through the white palaces and across the landscape. It was a glorious affair—this Saengerbund concert—and thanks to the patriotism of the Fatherland, it was heard by as many people as could crowd their way into the Auditorium, at 31 apiece. To Paul Wessinger, the president, and his able assistants, no end of credit is due for the complete success of the event.

It is doubtful if a larger and better male chorus was ever heard in the northwest. They sang with wonderful volume and yet the work was admirably shaded. Each German put his spirit into the exquisite sentiment of the dainty songs he heard at home, or threw back his shoulders with the pride of Bismarck and shouted the ponderous praises of some native hero. My knowledge of the German tongue is limited—extremely limited—but I don't believe there was a man, woman or child in the Auditorium last night who failed to catch the spirit of the choristers. It is sounds rather than sentiment that makes these festivals supreme, as proved in my individual case.

"The Jewish Charity Problem" was discussed last night at Temple Beth Lerael by Julian Mack, judge of the Chicago juvenile court and president of the National Conference of Jewish Charities; Nathan Bijur, president of the New York State Conference of Charities and Correction and vice-president of the United Hebrew Charities of New York, and Dr. L. K. Frankel, manager of the United Hebrew Charities of New York. The condition of an unfortunate class of Hobrews who have come to this country seeking religious freedom was discussed and it was the sense of the meeting that every well-to-do Jew should assist one or more of his fellow-countrymen.

The Eureka cadets will give a free entertainment in the Auditorium Tuesday evening. When they marched into Portland last Thursday they bore a banner saying "We hiked 510 miles," and during that long march they gave numerous entertainments to defray theig expenses. In the California building on the avenation grounds they have been giving entertainments.

of every man and woman who has visited the model fire station.

He was a weak-eyed, bow-legged little puppy when a big fireman found him wandering about down town and brought him to the fair grounds. That was four months ago and since that time he has endeared himself to firemen on the force and to every one who visited the station. When the alarm sounded he knew just what it meant and was instantly in front of the horses, barking and adding to the elamor of the alarm. As the horses thundered out of the station into the road he ran ahead, still barking wildly. Yesterday the driver was forced to make a sharp turn and skyrockat falled to see how close the horses were. They were almost upon him when he did discover it, and it was then that his puppy awkwardness led him beneath their heavy hoofs.

One blow from the heavy iron shoe sent him whirling in front of the yagon and a great wheel passed over his body before the driver could check the horses. To succeed the late Skyrockat in their affections, the firemen have accured a young coyote, which has been named "Major." One of the traveling show people that arrived at the exposition found him when he was very young in the Snake river region in eastern Oregon and blought him to this city. Later he became the property of Lieutenant Ed McDonald of the exposition fire station, and has taken the place of Skyrocket. He is not as popular as was the dog because he rebuffs a great many advances that are made. However, his number of friends is rapidly increasing.

The general session was in charge of the committee on visiting nurses. Miss Jane Elisabeth Hitchcock presided and read a paper on "The Field of the Visiting Nurse." Miss Lucy B. Fisher of San Francisco spoke on "The Visiting Nurse as an Economic Factor." Miss Lina Rogers of New York read a paper on "The surse in the Public Schools." The convention will be held in Eallsdeiphia next year.

The two companies of the Tenth United States infantry, stationed at the exposition, have daily drills and parades which are proving interesting to visitors. Notable Democrats Say the Dissures of Graft in Philadelphia Will Give Their Party Thousa of Votes This Year.

A party of 18 people, guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hall of Ridgway, Pennsylvania, and Mr. and Mrs. P. Gray Meek of Bellefonte, Pennsylvania, arrived Tuesday in the private car "Twinight," and will leave tomorrow night for the east via Seattle and the Canadian Pacific.

"I have no live."

"The city of Portland has grown, but the rural districts have not got the population they should have. The people do not fill up the state and develop its natural resources. The soil is, I am told, extremely prolific, and rewards the tiller with immense crops."

Mr. Meek is editor of the Democratic Watchman at Bellefonte, and is an exsenator and present secretary of the state Democratic committee in Pennsylvania. Mr. Hall is an ex-congressman and chairman of the Democratic state committee. Some years ago he purchased a large tract of Pennsylvania land covered with hemiock timber to supply a sawmill in which he was interested. After the timber was cut the land was found to be underlaid with coal, and below that they struck oil. Mr. Hall was made a very rich man by these discoveries.

BRIDGES AND FERRIES

When plans and specifications for the repairs to the Madison street bridge are prepared by County Surveyor Richmond, the county court will consider the matter of insuring the bridges and ferries. Marine insurance will be secured for the ferries and fire insurance for the bridges.

Judge Webster suggested the idea to ex-Judge Cake, who said he had thought of the matter after the Standard Oil firs, which destroyed the east approach of the Madison street bridge in 1902.

The burning of the Madison street bridge caused a big loss to the county. The east approach was well repaired, but since then the west spans have become more or less dilapidated through the passage of the heavy oil wagons. Judge Webster says that under the specifications Mr. Richmond is preparing the decking will hold as long as the piers will last.

HOULD not miss seeing the beauties of the Lower Columbia River from the decks of the "T. J. Potter," queen of river boats. Historic in interest and peerless in the picturesque beauty of its surroundings, the mighty Columbia River, with a flow at times of over 1,600,000 cubic feet of water every second—greater than the Mississippi or Saint Lawrence ever attains—fed by the everlasting snowfields and glaciers, gracefully winds its way through the Pacific Northwest, growing in size until at a point fifteen miles above its mouth it reaches the remarkable width of seventeen miles. At North (Long) Beach the bathing is unsurpassable. Go down on the "Potter" and take a dip in the Pacific ocean. Particulars and O. R. & N. ment that makes these festivals supreme, as proved in my individual case. Among the favorite numbers last night, Koschat's "Verlassen, Verlassen," and its companion piece, Kremser's "Altneiderlandisches Volkslied," seemed easily to lead. They are exquisite melodies and were executed as delicately as a woman handles real Valenciennes. But the great "Largo," with orchestral accompaniment—a most excellent orchestra, too—was thrilling to the last note. There was no number, in fact, that the audience would not have heard repeated. Great Congress of Prohibitionists and Similar Organizations to Meet Here.

The temperance congress, in connection with the Lewis and Clark fair, for which the Prohibitionists and similar organizations have been planning for some months, promises to be a farreaching attraction. All parts of the United States will be well represented, and delegates will come from New Zealand and other distant lands.

The dates assigned to the organizations that expect to take part are as follows: Tuesday, September 19, Independent Order of Good Templars, and Woman's Prohibition Club of America; Wednesday, Anti-Saloon League of America; Thursday, Intercollegiate Prohibition Oratorical association; Friday, National Prohibition alliance; Saturday, Woman's Christian Temperance union. of Liberati's band, who sang the familiar and often downtrodden prologue to "Il Pagliacci" with splendid dramatic force and received a double encore on his "Toreador" song from "Carmen." Begue's voice is large, round and full of warmth. If the public realised what treats he gives daily there would be more people around the exposition band-stand.

Before the opening of the concert, Mayor Lane delivered a few "jollies" to the Germans, afterward assuring them

The Denver & Rio Grande has issued a pamphiet describing the method of opening the Ulntah Indian reservation to settlement, and giving information for prospective settlers. Homesteaders must register at Grand Junction, Colorado, Vernal, Price or Provo, Utah, between August 1 and 12. All applicants excepting ex-soldiers or sailors must appear in person. A public drawing will be held at Provo, commencing August 17, at which time the numbers of all registered applicants will be publicly drawn and certificates issued in their turn. Final entry will begin on August 28, at the Vernal office. Each applicant on registering and receiving his number will be allowed to enter the reservation and select his land, but no settlements can be made until after the drawing. The only cost of entry is the usual fees under the homestead laws. Upon making final proof, after five years' residence on the land, the settler will be required to pay the government $1.25 an acre. ARE HIS BEST PLUMS Luther Burbank, the agricultural wizard, has on exhibition in the California building at the exposition his new hybrid plum. It is the result of grafting two plums of widely different character, of a golden red color, full, round and meaty, and almost as large as an apple.

What Mr. Burbank thinks of this is shown in a letter from Santa Rosa, California. California.
"This is, I think," he writes, "taking all its superior qualities into consideration, the best plum which I have yet produced."

There are 12 of them and they will be known as the Santa Rosa plum.
