Says Americans Need More Practical Education and Advocate Manual Training.

East Aurora is not a condition of mind but a real country village, where none of the people is wealthy and none is poor. This and allied themes, dealing generally with his "group of work," were elucidated yesterday afternoon by Elbert Hubbard, before a large concourse of people in the Auditorium at the fair grounds.

The followers of Hubbard's doctrines were numerous and his witty sallies were enthusiastically applauded. Mayor Lane and H. W. Goode were on the platform and the speaker was introduced by H. McKee. After the lecture some time was spent by Fra Elbertus in handshaking.

"The feature which distinguishes East Aurora from other towns," said Hubbard, "is the fact that there are no books and things are made. We have discovered that there are only two ways to avoid competition—one is to get an inferior article and sell it cheaper; the other is to make a superior article and demand more money for it."

"The most important fact to be mentioned is that none of the workmen is educated in the crafts. No skilled labor is employed in the Roycroft shop except what becomes skilled after being there. You can send a boy to college but you can't make him think. The best education comes from a university of handicraft. We become strong by bearing burdens."

"Takes President Hill of the Great Northern railway; he illustrates, my point. He is not a college man but he has built railways and built them on a large and enduring scale, America is beginning to open her eyes to the value of this practical education. We will never get away from university education until manual training is taught in the schools."

Mr. Hubbard left last night for Seattle.

NORTH END DIVEKEEPER FOUND GUILTY OF CHARGE

The jury before which W. H. Wilson, a north end divekeeper, was tried on the charge of committing an assault with a dangerous weapon, brought in a verdict of guilty late yesterday afternoon. The case was heard in Judge Cleland's court.

On April 29, 1905, Wilson, who is owner of the Badger saloon, beat George Barber with a billie. Wilson claimed that he was drunk at the time and that Barber's skull was fractured by the blows Wilson rained upon him, and for several days afterward it was feared that he would not survive. Attorneys Ed and Al Mendenhall, J. M. Long and Alexander E. Week defended Wilson, while Dan J. Malarky appeared for the district attorney's office.

The penalty for the crime is imprisonment in the penitentiary from six months to 12 months, or a fine of from $100 to $1,000.

A Remarkable Store.

The Hub, corner Third and Burnside streets, is reaching out and attracting the lion's share of the early fall patronage. Hub principles keep that store dear to the hearts of every man, woman and child that takes advantage of real money-saving opportunities. A sale that is acting as a magnet and is attracting throngs of city people and visitors is known as the "Down and a Half" sale of $15 suits, overcoats and overcoats at a dozen and a half dollars—$12.50.

The varieties of styles, reliability of fabric, correctness of style and workmanship makes the Hub's first fall sale of the season the best opportunity ever offered by this great store.

Mr. Paul Strain, the proprietor, conducts a large system of stores and is the largest spot-cash buyer on the coast in men's apparel, which enables him to get the benefit of the lowest wholesale prices and give the people the benefit of his buying power. The hat, shoes and furnishing goods departments are replete with the choicest goods for fall and winter of 1905 and 1906. The vastness of the stocks, the variety of styles, combined with durability and always lowest prices, makes the Hub the most desirable place in the city to get the biggest dollars' worth.

Free School Domestic Science.

We have secured the services of Mrs. Bertha Haffner to give a free course of lectures at our store in cooking and kitchen furnishing. These lectures will be given daily at 3:30 p. m. Every one is cordially invited. Honeyman Hardware company.

NEIGHBOR SAYS CAPTAIN IS NO GENTLEMAN

Others Say Charges Against H. M. Burt Are Instigated as Result of a Grudge.

Charges have been preferred against Captain H. M. Burt of hose company No. 3 of the Portland fire department for using violent language and for fighting in front of the hosehouse. The complainant is H. R. Howard, who lives next door to the hose company at 271 East Seventh street. It is asserted that a grudge is the motive of the charge. The charges will be investigated by the fire committee of the executive board.

At the request of the fire committee Chief Campbell furnished estimates of the cost of the improvements he has recommended in the department, as follows: For engine company No. 2, at Third and Gilliam streets, $2,944 for truck company No. 5, at Alhina, $500; for an engine company on Portland Heights, $10,700; for an engine company at Brooklyn, $9,160; for an engine company to take the place of chemical company No. 2, which is of little service to the department in case of a big fire, $9,160; for changing chemical company No. 4 into an engine company, $5,500; for installing an engine company at East Twenty-eighth and Couch, $9,160; new engine to replace No. 6, $5,200; repairs to boilers of engines Nos. 4 and 5, $2,900. Total, $58,480.

The committee will recommend to the city council that the repairs be made, but will wait until the first of next year to approve the improvements on account of the present lack of funds in the city treasury.

Card of Thanks

Portland, Or., Sept. 11, 1905.—Prof. J. Friedman, Dear Sir: Gladly yielding to your request for a short testimonial, I beg to say that for the past 10 years I had been a great sufferer from rheumatism. I had tried all kinds of medicine and medical treatment, had tried hot springs here and in Europe, but never got any cure or lasting relief. On January last I commenced taking treatment from you. I was then so sick that I was unable to sleep. I was a total cripple, out of shape and in pain constantly. After a week of your cupping and massage and general treatment I noticed a great improvement, which, by keeping to your treatment, has resulted in what I call a complete cure. For past five months I have never had any pain, the first experience of the kind for me in 10 years. I most heartily recommend your treatment to all martyrs to rheumatism. Yours very truly, J. CHRISTENSEN.
