

Here's the Difference

Cheap Clothes are found everywhere. Some are cheap at a small price, others are cheap but sold at a big price.

In any case, cheap clothes are priced out of proportion to their real value and give neither pleasure nor profit to the wearer during their existence.

Good Clothes at a low price that give value in wear, in style and in fit are a matter of economy and satisfaction.

Such Clothes are inexpensive — not cheap. There's a distinction with a difference.

On account of the large volume of business we do we are able to sell thoroughly Good Clothes at a low price—inexpensive but not cheap.
