hotel. Millie went to police headquarters and excitedly declared that she had dropped her purse, containing about $30, and that that there black and tan pup of Edna Brown's grabbed it and carried it to her."

Detective Snow was detailed to make an investigation. He found Edna in bed. She did not deign to rise.

"You'll find dat purse undah de bed, Mistah Snow," she said. "Mah pup toted it there and I hain't laid a hand on it. But I won't give it to dat low down black trash, 'cause she stole my husband. She's no good, and I'll make her ache yet."

Detective Snow returned the purse to Millie Gray. Edna Brown is said to be still minus a husband. The black and tan pup remains unharmed. The police, however, expect more trouble because of the husband, who weighs too much for the pup to retrieve for his mistress.

MRS. DUFOUR'S LIFE MADE MISERABLE BY ROUGHS

Captain of Police Moore was informed last night by Mrs. R. Dufour, aged 65 years, that hoodlums have been causing her a great deal of annoyance. She stated that shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon a fire was kindled against the side of her cabin and that on hearing the crackling of the flames she hurried out, and after hard work managed to extinguish the flames.

Mrs. Dufour says she has no enemies, and knows of no reason why anybody should wish to harm her. Some time ago a boulder crashed down the hill at the end of Sixth street and tore a corner off her cabin. Whether this was an accident or not is unknown. Hoodlums, she declares, have frequently tossed rocks on her roof from the bluff above and have killed her chickens.

The police will make an investigation, and if they find the fire to have been the work of hoodlums will endeavor to bring the guilty persons to justice.

Will Speak on African Missions.

Willis R. Hotchkiss of the Friends' church, who has just returned from a six years' service in Africa, will speak at the White Temple tonight. Mr. Hotchkiss has been wonderfully successful in introducing industrial and agricultural pursuits in his field and soon returns there with more helpers for his work.

There Is No Nonsense About This

If your linen is sent to us it is washed in our woof-protecting washers—the kind that does not rub the life out of the fabric—and all such delicate garments as collars and cuffs are polished with our steam-heated polishers, and these do not weaken the fiber of the goods as do those made hot by gas. Steam heat doesn't burn; all others do. We have the only steam-heated polishers in Oregon.

LOWLY PRUNE DELIGHT TO EPICURES

Santa Clara County Has Unique Way of Proving Value of the Fruit.

Santa Clara county, California, the land of the prune, has devised an unique method of advertising that section at the Lewis and Clark exposition. People think of prunes as a very common food, but visitors at the Santa Clara booth in the Agricultural building have been shown that dozens of the most tempting dishes can be made from the fruit.

Mrs. George E. Hyde, wife of a prominent prune orchardist of San Jose, and her son C. E. Hyde, have charge of the demonstration room. Mrs. Hyde is an excellent cook and every day makes half a dozen different dishes from prunes which she serves to visitors. Frequently as many as 500 a day test the delicacies and all are surprised that prunes can be cooked into such tempting dishes.

Not only is the fruit served to visitors but to each is given a small sample box of prunes and a book containing 100 or more receipts for cooking the fruit. There are 1,500,000 prune trees in full bearing in Santa Clara county.

UTAH SHOWS MODEL CONCENTRATING MILL

A unique exhibit at the exposition is a model concentrating mill displayed in the Utah building and installed at the expense of $7,500. It is a complete concentrating plant and illustrates every step in this important mining operation. The mill will make its initial run tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and will be in operation daily.

Large quantities of Utah gold, silver, copper and lead ores will be run through this mill for the entertainment and instruction of visitors, and after the exposition closes it will be installed in the Utah State School of Mines. Robert H. Bradford, Ph. D., is director of Utah's mining exhibit and Spencer Clawson is manager of the building.

FAIR'S MAGNETISM DRAWS MAYOR FROM SALT LAKE

Mayor R. P. Morris of Salt Lake City is visiting the exposition as the guest of Spencer Clawson, manager of the Utah building. Mr. Morris is prominent in Utah politics and a member of the Mormon church. Without question he will be reelected next fall. Although the city administration is busily engaged with the issuance of $1,000,000 worth of water bonds, the mayor could not resist the magnetic qualities of the Lewis and Clark show. He will remain in the city for several days.

Salvation Army's New Hall.

The Salvation Army corps No. 1, which for years had its hall at 128 First street, has moved to 190 Fourth street. Special services have been arranged for next Saturday evening, when Rev. Mr. McComb, the street preacher, will conduct a song and praise service. Sunday at 3 and 8 p. m. Major and Mrs. Fynn will conduct their farewell meeting, and Wednesday, July 26, a "hallelujah wedding" will take place.

Jewish Charity Problem.

Several short addresses will be given tomorrow evening in the course of the service on "The Jewish Charity Problem." The speakers are to be Julian Mack, president of the National Conference of Jewish Charities and Correction and judge of the juvenile court of Chicago; Nathan Bijur, president of the New York Conference of Charities and Correction, and Dr. L. K. Frankel, manager of the United Hebrew Charities of New York. Services begin at 8 o'clock.

Last car leaves Gladstone for East Washington street at 10:25 p. m. For further information call telephone East 527.

Lectures on Ideal Woman.

Jane Brewster is here from Chicago and will give a course of lectures on "The Ideal Woman" in the lecture room of the Unitarian church, beginning Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Miss Brewster approaches the ideal woman from many standpoints—mental, physical, social; how she should be governed at home, as well as away from home, treating the subject in complete detail. The lecture is free and the ladies are cordially invited, so that all "types of women" may be there.

Woodmen Celebration in August.

Last night Neighbors A. T. Barbur, C. C. Bradley, J. J. Jennings and State Organizer Day of Portland made a fraternal visit to Vancouver camp. The neighbors in Washington are coming in full force to take part in the Woodmen of the World day at the fair and help to make the celebration of August 3 to 6 one long to remembered.

SMALL BOY GREAT TRAIN JUMPER

James Alva Robinson Traveled Forty Thousand Miles and Never Paid a Penny.

BAGGAGE CARS OR BRAKE BEAMS WERE GOOD ENOUGH

His Stick Is Notched With Four Trips From New York to San Francisco and Other Long Distance Jaunts.

Within the last two years James Alva Robinson, aged 14, has traveled 40,000 miles and never paid a cent for transportation. His itinerary includes four trips from New York to San Francisco and return, three from New York to Chicago and return, two from Chicago to New Orleans and Mobile and thence to New York by way of St. Louis, and one to Portland from New York.

In addition to these long distance trips the lad has made many comparatively shorter trips, though they frequently covered much territory. When taken to the station this morning by Patrolman Kilgore, who took him into custody near the fair grounds, he said he had been in every large city in the country.

Robinson is exceedingly bright, is an accomplished speller and remembers dates with astonishing facility. He was sent before the juvenile court with Thorpe White, aged 15 years, arrested by Patrolman Oelsner. White's mother lives at Centralia, Washington, and he says that she left him there without a cent and told him to get work, when she returned to Centralia.

"My parents are dead," said young Robinson. "I have been living with a coachman named Palmer at West Seventy-fifth street and Amsterdam avenue, New York City. He gave me a home after I had made two trips to San Francisco; on the second I went to New York by way of Phoenix, Arizona. I usually ride the 'blind baggage' or in the Baker heaters on the trains. I have been traveling two years, and in that time I guess I have traveled about 40,000 miles.

"When I left here my intention was to go to San Francisco. There I usually get work for a short time around the Ingleside racetrack. I have a friend there named Nolan Persico, who runs a restaurant at 713 Ocean avenue, and I stay with him.

"For a while before coming here I worked in a restaurant at Baker City for A. C. Brinkman. Another boy, named Oula Roderiques, a Spanish fellow, who has been dubbed 'Pinole,' started out from Buffalo with me on my last trip. I guess he is out at the fair grounds. We traveled on the New York Central, the Michigan & Lake Shore, the Rock Island, the Union Pacific and the Oregon Short Line on this trip.

"Yes, I'll be glad to get a position and go to work. I'm tired of traveling for a while. Mr. Hawley is going to fix me up all right."

The boy had tobacco and cigarette papers, which were taken from him. He also carried a piece of soap, but did not look as if he ever used it.

"I haven't had time to wash up yet," he explained, "because the 'cop grabbed' me right after I got here."

FINE PROGRAMS WILL BE HEARD TOMORROW
