BOTH SIDES TRYING TO GET RIGHT OF WAY

Present Indications Are That Rall way Will Soon Be Built Through hory and Construction May start construction work within 60 days.

The right of way has been practically secured and there is nothing in the way at the present time to interfere with the early construction of the road.

A party of O. R. & N. officials arrived this week including General Manager O'Brien, R. B. Miller, general traffic agent; J. W. Morrow, right of way seent and R. C. Judson, industrial agent, most of whom are now in Wallowa county on a four of inspection, J. W. Morrow, the right of way agent for the O. R. & N., is buying the right of way down the Grand Roads river and is paying cash for the same. In some instances he has secured the right of way over J. W. Cook, who-holds bonds for a dead, and guarantees to stand all litigation that may arise between the land owners and J. W. Cook.

G. B. B. Will Briens.

Mr. Morrow stated this morning that the O. R. & N. would extend their line to the mouth of the Wallowa river this year and that active work would complete in a short time.

The presence of the Q. R. & N. officials here has created quite an excitegant and already there is much appearance in the last seven days indicates that he intends that his firm shall

The revaling opinion here is that the Cook party is in earnest and means business and that it will force the O. R. & N. company to extend its line into Wallows county to protect its territory. In any event, it seems certain that Wallows county will have a railroad this year, whether it be built by the O. Speaking with Mr. Carson yesterday relative to his castern trip and buying expedition, he said:

"During my absence I visited Chicago, Cincinnatt, New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Haverhill, Columbus, Portsmouth, Lynn and other shoe manufacturing centers, and from the factories selected a tremessons stock of shoes, many specially adapted to this climate, at prices, because of my spot cash proposition, I am sure are beyond all ordinary comprehension. Spokane. July 22.—Otis Delacy, a waiter in the Central cafe, was shot and killed at 18:30 o'clock last night by James Waison, a switchman, for refusing to serve him. Three shots were fired by the murderer, the first missing the waiter, the second striking him in his back and passing entirely through the body, and the third shattering the left arm.

COLLINS FIGHTS HARD TO RESIST EXTRADITION

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Victoria, B. C., July 22—In the Collins extradition case yesterday' the San Francisco lawyer completed his address in support of his contention that no perjury was committed according to the Canadian laws, therefore no extradition was possible, and also that even if proved he had committed perjury it was not an extraditable offense. On the latter point he held that Canada would have to pass upon statutory authority for the judiciary to act on and that a treaty could not be acted upon by a judiciary. The latest law of Canada excluded perjury from its enumeration of extraditable offense.

Attorney Higgins, appearing for the prosecution, contended that the treaty must be interpreted in a liberal way, quoting Canadian and American authorities for it. He argued that all that was necessary was to show that perjury was committed, according to the Canadian practice, taking into account that the facts and conditions in California were in existence here. The court took the matter under consideration.

POLICE OFFER REWARD FOR ACID THROWER

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Walla Walla, Wash., July 22.—'Jack, the Acid Thrower,' is still the reigning sengation in Walla Walla. After two days' inactivity this mysterious individual invaded the gymnasium at Whitman college and doused with acid the clothes of several young men bathing in the swimming tank. The clothes had been left hanging in the dressing-room, and an entrance to the room was effected through a back door.

Exasperated at the inability of the police to hunt down the man, Chief Brown yesterday afternoon offered $20 to any person giving information that will lead to his capture. Reports of clothing damaged by some powerful acid still continue to pour in to police head-quarters, and the officers are deeply chagrined that so far they have been unable to land the man.

(Special Dispetch to The Journal.)

Paradine Valley, Wash., July 22.—The Massama camp is descried today, nearly all the mountain climbers having started off on long trampe in various directions. Rodiney Glisan, with a party of five. 1997 to 1998 the fighest point of the Tatoush range. General Hazard Stevens is guiding another party to Gibraltar rock far, up on Mount Rainier, Professor Landes, geologist of the State university, with some scientifically inclined Massamas, has gone to the Niequally glacier. Here he is to meet Professor Le Conte, a well-known geologist of California, who will take measurements to ascertain the movement of the glacier. Still another party, with Professor Lyman of Walla Walla as its leader, is exploring the crevasses of Paradise and Cowlitz glaciers.

Gibraltar rock is the great and almost only obstacle which the mountain climbers have to encounter in reaching the summit of Rainier. At the base of Gibraltar is Camp Muir, where climbers stop the night before they begin their final ascent. The south side of Gibraltar is the one which has heretofore been taken by all climbers since General Stevens made the first ascension. But changes during the last season rendered it impossible to reach the top from this side, as an immense crevasse, hundreds of feet in depth, has developed.

Mr. Washburn of Salem went to the top and back last Monday, so there is no doubt as to whether Rainier can be ascended now. No woman will be allowed to climb Rainier unicss the outing committee is satisfied that she has the strength and endurance for the final climb.

Bankers Find That Postoffice and Express Companies Get Most of This Business.

PLAN TO REGAIN IT NOT FAVORED BY MEETING

Washington State Association Does Not Approve of Action of National Body in Making Surety Company Sponsor for the Drafts.

The debate in the Washington State The debate in the Washington State Bankers' association yesterday revealed some facts with reference to the inroad made in the bankers' business by the federal and express money orders. The committee on resolutions expressed its approval of the attitude of the American Bankers' association in the matter of bank money orders. The national association has assisted in the flotation of a plan for the issuance of bank money sociation has assisted in the flotation of a plan for the issuance of bank money orders to take the place of ordinary drafts, and the American Surety company is officially the voucher for the validity of all such money orders issued by any member of the association.

Discussion brought out the fact that for five or six years the bankers had been considering measures to popularize credit paper issued by banking houses for transmission of money to distant points. The growth of the business done by the postoffice department in money orders and the consequent adoption by express companies of a plan for issuance of money orders in competition with the United States had in a measure interfered with the exchange departments of banks, and means were taken to recover and hold this business.

The bank money order was the result, and this has been adopted by a number

Would Engrender Prerogetives.

N. B. Coffman of Chehalis, Washington, was the chief opponent of the committee's resolution. E. Shorrack of Seattle and others supported him, and the result was that the resolution was laid on the table.

"This would mean that the bankers would surrender to the American Surety company their own prerogatives," said Mr. Coffman, "and, furthermore, it would mean that many of us, national bankers, for instance, who are subjected to rigid inspection by government agents, would rest for security of these bank money orders on an institution that was not accountable to any system of inspection. While I have the utmost confidence in the surety company as now manned, we know that the possession of the monopoly this plan would give would constitute a temptation which human nature would find it difficult to resist. Who would know what was going on behind the doors of that surety company? Who would know whether or not the profits accruing from the general issuance of bank money orders would not so mostly to the surety company?

A radical step, however, was to take action in favor of an amendment to the national banking law, permitting the lending of funds deposited in national banks on real estate. The present law prohibits it. It is known, however, that national bankers find means whereby to circumvent this law and although the books of national banks never show money lent on realty, millions are constantly lent on that class of property.

The Oregon State Bankers association was formed yesterday at the American Inn, by the adoption of articles of incorporation and by-laws and the election of J. Frank Watson of the Merchants National bank of Portland, president; E. V. Carter, Bank of Ashland, vice president; J. L. Hartman, Portland clearing house, secretary; W. E. Grace. Apperson, McMinnville bank; W. H. Dunckley, Ladd & Tilton's hank, Portland.

The form of the organisation is the same as that under which the Washington state bankers have worked for the past ten years, with such amendments as were adopted lately to make the regulations conform somewhat to the form of the American Bankers association. Although only 36 Oregon bankers were present yesterday, it is understood that the bankers of the state quite generally agree that their interests demand organisation.

When the Oregon association is per-social it will ask the legislature to enact tatures bearing on the regulation of anks. The Washington association yes-irday adopted a resolution favoring a tw for the regulation of state banks.
