

NATIONAL CONFLICT ENDS DAY

Successful Spectacle on Lake is Witnessed by Record Night Crowd.

SHIPS BLOW UP AND FORT CRUMBLES AWAY

Din is Terrific, But Battle is Far Less Dangerous Than the Hoodlums Who Forced Way Through Multitude Football Fashion.

The sham battle at the fair last night was the spectacular feature of the great celebration of Portland day. It was preceded by the best display of fireworks yet given on the grounds and was in itself a great success, but somewhat handicapped by the smoke, which was blown toward the spectators and partially obstructed the view.

Fully 35,000 people witnessed the exhibition. They crammed and jammed the Bridge of Nations by the government peninsula, the space between the Bismarck and the American Inn, in fact every inch of space in which the least prospect of an occasional glimpse of the fight appeared. The jostling led to many fights and an incipient riot, which was quickly quelled. Disappointment was expressed that the spectacle was not given on the east side of the Bridge of Nations, where more people could have obtained a view of the sloping hills which adjoin Lakeway terrace.

The battle differed very little from its predecessors, except as to title. It was called a reproduction of Dewey's historic achievement in Manila bay. At a signal which was presumably meant for "When you are ready, Gridley, you may fire," a line of American warships approached, all of them firing on a squadron of Spanish tubs. A fort in the distance offered the latter protection, but was within a few moments reduced to ashes. The Spanish vessels caught fire and one of them was blown up. The noise was terrific, but less dangerous by a wide margin than the hoodlums who mingled with the crowd and literally fought their way through.

A satisfying feature of the final demonstration on Guild's lake was the slight when the smoke was not in the way of the men who were supposed to be fighting. There were several hundred engaged in the battle.

GUARDS USE MEGAPHONES TO PRESERVE ORDER

Carnival Spirit Runs High and Cowbells Add to the Din.

So dense was the crowd struggling for seats in street cars at the close of the sham battle last night that nearly half of Portland's police force and a large percentage of the Centennial guards were called out. Guards with megaphones were pleading for better order for upwards of an hour.

The Trail was a solid mass of people until nearly midnight and the carnival spirit was still alive and growing when the guards rushed through calling on the people to go home.

To add to the din, hundreds of young people armed themselves with cowbells by means of which they assumed the right of way over more dignified celebrators.

Cases of exhaustion were numerous throughout the day. Two old men were overcome while visiting the Trail, two others were taken in for inebriation and occasionally a woman fainted. The emergency hospital received all such cases, none of which proved serious. Considering the crush, the number of ambulance calls was small.

is to be complimented for its work in all parts of the grounds.

But the main thing, after all, was the conduct of the crowd, rather than its "conducting." Everybody wore a smile, from the smallest of the children, who, up to the age of 15 years, were admitted free, to the most rugged of Oregon's pioneers. Hospitality was su-

When a woman's face is covered with freckles, disfigured by blackheads, unsightly stubble upon it, it wrinkles and wrinkles as if bathed in care and trouble.

HER BEST FRIENDS DO NOT LOVE HER AS they would the comely of countenance and of glad complexion. WE CAN REMOVE THESE BLACKHEADS, PIMPLES, WRINKLES, FRECKLES, ETC. In very short order and at trifling expense. It is essential to be in dress yourself and also distress your friends when, for a small sum of money, you may have all the appearance of girlishness and freshness of happy youth.

ALL OUR WORK IS BY THE NELDEN PROCESS.

And this is the only perfect method the world has ever known. Others come to Portland and for a time deceive the credulous, but soon fold their tents and forsake the city. We have been here for more than half a decade and our business grows greater and greater every year.

Everybody was welcome to everything. If inconvenience showed its face at any time throughout the day it was during meal hours. The throngs literally overwhelmed the restaurants and thousands who wanted to remain for the entertaining features of the night started for the crowded cars because it was impossible to obtain places in the eating-houses without long waiting.

There was never such a vast crowd brought together in the northwest, nor was there ever a crowd better-natured and more cosmopolitan. Portland day has entered history and will live long in memory.

Already Makes Two Flights. The first event of exceptional interest, though they were almost innumerable, was Lincoln Beachey's flight in the albatross City of Portland at 11 o'clock, which was witnessed by fully 35,000 people inside and outside the aeronautic concourse.

The amusement program of the day was not, as a matter of fact, the great success that had been hoped for. There were many fine features, but some failures.

Never, perhaps, was there a more brilliant military parade in this section of the country—although there have been larger ones than that furnished by the troops from Vancouver barracks, which began at 1 o'clock and was witnessed by at least 25,000 visitors.

The sight was inspiring. Besides the fourteenth infantry, which never made a more imposing appearance, the Seventeenth and Eighteenth field artillery participated. Colonel Irons was the commanding officer and as he shouted from the proud charger he rode the order "four right, march," and the infantry band struck up a patriotic melody every man, woman and child in the vast throng seemed to join in a cheer.

The long column counter-marched down the boulevard from the big log cabin and swung around the gardens in front of the Oregon building in review. The colonel was the reviewing officer, but President Goode and a party of friends, seated in the windows of the Administration building, applauded until their gloves burst as the parade went by.

An Australian gave an exhibition of boomerang-throwing in front of the Government building at 2 o'clock. It was of more than passing interest to hundreds to witness the method by which this primitive weapon is used.

Without exception the Australian struck his object and the boomerang returned to his feet.

Other Features of Day. While thousands of strangers rambled through the exhibit palaces, other thousands to whom the exposition itself is more familiar sought out the novelties of the day. Usually there was plenty to be found. The band concerts drew their full share of listeners and such exhibitions as that of the life-saving station on the lake were eagerly watched.

The conspicuous feature of the day was the vehicle parade. For some reason less than a half dozen floats were in line. Tacoma made the most prominent showing with a lumber wagon full of children crowding and shouting, "Watch Tacoma Grow!"

The Administration band and a platoon of Centennial guards completed the exhibition. The Japanese day fireworks excited a good deal of interest, as did the big display last night.

The feature which held the crowd late was the sham battle representing the battle of Manila bay, preceding the distribution of $1,000 in cash prizes.

At 8 o'clock yesterday morning the Igorrotes left their village in a body, marching to the Administration entrance, where each native handed up a paid ticket, their contribution to the attendance on Portland day. Headed by a stalwart native bearing aloft a handsome American flag, and with two banners bearing the device "Igorrotes We paid our way to swell Portland day," the men attired in their gaudiest "gee-strings" and ornaments, the women wearing antio striped shawls, their hair resplendent with barbaric beads in strings and ropes, fully armed warriors following the three chiefs, and two small boys leading two pet dogs, the pageant was an imposing one and altogether unique.

MOTHER SLAYS

Almost coincident with the last breath of the insane woman the force of the flames began to abate, and as the smoke cleared, the crowd, peering into the still smoldering mass, could faintly discern the forms of the six victims of the parent's murderous hand. The form of the mother as she lay at the point of death, failed to establish any reason for the deed. It is thought, however, that long-continued worry had unhinged her brain.

Disagreements with her husband some time ago culminated in the woman having him arrested for assault and it is known that the life of the couple was not happy.

It is considered probable that the remains of the woman and her babies will be interred in the same tomb when the ashes of the little ones have been collected.

JEROME TO CALL

sure has been brought to bear to prevent this contemplated criminal action, and there has been some delay, but it will not be stopped. The grand jury will be called and it will be for them to say whether the prosecutions shall take place.

The superintendent of insurance and Governor Higgins saw fit to put the facts in the hands of the prosecuting officials of New York City at the time the Hendricks report on the Equitable investigation was made, and from that date not a move has been made, not a fact has developed concerning the actions of the managers of the insurance companies—that has not been watched and considered with the idea of forcing them to face criminal charges should anything develop that would warrant such action.

Jerome Has Evidence. The district attorney's office is now in possession of the necessary material. Mr. Jerome has been informed privately that there is more—much more—of the most serious and sensational nature affecting men in high financial circles. The inquiry that will be held by the grand jury will be attended by Mr. Jerome and his staff. It is believed that the examination of witnesses and other individuals who may appear before that body.

There is not a detail that has been brought out thus far by the investigation that has not been studied, and carefully, by Mr. Jerome. His associate, Mr. Schurman, who is attached to the office of Chief Inquisitor Charles E. Hughes, has daily the benefit of the advice of Mr. Jerome, and any of the minute inquiries that are made by Mr. Jerome are made, not for the purpose of ascertaining facts to aid the committee in the preparation of laws that will put an end to present conditions in life-insurance management, but to bring out evidence of criminality that may be used by the prosecuting officer of this city in his grand jury inquiries and the prosecutions that will result if indictments are found.

Confident of Indictments. That indictments will be found, it may be said, the district attorney's office is confident.

Sufficient evidence affecting seven men, it was said today, has already been submitted, upon which, it is believed, criminal action will be brought. Each of these men is said to be possessed of at least $1,000,000. There is also at least one influential politician who has thus far been implicated to such a degree as to assure the attempt to indict him, and it was said today as a result of revelations that are yet to be made, such facts affecting the Republican organization in the state of New York will be brought out that the downfall of the political machine must follow.

Mr. Jerome will not give the slightest hint of his intentions. It is known, though, that he has frequent conferences with Paul Morton, president of the Equitable Life Assurance society, and there is no doubt but that Mr. Morton has furnished the district attorney's office with a great mass of material that will figure prominently in the grand jury inquiry.

Morton Adds Evidence. There is no doubt in insurance circles that it was at the express command of Mr. Morton that A. W. Maine, the associate auditor of the Equitable, at the hearing Friday, gave the sensational testimony which revealed the payment of vast sums by the three big companies to "Judge" Andrew Hamilton and other lawyers for use in influencing legislation that affected the insurance companies.

The men who are to be accused of criminal acts in connection with the management of the insurance companies are not ignorant of the fact that an attempt is to be made to prosecute them. Their legal representatives have had conferences with the members of the staff of the district attorney and they have sought to ascertain the exact nature of the evidence Mr. Jerome has in his possession. It is doubtful if they have learned anything to the advantage of their clients as the district attorney's office is guarding what evidence has been submitted with the greatest care and sources of information are also being closely protected in order that individuals who will be used as witnesses may not be interfered with.

RHEUMATISM NOW CURABLE. Liquid Sunshine, the New Ellixir of Life, Cures Stabbing Case of Eighteen Years' Standing—Invalids Are Flooding to Portland. St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 30.—Darius F. Simms, a cripple for 18 years past, suffering from chronic rheumatism, who left here nine weeks since to visit the Portland fair, accompanied by a nurse and crutches, returned here last evening with the nurse but minus crutches. He is full of enthusiasm at his remarkable recovery. Eighteen years ago he was taken down with inflammatory rheumatism which left him a cripple, his condition getting worse each year. On his arrival at Portland Oregon, he says, he placed himself in the care of the X-Ray Medical Institute physicians, and was treated for seven weeks with the new ellixir of life, Liquid Sunshine, which has effected a complete cure. The local physicians who have treated Mr. Simms for the past 18 years are themselves astonished at this marvelous cure. Other invalids here are preparing to leave for the Portland X-Ray Medical Institute.

Two Companies Rushing Toward Wallowa. (Special Despatch to The Journal.) Elgin, Or., Sept. 30.—Both new railroad lines are pushing their work as rapidly as possible. The O. R. & N. has men working in the cement rock on their right of way within the city limits and another camp nine miles down the Grand Ronde between Elgin and Cabin creek. The surveyors are in the Looking-Glass country some distance in advance of the grading party. It was reported the first of the week that there are more than 25 men at work. The latest subcontract is that given to S. A. Gardiner and Hayes of La Grande. The mile taken is said to be the most difficult taken here and the Wallowa river. It is claimed that they will receive $20,000 for the grading alone. They are advancing work with all possible speed. The O. R. & N. people state that they will complete the first nine miles of their line this fall. The Wallowa Valley company has two gangs at work just beyond the city limits and has made a large cut and a fill of considerable length. It is reported that the citizens of Walla Walla have raised a subsidy of $20,000, and placed it in the bank to be transferred to the Wallowa Valley railroad and to the first railroad to connect Walla Walla with the Wallowa valley. The surveying party of the Wallowa Valley railroad is at Victor's place, seven miles from the head of the Wallowa canyon, and expect to pitch their tents at the head of the canyon the first of next week. The O. R. & N. company has filed condemnation suits against P. H. Gray and others, George B. Clark and others, J. E. Wallace and others, Maggie Clark and others and John Fisher and wife, over whose property the proposed right of way passed. The property in question lies next to the Wallowa river. The owners had given right of way to the Wallowa Valley Railroad company on the side opposite that asked by the Harriman company. The bonds given for right of way by the property owners to William J. Cook covered their entire holdings. This prevented any other railroad company from securing right of way over their premises so long as a bond was valid. As soon as Cook heard that the property owners desired to sell right of way to the O. R. & N. company he immediately released the bonds bonded by him on the opposite side of the river. When he took bond over the river he did not know the right of way of the river he would use, but he later learned that the O. R. & N. company had been notified by the O. R. & N. company. "Will you let me see your papers?" said Cook to the O. R. & N. company.

EVENINGS AT HOME CAN BE MADE HAPPY AND COMFORTABLE

Summer has gone and now come Fall and Winter, the seasons of short days and long evenings, the seasons of "indoors"—the time of the year when we depend upon "the Home" to make us happy and comfortable. The time of the year when a well-furnished home makes so greatly for that comfort and happiness that make life worth living.

Right now we want you to know that we have a great big store full of that very same "home-comfort" and "home-happiness." For years we've studied the needs of the home-maker and this Fall we're better prepared than ever to amply fill those needs.

If you want Furniture of thoroughly modern design, just full of substantial worth and comfort, come to us. If you want soft, cozy Carpets of attractive patterns and rich colorings, we have hundreds of rolls to select from. If you want economical floor coverings for the halls and kitchen, have a look at our Linoleums. If you want Bedding, we have everything that goes to make night comfortable. If you want a Range or Cook Stove, we have the splendid Jewel Ranges and stoves to burn coal, wood or gas. And just remember they are economical of fuel and never fail the cook who understands them. If you want China or Household Crockery, we have a lot of new patterns that will appeal to you. If you want Kitchen things, we have everything from Clothespins to Tables. In fact, we are complete home-furnishers.

TWO COMPANIES RUSHING TOWARD WALLOWA

Both O. R. & N. and Wallowa Valley Lines Hurrying Work Near Elgin.

(Special Despatch to The Journal.) Elgin, Or., Sept. 30.—Both new railroad lines are pushing their work as rapidly as possible.

The O. R. & N. has men working in the cement rock on their right of way within the city limits and another camp nine miles down the Grand Ronde between Elgin and Cabin creek. The surveyors are in the Looking-Glass country some distance in advance of the grading party.

It was reported the first of the week that there are more than 25 men at work. The latest subcontract is that given to S. A. Gardiner and Hayes of La Grande.

The mile taken is said to be the most difficult taken here and the Wallowa river. It is claimed that they will receive $20,000 for the grading alone. They are advancing work with all possible speed.

MONEY FOUND

After Being Lost Seven Years Was Restored by Aid of PROF. VAN CORTLAND

DEAR SIR: I found the money just where you told me to look. It was buried under the floor of the cabin. There was $5,000 in all. Thankfully yours, JANE POWELL.

Riley Powell died out in a lonely cabin on a ranch in Mendocino County, California, over seven years ago. It was found that he had several thousand dollars a few days before his death. After he died no trace of the money could be found. Last month Mrs. Powell happened to call on Professor Van Cortland, the psychic, concerning a physical ailment, and was told that she would find her money under the Powell cabin in Mendocino County. Every word was true. She has since been fully cured of her ailment through the almost miraculous healing powers of the mysterious Van Cortland. Mrs. Powell is, therefore, a happy woman.

READ THESE TESTIMONIALS: PORTLAND, Or., April 6, 1906.—Professor Van Cortland, dear Sir—I feel a great change for the better after two months under your treatment. I am increasing in weight every day, and weigh more than ever before. I have faith in your powers to heal; also your advice in business, and let me thank you for you for what you have done for me. Yours truly, R. E. G.

BRINGTON, Or.—Professor Van Cortland: Dear Sir—in answer to your letter, will say that I found the papers on you said, and let me thank you for the power you have in helping to cure my disease, which you are surely doing, as I feel so much better, in fact, I feel like a new man. Sincerely, I. H. B.

DEAR SIR: I am perfectly satisfied with the work you have done for me. R. W. S.

Professor Van Cortland: You are more than wonderful, and I will recommend you to my friends as I know your powers are genuine, as the work you have done for me has made me a different man. Your friend, H. A. W.

Van Cortland has hundreds of such letters on file at his office. I DO HEREBY SOLEMNLY AGREE AND GUARANTEE to make you no charge if I fail to call you by name in full names of your friends, names of cities. I promise to tell you whether your husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false, tell you how to gain the love of the one you most desire, even though miles away; how to succeed in business, health and vitality; remove evil influences, cure all nervous diseases.

How can I have good luck? How can I succeed in business? How can I make my home happy? How can I conquer my enemies? How can I marry the one I desire? How can I get a better wife? How can I conquer my rival? How can I make my wife love me? How can I get a good position? How can I get a better job? How can I get a better salary? How can I get a better position? How can I get a better job? How can I get a better salary?
