

GREEK SHOTS FORMER FRIEND AND LOSES OFFICERS IN CROWD

Astoria Fisherman Fires to Kill and Then Makes Dash Up Washington Street.

BOY GRAPPLES WITH HIM, BUT IS CONQUERED

Victim of Cold-Blooded Attack May Recover and Police Believe They Will Arrest His Assailant Before Another Day Passes.

Zach Pangares was shot this morning in his oyster house at 192 Fourth street by George Pappalmake, a former friend. The oyster man had just ordered that his visitor be given a cup of coffee, as Pappalmake said he was hungry. Pangares was shot below the left ear the bullet ranging downward toward the spine, but it is not thought the wound will prove fatal.

Shades His Pursuers.
Immediately after the shooting Pappalmake, followed by a large crowd, ran down Fourth street to Yamhill, and started toward the river. The exact route he took is not known, but a lad on horseback who happened to be riding along the riverfront saw him jump off the slip next a stairway at the foot of Alder street. The chase was taken up from the scene of the shooting by Sheriff Word, Under-Sheriff Morden, Deputy Sheriff Grusit, Patrolman Nelson, Patrol Driver Price and Acting Detective Kay.

Boy Grapples with Him.
In his hand he carried the nickel-plated revolver with which the shooting was done. A youth working on the front, whose name was not learned, grappled with him on seeing the weapon and a desperate struggle ensued for its possession.

STOCK PAID WITHIN 4 PER CENT

Fair Corporation Has Smaller List of Delinquents Than Any Previous One.

CHICAGO PEOPLE RANKED SECOND

Stockholders Will Have Entire Control of Disposition of Surplus—Large Force Preparing Government Exhibits for Shipment.

The Lewis and Clark has a smaller list of delinquent subscriptions for stock in the corporation than any fair that has ever been held on a stock basis. Secretary Henry E. Reed declares that at the present time the delinquencies do not exceed 3 1/2 per cent of the amount subscribed and estimates that the percentage will be reduced to 2 1/2 per cent before the corporation is finally dissolved.

The nearest approach to the record of the Lewis and Clark exposition was that of Chicago. Delinquencies to stock subscriptions to the great world's fair of the Windy City amounted to 7 per cent. At Omaha, it is said, the number who failed to pay their subscriptions was so large that the percentage of delinquencies was 18.

The Lewis and Clark fair corporation was capitalized at $500,000. The sum of $417,612 was subscribed, principally by citizens of Portland and railroad companies that were interested in the proposition. Of that amount the books of the company showed yesterday that $402,000 had been paid up and certificates issued. The difference leaves a "Look out! Look out! He has a gun in his hand," called out a number of other men in the vicinity. Evidently confused by the shouts, the lad dropped his hold of Pappalmake and the latter darted up Washington street, pocketing his revolver as he did so. Nobody followed him and he soon disappeared.

Chief of Police Gritzmacher sent Detectives Hartman and Kerrigan to assist in the search. They were joined by Detectives Snow and Carpenter, who had gone to the scene of the shooting in the patrol wagon, but had lost some time in riding a short distance to learn from the wounded man the name of his assailant and to get his description.

Story of Pangares.
Pangares was taken to the St. Vincent's hospital, where some wounds were dressed by Dr. A. C. Cauthorn. On his way to the hospital, the oyster man told the following story:
"George came into my place twice this morning and tried to fuss with me. I ordered him out. Then he came back about 10 o'clock and asked me if I would not give him a cup of coffee. I noticed that he had his hand in his pocket, but did not think he had a gun. Just as I ordered his coffee, he shot me. The fellow was not more than six feet away and aimed the gun right at my head. That fellow was mad at me because I would not give him some money. Last July I sold his uncle a half interest in an Astoria restaurant for $350, but I only received $200 of it. George claimed that the money was his and that his uncle should not have taken it. I said that it was none of my business, and that made him mad. Pappalmake is a fisherman at Astoria and came to Portland yesterday. Pappalmake's uncle is said to bear two names, Nico George and Nico Pompanal.

Pangares was in good spirits when he reached the hospital, joking regarding his stiff neck and of the rapid manner in which his assailant ran after the shooting. Pangares has been here 13 years and is said to have introduced the oyster cocktail to Portlanders. He is 42 years old. Pappalmake is about 26 years old. He came to Oregon from a small fishing island near the Turkish coast.

Delinquency of between 2 1/2 and 3 1/2 per cent.

Financial statements of other expositions show that the record of the Portland fair is the best that has ever been made. A complete statement of the amount of surplus will be made until the business of the corporation is completed.

It is estimated that a 30 per cent reimbursement will be paid on the stock. The estimate is made upon the calculation that the surplus will amount to $120,000. It probably will be more than that.

The surplus is to be divided among 2475 stockholders who have fully paid up. It rents solely with them what disposition will be made of the money. Suggestions from others, it is said, will not be considered when the distribution is made.

opportunity for employment. The superintendent and officers place many girls, and occasionally receive money as a trust fund to look after a given girl who is here. One man from Cleveland, Ohio, went to the office the other day and paid $50, with the request that it be used to get a former Cleveland girl out of a restaurant and into a better position, and today she has given employment in a large store through the agency of the association.

Secures Many Positions.
Hundreds of letters are received by the superintendent to look out for girls who are believed to have drifted to the city, and in many cases they are located and their condition reported. If they are minors they are taken out, as the superintendent is given the power to arrest. During the fair, the association has worked as a clearing-house for the other charitable institutions, keeping in touch with all and giving to them such assistance as came properly within their sphere of work.

NEW STRIKE MOVEMENT SPREADS THROUGH RUSSIA

(Journal Special Service.)
St. Petersburg, Oct. 15.—Almost simultaneously with the strike troubles that began anew in Moscow has arisen similar disorders in many Russian towns, including St. Petersburg, Kieff, Kazan, Saratoff and Kharoff. Much trouble is reported in the Caucasus, but this is said to have no connection with the movement in Russia proper. The greater part of the working people seem inclined to follow the spirit of revolution that is gradually spreading and a season of strife, is feared.

BRITISHERS RELEASED BY ALGERIAN BANDITS

(Journal Special Service.)
London, Oct. 15.—The two British officers, Captain Crowther and Lieutenant Hutton, have been released by the Algerian tribe of bandits and have arrived at Ceuta. Several British warships were already off the Moroccan coast when the news of the capture of the officers was made known and the British minister at Morocco was ordered to take strict measures for the release of the two men. Fearing an attack by a torpedo boat the bandits released their captives.

Marshfield Editors Arrested.

(Journal Special Service.)
Marshfield, Or., Oct. 15.—For giving space in their paper to the following: "It was out of charity for his family that the information was withheld that would have sent the major to the penitentiary," Charles McKnight Cain and Charles Keith, editors of the Coos Bay Harbor, were arrested yesterday and held under bonds to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of libeling Major L. D. Kinney on August 12 last.

Saying Something Nice.

From the Marton (Kan.) Record.
The young ladies of the Thompson Dry Goods company invited us in the other afternoon to drink lemonade with them, prefacing the invitation with the remark that we must say something nice about them in the paper. And of course we could not do otherwise, for they are all, without a single exception, just as nice and sweet as they can be, and our only wonder is that they have been allowed to remain single so long—and some of them, oh, so long!

A Legacy.

The Editor—What have you written about the death of that bright young Jenkins?
The Fish Reporter—Something nice, sir, windin' up with these words: "He leaves a brilliant future behind him."
