PLAY RESUMED AT IRVINGTON TOURNEY

Play was resumed at the Irvington tennis courts yesterday. The recent rain put the courts in splendid playing condition and a large crowd turned out to witness the sport. One of the best matches of the day was between Mr. Wilder and Miss Fording, and Mr. Kerr and Mrs. Scott, which was won by the former in a very interesting play. The scores were 8-8, 3-8 and 8-8. Another good match was played by Leadbetter and Manchester and Morse and Gammis, won by the former. The results were:

MOTORBOAT CARNIVAL ON HUDSON RIVER

Residents of the district are of the opinion that elevated roadways in such a central business district are worse than useless, and all desire to secure funds for the building of the roadway on Grand avenue has been given up, though before the fire this was very strons.

Plans are being drawn by the city engineer for the big fills which, while not great in length, will require an immense amount of earth because of the depth of the ravine. In order to bolster up the supporting timbers of the new Grand avenue trestle the Consolidated company has been dumping earth along the trestle, and should the Grand avenue fill be authorized even immediately no delay would be experienced in starting work. (Journal Special Bervice.)

New York, Sept. 14.—This is the first day of the great motorboat carnival on the Hudson river and awift craft of overy size and description have congregated here from all parts of the state and from geighboring states to take part in the various events of the carnival. The main object of the annual carnival is to bring forward boats that will possess seaworthiness and the rules for the various races have been framed to that end. framed to that end.

The races will begin this afternoon with races for cruisers and open launches. The races will all start from the foot of Ninety-seventh street and the foot of Ninety-seventh street and the Hudson river and will be over a tri angular course of six and one-half miles. The number of entries is unusually large and smong the entered boats are some of the speedjest in this part of the country. During the races three revenue cutters will patrol the course to keep the waters unobstructed. The officials and judges will be on steamboat Sirius.

The principal trophy to be raced for is the international world's motorboat championship trophy and next to it in importance the American Power Boat importance the American Power Boat Association's challenge cup. The latter cup is at present held by the Vingt-et-Un II, enrolled in the fiset of the Chip-pewa Yacht club. Andre Massenet's Panhard II has been selected as the challenger of the Columbia Yacht club. Tomorrow morning the long distance race to Poughkeepsie and return will start and on Saturday there will be races for all classes of boats.

The long threatened criminal proceedings against those who charged Mayor King and Councilman Peterson of St. Johns with bribery and other crimes have been started, and District Attorney Manning will investigate the matter. Attorneys for the accused officers yesterday commenced proceedings against J. H. Black on the ground of criminal lifel. Mr. Black presented the charges against the mayor and councilman, alleging that in the interest of the saloon man who was trying to secure a license in St. Johns. All the charges are pronounced false by the officers.

officers.

This suit against Mr. Black probably spells the end of the attempted peace negotiations, of which so much was expected last week. The mayor, while making the attack on Mr. Black, expects to show that members of the council were the real instigators of the charges, and Mr. Shields and President of the Council Leggett will be connected with the defense before the case is concluded, if the suspicions of the mayor and Mr. Peterson are verified. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Eugene. Or., Sept. 14.—Beginning next week, or just as soon as enough men can be secured, the Booth-Keily Lumber company's big mill at Springfield will be operated day and night. This announcement was made yesterday afternoon by Manager R. A. Booth. This will double the present output of the mill and give employment to twice as many men as at present.

It is also reported that the big mill at Wendling, which has been idle for two years, having closed down on account of the car shortage on the Southern Pacific railroad, will resume operations within a very short time. The plant has recently been given a thorough overhauling and is now in shape for running.

RECEIVING PLEDGES FOR WALLOWA ROAD

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Wallowa, Sept. 14.—A. H. Cratte of the Wallowa Valley railroad has returned from Lostine. He reports that farmers along the line are very anxious for an electric railroad. Lostine was asked to pledge $15.000. The amount was pledged by one man, H. Miles, who has faith in the road and its promoter, W. J. Cook. The O. R. & N. is hard at work securing right of way, which it finds difficult to obtain, owing to prejudice due to its long inactivity. Farmers will not grant options, but insist on a direct sale. Grading continues along the proposed roadway.

A force from the city engineer's office yesterday began digging among the ruins on Grand and Union avenues, between Stark and Oak streets, so that an estimate might be made of the amount of dirt required to complete the fills. The council recently ordered estimates prepared of the cost of filling Grand avenue from East Washington to East Oak streets, and between Grand and Union avenues on East Stark street. A great quantity of the debris of the recent fire has been removed, but much still remains and the surveyors yesterday were tolling down in the slough among charred timbers, piled in dangerous heaps, wadsing in ditch water to their hips, and stumbling over fallen walls and tangled-piling. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Eugene, Or., Sept: 14.—The recent rains have completely extinguished the forest fires in this county, and the atmosphere is now clear of the smoke which prevailed during the past two or three weeks. There was little smoke this summer compared with former summers. This is believed to be due to the vigilance of the rangers employed by the Booth-Kelly company, the Weyerhausers, the Wentworths and other timber concerns and to the new law governing the setting out of brush fires.

Firemen of engine company No. 7 missed decapitation by a lucky chance. Tuesday night. The engine was responding to an alarm and the horses were dashing up East Pine street, when the driver noticed a glint of light in the air just before him. He swerved the team suddenly and the engine by a few inches missed two heavy guy wires that had been stretched by linemen, so low that even pedestrians were endangered. After the east side fire the electric light and telephone companies hurriedly guyed their tottering poles into place, and generally without much regard for traffic necessities. The two wires that came near wiping out the engine company are stretched across Pine street at East-Oak. Open day and night, from $:50 a. m.
