Heavy Rains Throughout West Cause Heavy Floods — Train East Side Workers Daily Loss a Thousand Days Because of Bridges.

TRAFFIC ACROSS STEEL BRIDGE MOST IMPEDED

This Structure is Said to Be Open About a Third of the Time While Demands of Tributary Districts Increase Weekly.

Every workman or woman living on the east side must allow half an hour every day to provide for possible delays at the drawbridges. Under the existing conditions, with the draws often open for the passage of several boats at one time, one is liable at any time to be kept waiting 15 minutes every time the river is crossed. It is estimated that 10,000 persons live in East Portland and work on the west side. The potential loss of time therefore, is 10,000 hours every day, or 1,000 days of 10 hours each. If the average wage be $2 per day this amounts to $2,000; in 300 working days a year it would be $600,000. Some working people are "doomed" when late. For the unnecessary delays at the bridges there is no compensation. It does not cause an equal increase in the revenues of the rivermen, as it is asserted by well-informed persons that the closing of the draws an hour morning and evening would not cause material loss or inconvenience to the boatmen.
