People May Not Tear Up Pave ments in Future Without City Engineer's Permit.

DEPOSIT MUST BE MADE TO COVER REPAIRING

City Executive Board Demands The tors and Contractors Shall Do Their Work With More Regard for Public Good.

When any firm or corporation desires to open any hard-pavement street for the purpose of laying gas mains, telephons conduits or electric cables or for any other purpose, a permit must be obtained from the city engineer and a deposit made to cover the cost of restoring the street to its former condition. Contractors who laid the pavement and hold the maintenance contract are to be given the opportunity of repairing the streets where torn up.

That was one of the rules adopted yesterday by the street committee of the city executive board. It is designed to protect the city and the contractor who is under contract to maintain the street in good condition for a number of years. The rule will be strictly enforced and will eliminate much of the trouble which the city has been having with individuals who cut holes in the hard-surface attreets. The order will apply to the city water department as well as to private individuals.

Prominent Property Owner Says There Can Be No Reaction Next Year.

VISITORS CANNOT MAKE CHANGE IN SINGLE YEAR

C. K. Larrabee Calls Attention to Several Reasons Why Portland Should Profit Most by Fair in Next Four or Five Years.

"The succeeding four or five year will surely bring more direct results to the city than the year of the fair," will surely bring more direct results to the city than the year of the fair," said Charles X. Larrabee this morning.

Mr. Larrabee is president of the Oregon Real Estate company, and one of the heavy operators of the city. His views of the local realty situation and the reasons advanced for reaching them, are interesting:

"The people visiting Portland this year are possessed of more than average means," he continued. "This fact is attested by their ability to make a long trip and the manner in which they enjoy themselves and take opportunities for seeing the country. It follows that these people have property and business at home. They have come this year to see, leaving their interests at home as they have existed for years.

"Assuming that many of these well-to-do visitors have been impressed with the country they are viewing, as they express themselves, it would be one to five years before they could shape their affairs satisfactorily for the change. They will have to dispose of present holdings and then they will have to make their selection of property or business to be taken in this country. It follows that considerable time will be required to consummate all of this, and we cannot reasonably expect material addition to our population from this source under one year, and the heaviest accretion fue to the fair advertising may not be realized under two to five years. In fact, it will be felt for 16 years or more indirectly. ments will be made. All specials must be of good more character and consens the week of the chief of polics.

make the trip purely as a pleasure tour are more limited. Our fair is in sharp contrast with the other expositions in this respect. People visited Chicago and St. Louis to see the fair, and not the country. We are favored with greater throngs of outsiders than we expected, which indicates to my mind that the interest of the eastern people in the resources and opportunities of the northwest is greater than we expected.

"With so much evidence that the country views this region and city as of great opportunities, I say that the results of the fair will be realized later. Portland will derive vast good from the Portland will derive vast good from the work done this year, but we will enter upon enjoyment of this prosperity at a later period. Instead of the succeeding years promising a reaction, there is every possible assurance that we will just begin to reap the harvest next year, and thereafter our reward will be even heavier."

$16 RIFLES AT $2.75.

Firearms at Almost To Price At All.

W. Stokes Kirk of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, dealer in United States army and navy supplies, as rifles, clothing, hayonets, swords, haversacks, curiosities, etc., has installed a tremendous stock of these goods in the Merrill building, Seventh and Oak streets, and will some day next week inaugurate a stupendous sale. For example, he will sell for $2.75 a 45-calibre Springfield rifle that cost the government $16 to manufacture. These rifles are probably the best for general use of any firearms of this class in the world, and these offered here are in every respect as good as when absolutely new. They have been the standard rifle in the United States army and National Guard for more than 20 years, and are still the rifle used by the scouts and constabulary of the Philippine Islands, a sufficient proof that there is no better gun made for the hunter, sportaman, rancher or home protector. This lgt of rifles were made in 1898, have been little used, have had the best of care and were condemned only because a gun of smaller bore was adopted. One of these will pierce a two-bit piece at 85 yards at any time, were sighted to shoot accurately one mile, and with elevated sight will carry a ball two miles with surprising effectiveness. In fact, if the gun is good enough for the Spanish war and our present frontiersmen, they are surely good enough for the Spanish war and our present frontiersmen, they are surely good enough for any one. Any army or national guardsman will aquiesce in this, and at $2.75 are certainly cheap enough to be standing in the corner of every home in the country, if only that the housewife might have it for self protection when the head of the family is absent. Ammunition for these rifles is sold by all sporting goods houses in the United States. Cartridge company and Peters & Co. Gobbi states that he was riding his wheel on the sidewalk on East First street. July 27, when the officer arrested him.
