RECORD BLACK IN THIS CASE

Probate Court Documents Tend to Prove Partnership of Upton and Riddell.

PAPERS PREPARED BEFORE INQUEST WAS BEGUN

District Attorney Will Begin a Searching Examination Into Methods Pursued in Estate Matters When Judge Decides Jansen Case.

Another case was taken from the records of the probate court today tending to prove the partnership between Jay H. Upton, as bailiff of the court, and H. H. Riddell as an attorney to whom Upton threw all the legal business he could control.

In this the record shows that the petition for the appointment of an administrator of the estate of Otto Panier was written and attested by Upton as notary public six days before the identity of Panier had been established by the coroner. If the facts indicated by the records are not explained, and careful scrutiny has so far failed to offer any satisfactory explanation, they will be regarded as indisputable proof that Riddell and Upton, in this case as in many others, used the court for all the business in which it was apparent there would be any fees.

Otto Panier was drowned by the overturning of a barge owned by the Oregon Round Lumber company, of which D. C. O'Reilly is manager and proprietor. The accident occurred December 28. Four days previously Mr. O'Reilly leased the barge to the Portland & Asiatic Steamship company. O'Reilly did not know the name of Panier. The body of Panier was at the bottom of the Willamette river several days.

Had Petition Prepared.

Panier's identity was not established by law until January 5, when Coroner Finley held an inquest, which Riddell attended, asserting that he was representing the heirs. When asked who were the heirs, he refused to say, but said he had a telegram from them asking him to look out for their interests.

The day of the inquest, when it was finally proved that the name of the deceased was Otto Panier, a petition was filed with Judge Webster, setting forth that Panier had no relatives in the state, and that it was necessary for an administrator to be appointed. B. D. Strauhal was appointed administrator and Riddell was his counsel.

This petition was dated January 5, but the certificate attached in which Upton attested the document was dated December 31, six days before the proof of the man's identity had been adduced.

These facts appear to indicate that Upton and Riddell prepared the papers for filing and were compelled to withhold them from the record until they learned the name of the deceased, whom they did not know, and in whom they had not the remotest interest excepting that that arose from a desire to procure fees.

Riddell Brought Suit.

Riddell as counsel for Administrator Strauhal brought suit against the Oregon Round Lumber company, the Portland & Asiatic Steamship company and the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company for $5,000 for the death of Panier. The case was nonsuited by the circuit court, and Riddell appealed it, alleging that the administrator had instructed him to do so. It now pends in the supreme court.

In the entire record of the estate in the probate court and in the circuit court there is no reference to any heirs, and so far as the court has been advised there are no heirs.

Strauhal made no appearance in the circuit court at the trial of the damage case, which lasted two days.

Jay Upton appeared today before the district attorney and stated that he was ready at any time to make a statement under oath, after which District Attorney Manning said:

"Although I have been gathering evidence for several days, I have awaited the rendering of a decision in the Rudolph Jansen estate before taking up actively the inquiry. I shall of course then ask the county judge to cooperate with me in probing the matter to the bottom."

Today it was learned that John Erickson, an important witness in the Jansen case, had packed his trunk and was ready to leave the city. A subpoena was issued for him by the district attorney's office and served at once.

Riddell's Conflicting Testimony.

Further inquiry into the status of H. H. Riddell, as a lawyer before the bar, today confirmed the previous reports that he had made a statement with the distinct understanding that he was to be regarded under oath, and later as a sworn witness admitted that his former assertion was untrue.

It was in connection with the check paid by the Consolidated company for the death of Jansen. Agreeing that he was to be regarded under oath, Riddell made a statement in court to the effect that R. W. Ruffin received the $2,500 check from the company, retained $750 and paid the balance to Riddell. Later as a witness he admitted that he himself received the check and paid the $750 to Ruffin. He furthermore went before the district attorney and asked for a warrant for the arrest of Ruffin for larceny of the $750. He asked the district attorney to have Herman Jansen, brother of the deceased, sign the complaint, but District Attorney Manning insisted upon Riddell signing it before he would issue it, and Riddell signed the complaint charging Ruffin with larceny of the $750 which he himself had paid to Ruffin in the form of a check.

Tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock Judge Webster will render a decision in the Rudolph Jansen case, ruling on the petition filed by Attorney Frank Schlegel as counsel for the Swedish consul, Endre M. Cederbergh, for the removal of R. C. Scott from the administratorship of the estate.

Mr. North's Statement.

W. C. North, who was guardian of the estate of P. E. Wendland, insane, has explained his connection with the estate in a manner that reflects credit on his acts. Mr. North says:

"I chanced one day to be in the office of the county judge, when Wendland was there for examination, or when he had been examined, and was informed that a guardian was to be appointed, and I was asked if I would serve. I stated that it was a matter of indifference to me, but that if it would assist the court I would consent. I was named, and did the best I could with the business until one day a Lutheran minister came to me with Gustave Wendland, brother of the insane man, and stated that he wanted to be named as guardian. I was very glad to be freed from further responsibility in the premises and asked the court to relieve me, which was done."

The records in the case show that Mr. North's statement is true in every particular.

Riddell was the attorney in the case, and it was through his initiative and that of Jay H. Upton that action was taken at all. Without personal interest in the insane man's affairs they moved for the appointment of a guardian, and it chanced that Mr. North came into the office and he was asked to serve. His acceptance of the trust was purely from a desire to serve one who was afflicted, but he made no move in the matter and only responded to what he thought was an appeal to him as a citizen in behalf of another who was in trouble.

PUT OFF TRAIN AND WILL SUE RAILROAD

M. V. Bishop, the commercial traveler who was put off the train on the Forest Grove line of the Southern Pacific at Bertha June 7 for refusing to hand over his ticket to the conductor because the company would not furnish him a seat, declared today that he was preparing to bring a suit against the railway company for heavy damages.

Bishop, who is employed by Gaar-Scott & Co., threshing machine manufacturers, boarded the train for McMinnville. There were no vacant seats on the train, and when the conductor came to collect the tickets he told the conductor he would not give his up until the company furnished him with a seat. The conductor left, but returned the second time for the ticket, but failing to secure it came back a third time and then proceeded to put Bishop off the train at Bertha. Bishop returned to Portland and went to McMinnville by another route.

The suit will be brought on the ground that the ticket called for a first-class passage on the train, which included a seat, and that the company failed to supply him with the seat, thereby forfeiting its right to collect the ticket.

NEW HARRIMAN ENGINES TO BE BIGGEST YET

J. P. O'Brien, general manger of the Harriman railroad lines in the Pacific northwest, who has returned from a week's absence on the road, visited all important points in eastern Washington and Idaho, and made a general inspection trip. Replying to a question regarding equipment on the Harriman lines and the locomotive on exhibition by the Southern Pacific company at the exposition, Mr. O'Brien said:

"The big locomotive is not extraordinary on the lines in the Pacific northwest. We have 15 of them in service on the main line in eastern Oregon, and some of them are larger than the engine at the fair. The largest ones are passenger locomotives. We expect to have eight new ones within a short time that will be larger than the locomotive at the fair."

PLANS APPEAL TO BUSINESS MEN

Chamber of Commerce Interested in Cooperative Christian Federation's Projects.

WALLIS NASH ASKED TO HAVE ADDRESS PUBLISHED

Harney County Land, Now Swamp, Reported to Be Fitted for Production of Sugar Beets in Quantities to Keep Big Factory in Operation.

In an address before the trustees of the Portland chamber of commerce, Wallis Nash, counsel for the Cooperative Christian Federation, set forth the plans and objects of the movement to establish in Oregon the greatest colonization undertaking in the history of the country, acquire large areas of land and build model towns. His address was listened to with deep interest, and he was requested to place his statements in writing, to enable the trustees to give them further study.

Mr. Nash dwelt on the point that Oregon lands, as well as productive properties of all sorts, are advancing in value, and will get much higher in the next five or ten years. He cited the French-Glenn ranch of 140,000 acres in Harney county as an example of the federation's development plans. This estate includes large areas of lands adapted to the production of sugar beets, wheat, general agriculture, stock-raising and other purposes. He said a Marion dredge is at work in a large swamp in the midst of the tract, where the richest alluvial soil is to be drained and placed under cultivation, and the water concentrated in a stream for irrigation of adjacent lands. The tract to be drained contains several thousand acres, and will be planted in sugar beets to supply a large factory that will be a feature of the industrial plan. The government crop bulletin, describing ideal sugar-beet land, has practically given a description of this tract. Similar land in the Grand Ronde valley, planted in sugar beets, produced on 7,200 acres this year enough to supply a great sugar-beet factory. In the Idaho sugar-beet district the same area of land is to supply a great factory now being built there to consume 600 tons of beets daily. This industry as a federation property will employ hundreds of people, in a healthful and moderately lucrative business, and may be a nucleus for the first of the model towns to be built. The product is one that is in universal demand.

He said that less than one sixth of the ranch lands will be necessary to the beet sugar industry. The remaining lands will support a large population in extensive farming of small tracts, and in stockraising. A large acreage now semi-arid will be reclaimed by irrigation from the Blitzen river and its many tributaries.

It is estimated that the land for which the federation pays $10 an acre will have a market value of $65 an acre when irrigated. Mr. Nash said there was in the federation plan no speculator, no stockholder, nor other intermediate with whom to share profits. The worker and the bondholder would get all there was to be made out of it. With reference to the safety of the investment, he said from every $100 paid in by the bondholder $18 would be turned over to the care of a trust company as a sinking fund, invested at compound interest, and used to pay principal of bonds at maturity. In the same manner 22 per cent would be placed with another trust company to guarantee interest on the bonds. The balance would go to the federation to be invested in development work.

The business will be conducted by a federation trust, to be composed of 50 members, of whom 35 will be eastern men and 15 Oregon men.

WILL LEASE SCHOOL LANDS TO STOCKMEN

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 4. — State Land Commissioner McConnell has completed the selection of 102,000 acres of indemnity school lands in Fremont county, and the same will be leased by the state to stockmen for five years for grazing purposes. These lands are susceptible to cultivation by irrigation, but water can only be secured by a system of reservoirs. It is believed that by the time the leases expire the demand for farming land will justify the expense of constructing the necessary storage reservoirs.

NATIONS GIVE H. W. GOODE THEIR THANKS

Twelve Countries Join in Program to Express Good Will to Fair Management.

The attendance at the exposition up to 11:30 o'clock was 13,443, indicating a total for today of not less than 30,000. The total admissions yesterday were 11,207.

Twelve nations represented at the Lewis and Clark exposition joined in a celebration yesterday afternoon at the fair grounds in honor of President H. W. Goode. The event took place in the Auditorium, and although it was ostensibly a tribute to the president of the fair, Colonel H. E. Dosch, director of exhibits, who is responsible largely for the gathering of the foreign exhibits, came in for a good deal of honor. He was presented with a beautiful framed memorial, expressing the gratitude and confidence of the agents of the governments.

Austro-Hungary, Great Britain, France, Italy, Switzerland, Russia, Japan, India, Holland and China furnished the program, but several other countries were conspicuously represented in the audience, which nearly filled the Auditorium. Each of the nations contributed a feature. There were singers from Switzerland, singers and turners from Germany, wooden-shoe dancers from Holland, singers from Great Britain, a Gypsy band from Hungary, acrobats from Japan, Cossack warriors from Russia, magicians from Egypt—and so on until the end of the entertainment. The stage had been tastefully decorated with costly tapestries and the climax of the day was a group of tableaux, one of them showing Uncle Sam as a peacemaker between Japan and Russia. Uncle Sam was represented by George V. Orr, who is seven feet four inches in height, son of Joseph H. Orr, with the P. T. Barnum company, and made a tremendous hit. At the close of the entertainment the guests of honor gathered at Little Hungary and disposed of a banquet.

PATROLMAN SUSPENDED FOR HARSH CONDUCT

Patrolman H. A. Galbraith was suspended this morning by Chief of Police Gritzmacher and will face a charge before the police commission on the sworn complaint of Edward Stone, who charges the officer with arresting and beating him twice, without cause or provocation.

The complaint was filed with Chief Gritzmacher by the new law firm of Gammans & Malarkey and was accompanied by an affidavit subscribed to by Stone. He alleges that August 31, while he was standing at the corner of Second and Burnside streets, looking for a man to cut wood, he was accused of listening to a conversation in which Galbraith and another person were engaged.

After telling the officer that he was attending to his own business he says that Galbraith followed him across the street and handled him violently after arresting him, once throwing him to the pavement.

He alleges further that yesterday evening he was arrested by Galbraith at Twelfth and Everett streets for violating a city ordinance by allowing his steam woodsaw on the sidewalk, though he had just unhitched his horse and had not had time to remove it.

Stone says the policeman would not allow him to put on his coat or even tie his horse, but jerked him around with a great display of force and finally struck him three times with his club.

WHITE AND BLUE ARE FAVORITE COLORS TODAY

The National Cash Register company had a special day at the fair today, when the white and blue badges of the concern were in evidence. IRATE FATHER CAUSES ARREST OF THE COUPLE

Would-Be Bridegroom to Be Prosecuted on the Charge of Kidnaping—Maiden Wore Mother's Skirt to Hide Her Youth.

(Journal Special Service.)

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 4.—Grace Travis, aged 14 years, fell in love with her father's hired man, Charles Kelman, aged 31. Both lived on the big ranch of James Travis, near Marysville, Washington. Fearing to confide to her parents her love, believing that a shotgun would induce the hired man to seek other employment, the girl eloped with Kelman and early this morning the pair were arrested by the police at the instance of the father.

The girl is now with the police matron and the man in the city jail. The irate father arrived this morning and has arranged to take the girl home. Kelman will be prosecuted on a charge of kidnaping.

Saturday night Kelman slipped into the room of Mrs. Travis where he secured a long skirt. Sunday morning while the father and mother were still asleep, the couple hitched up a team and drove to Marysville, the girl wearing her mother's skirt to make it appear she was old enough to get married. At Marysville they took a train to Seattle intending to get a license this morning and be married.

When Travis awakened he missed the couple and his team. Suspecting what was wrong, he hastened to Marysville where he learned they had secured tickets to Seattle and he at once wired the police who arrested Miss Travis and Kelman as they stepped from the train.

PENDLETON BUILDING IS GUTTED BY FIRE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Pendleton, Ore., Sept. 4.—Fire started shortly after 2 o'clock Sunday morning in the Matlock-Taylor building on Court street, partially destroyed the structure and caused a loss of between $25,000 and $30,000. An explosion of some kind was heard by the night clerk in the Golden Rule hotel and soon flames were seen leaping from the building. The alarm was sounded and the fire department responded. The flames made rapid headway, but were prevented from destroying the entire block by the heroic efforts of the firemen who, after three hours of hard work, succeeded in getting the fire under control.

The fire started in a room occupied by the Pendleton Cigar factory and is believed to be of incendiary origin. Among the losers is the architect firm of Howard & Sindell, loss $2,000, insurance $500. A. J. McMullan, who owned the cigar factory, estimates his loss at $3,000, with $1,000 insurance. The room and fixtures of the Woodmen of the World were also destroyed.

Water damaged the stocks of the Model bakery, the Umatilla Meat company and the piano store of Guernsey & Gordon. Eighteen thousand dollars insurance was carried on the building.

GETTING READY FOR IMMENSE LAND SALE

C. W. Eberlein, land commissioner of the Southern Pacific railroad, is in Portland for a few days' visit at the exposition, and to supervise the placing of Oregon railroad lands on the market. Mr. Eberlein's department at San Francisco now has charge of the land matters of the Oregon & California Railroad company, formerly under jurisdiction of George H. Andrews of Portland.

It is said the task of investigating the titles of the several million acres of land in the grant of the O. & C. company in western Oregon, from the Columbia river to the northern California line, is proceeding rapidly. A vast amount of work has been done by the force of attorneys here under direction of W. C. Bristol, but much more remains to be done. The company is exceedingly desirous of placing the lands on the market while the immigration movement is under way this year, but disputes regarding the titles may not be satisfactorily adjusted in time to open the sale before next spring.

AN INCIPIENT RIOT PLEASES TRAIL PATRONS

Two employes of the Trail engaged in an altercation last night in front of the Jabour animal show, which began wordily and ended fistically, and some one set up the cry, "A lion has escaped," and in the mad rush for the scene, rather than away from it, there were all the elements of an incipient riot.

No damage was done, but the affair might have ended seriously, so great was the jam of people to see the animal which supposedly had escaped. Guards jumped in and dispersed the crowd, while the belligerents who caused the trouble made a quiet retreat.

POLICE ASKED TO PAY FOR INCREASED SALARIES

Policemen are debating among themselves whether they shall pay $2.50 alleged to be due from each officer for the services of an attorney for securing an increase in their salaries. It is claimed that the attorney was instrumental in securing the increase, and in return for his services wants the payment of $250 in fees.

Bailoff Goltz of the municipal court is said to have acted in the capacity of representative for the attorney in collecting the fee. He collected from Patrol Driver Gruber, Patrolmen Welch, Scott and others. Officer Teevin is said to have paid the attorney in person, and Officer Sloan positively refused to pay any one.

Certain policemen assert that they have been assured by Councilmen Zimmerman and Sherritt that the attorney had nothing whatever to do with the increase. On the strength of the assurances of the councilmen those who have not paid declare that they will contribute nothing to the fund.

(Journal Special Service.)

Salina, Kas., Sept. 4.—J. F. Caldwell, a wealthy stockman, was murdered in his home near Mentor last night. There is no clue.

One of the wonders of the world is the crater (now active) of Kilauea, and this is only one of the many attractions of a trip to Hawaii. The Oceanic Steamship company's excursion steamship Alameda, sailing September 9, from San Francisco, makes reduced round-trip rate to Honolulu only $135.

With George Tomlinson, its designer and builder, at the helm, the airship "Gelatine" made its maiden flight ... at the Lewis and Clark exposition ... The ascent gave great promise, but ended suddenly, for after cruising ... the fair grounds for about 20 minutes evidently under perfect control, the machine was caught in a stiff current ... drifted for several miles at a rapid ... The propeller was seen to stop work... and the last seen of the aeronaut and ... vehicle by those at the fair was a black speck above the woods ... Portland Heights.

Immediately upon observing the accident, Major Clarkson secured a ... touring automobile and, occupied by ... driver and Lincoln Beachy, Tomlinson's contemporary, the car started in pursuit.

Tomlinson, with his airship, was found half an hour later on the ... fair grounds back of Portland Heights where he had made a safe landing. The machine was not damaged. The automobile was immediately started for the fair grounds with the Gelatine in tow and arrived there late this afternoon.

The Gelatine behaved perfectly when it first shot into the air. It was built according to Tomlinson's designs ... Syracuse, New York, and today's flight was its first. It is a bag of about ... feet capacity, considerably smaller than the City of Portland. The framework, too, is lighter than the Baldwin machine, and the rudder smaller. Apparently Tomlinson's tacking was without fault until the accident to the machinery.
