Richard Bullock is Surprised When Accused of Stealing Watch and Chain.

UMBRELLA SLAYER PLEADS NOT GUILTY

In All Eight Men Meet Charges of Various Sorts in Presiding Judge Fraser's Court, Most of Whom Deny Guilt.

Eight prisoners were arraigned before Presiding Judge Fraser this morning and the gathering was a big curio-party to one of them. Richard Bullock was charged with the crime of larceny from a dwelling.

"Why, I didn't know I was to be charged with any crime," cried Bullock after he had heard Deputy District Attorney Bert E. Haney, read the information, "I thought I was being held only as a witness."

Bullock was arrested with Thomas Dixon, an alleged prize fighter, several weeks ago. They were charged with having broken into the home of A. Lee Lewis, 28 North Fifth street, on September 22 and stolen a gold watch and chain. Both were given until Monday to plead.

"Not guilty," was the plea entered by John D. Hogan, charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise Jenkins in a north-end saloon on the night of October 7. Hogan says that he struck the woman with an umbrella in self-defense. The point of the umbrella entered the woman's eye, causing death. Although the police searched the place for days, Hogan, who remained here, was not arrested until he walked into the police station and gave himself up after having seen a picture of Mrs. Jenkins in The Journal and read an account of her death.

Ernest Seidler did not wish to be arraigned and he was allowed until Monday to plead. He is charged with the crime of larceny from a store on October 23. It is said that he is one of the telephone box robbers that have been giving the police so much trouble of late.

George Kronenberg pleaded not guilty to the charge of having stolen numerous coins and some silverware from J. D. Meyer, 424 Washington street.

Burglary is the charge against John Kullen, who will plead Monday. He is said to have broken into the store of John Dolphin, 95-North Second street, and stolen a quantity of wines and liquors.

Judge Fraser appointed Ogleby Young to act as attorney for Joseph Hoff and G. W. Scott, charged with larceny from the person. It is alleged that on the evening of October 5 the prisoners stole a watch and chain from H. Mitchell. Several patrolmen say that they saw Hoff and Scott rob Mitchell. Hoff is said to be an ex-convict and it is well known to the local police.

Baker City Election.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Baker City, Or., Oct. 27.—The coming city election on November 6, at which time a city auditor, city treasurer and four councilmen are to be elected, promises to be one of the quietest in many years. In every instance the present incumbents of the offices to be filled will be their own successors.

Board Appraises Lands.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Olympia, Wash., Oct. 27.—The board of state land commissioners met yesterday and appraised the shore lands on the north bank of the Columbia river at 38 a lineal chain for railroad purposes. The action was taken because of the condemnation proceedings begun in Skamania county by the Portland & Seattle Railway company. It is understood that the railway company will now purchase the land from the state and drop legal proceedings.

SPERSEYOUS ASSESSOR BELIEVES IN SIGNS

As a Result Drygoods Merchants Are Confronted With Raised Schedules.

The labors of the county board of equalization will be ended by November 16. County Assessor Sigler and his assistants are busy engaged in looking up the complaints against the assessments made against property and readjusting the valuations. Some changes will be made, but the deductions will amount to only a trifle, and in some instances the valuations have been increased.

There are three merchants in the city who are holding special sales of dry goods. One of these was assessed for $1,100, but in his protest said his goods were valued at only $1,400. A new sign in front of the store declares that there are $1,100 worth of goods to be sold immediately. Another man was assessed for $2,500, but said his stock was worth $1,800. In his advertisement he said his stock was valued at $1,500. Still another asked to have his assessment reduced from $5,000 to $5,800, and an investigation was found that the merchant claimed to have a stock valued at $50,000 in his store.

CAPTAINS SAY THEY NEVER TOOK A DROP

If men are in a saloon after 1 o'clock in the morning for the purpose of keeping the proprietor company on his way home and not for the purpose of drinking, the proprietor is not guilty of a violation of the closing law. That is the opinion which Municipal Judge Cameron gave today in the case against Theodore Trautman, who was arrested by Patrolmen Kay, Hellyer and Jones for keeping his saloon at 357 Morrison street open after hours. The officers said they entered the saloon about 2 o'clock in the morning. Trautman alone was inside the bar, but as they had heard voices they searched the place and found three German sea captains and an empty champagne bottle stowed away in a closet. Trautman and two of the captains said they had taken the last drink at 12:40 o'clock. The lights were then turned out and the captains gave an impromptu vocal concert in the dark.

Two of the captains said their ships were lying near Trautman's residence in North Portland and they waited for him to close up so they could all get together. The third captain had gone to sea. The two remaining captains said it was a severe trial to remain in a saloon 40 minutes without taking a drink, but they declared that they had been equal to the test, and had touched nothing after the bottle of champagne had been emptied. As they said they were not in the saloon for the purpose of drinking, the case was dismissed.

HANG THE POLICE, SAY BARTENDER AND GIRLS

"Hang the police! We won't go to jail," sang William McPherson, bartender at the Elk saloon on Third street, between Yamhill and Taylor, and two young girls who had imbibed too much liquor in the saloon, when Patrolman J. H. Price placed them under arrest this morning. Price was patrolling the neighborhood of the saloon when he heard some unseemly noise, and soon after the bartender and the girls emerged from the place. The girls were howling like Comanche Indians, and Price arrested the three. McPherson, with the help of his female companions, put up a stubborn fight, and it was some time before he and the girls were subdued and lodged in jail. At the jail the girls gave the names of Anna Bates, aged 18, and Estelle Beall, aged 18. Charges of selling liquor to minors will be made against the bartender and the girls. The Elk saloon has been raided three times by Captain Bailey, Sergeant Taylor and Patrolman Price, and once the police had to effect entrance through the transom, as the proprietor refused to open the doors. The last time the saloon was raided the officers arrested six men and five girls.

CHIEF ASKS CHURCH TO FORGIVE RUNAWAY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Medford, Or., Oct. 27.—Chief of Police Angle today received the following letter from the clerk of the First Free Baptist church of Oakland, California. The non-paying petitioners filed their action in the Logan elopement:

"Oakland, Cal., Oct. 23, 1905.—Chief of Police Angle, City of Medford, Oregon: Dear Sir—At a regular meeting of the First Free Baptist church of Oakland, a vote of thanks was unanimously passed, thanking yourself and the men you command for your courtesy and promptness of action in the matter that has given our church so sudden and unwelcome a notoriety. On behalf of the church, respectfully yours,

"C. DALY, Church Clerk."

In reply Mr. Angle wrote:

"Little Ethel is a bright, sweet, innocent child, and one whom I believe to be guilty of no crime; only a foolish act. And I would earnestly recommend that your church freely and fully forgive Ethel."

EXPRESS COMPANY MUST KEEP ON ITS OWN LAND

Mayor Lane this morning vetoed the ordinance granting Wells Fargo & Co. permission to rest the pillars for the support of their new building at Sixth and Oak over the property line. The pillars would be quite large and would occupy considerable of the sidewalk space. His message to the council accompanying the veto follows:

"In returning ordinance No. 14,932 to you without my approval, I have to say that neither the council nor the mayor has any power or authority to grant rights to private persons to take over to themselves the permanent use of public streets. This is a fundamental truth from which there can be no exception. Any person occupying of the street under such grants does so at the peril of having to desist at any time that he is called upon to do so. However much we might or wish to encourage the erection of such buildings as the one contemplated, we have no power to make a grant of public property for that purpose."

Judge Cleland Settles Woes of Mismatched Ones in Hurry-Up Fashion.

Eight minutes was the average time allowed by Judge Cleland to try the divorce cases that came up before him this morning.

Ida Miller was married December 23, 1902, when she was 15 years of age. During the following July her husband, Charles, whom she said was a would-be actor, deserted her. She is no longer his wife.

Although she lived in the same house with her husband, Carrie Seattle said that her husband, George, would not support her. She averred that he deserted her in May, 1901. The couple were married at Eugene, Oregon, January 25, 1871. Two lots in Oakland, Oregon, were awarded to Mrs. Seattle.

Lillie Woodcock married Jasper Woodcock in this city June 4, 1891, and she was allowed a divorce this morning because he deserted her June 13, 1904.

BLOODHOUNDS IN PURSUIT OF FLEEING CONVICT

John Cauthorne, Who Eluded Guard at Salem, Still at Large.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Salem, Oct. 27.—Making an excuse to step behind a clump of bushes, John Cauthorne, one of a bunch of convicts who were being worked on the county road south of this city, made a break for liberty yesterday afternoon and is still at large. Warden Curtis and bloodhounds are on his trail but it is doubtful if his capture will be effected. There is an unlimited amount of thick brush in the vicinity where he made his escape. As Guard H. C. Tarpley was the only man in charge of the convicts, he could not go in pursuit as soon as he discovered the elopement and it was fully an hour and a half later that the warden and his dogs arrived on the scene. It was then getting dusk and too late to put the dogs on the trail, but at daybreak this morning they were given the scent and the chase commenced.

Cauthorne was serving a two-year sentence at the penitentiary from Umatilla county for larceny from a store and was received at the prison on May 31 of this year. He is described as being 35 years of age, 5 feet 7 1/2 inches in height, weighs 160 pounds, complexion medium, dark hair and brown eyes, and wore convicts' stripes. He has never given the officers any trouble at the institution and has always been a willing worker. The guard was no thought of his trying to escape.

W. C. T. U. DELEGATES FROM MANY STATES PRESENT

Thirty-Second Annual Convention Begins at Los Angeles to Last Six Days.

(Journal Special Service.)
Los Angeles, Oct. 27.—The W. C. T. U. opened its 32d annual convention in the First Congregational church here at 3:30 o'clock this morning. The annual address was made by Mrs. L. M. R. Egan of Portland, Maine, the national president. It recommended stringent methods to rid the country of polygamy, urged the equal purity of the sexes, suggested that the union take some practical measures in the investigation of patent medicines, which are denounced as a means of creating a love for alcohol, and recommended legislation against fraudulent advertising through the United States mails.

Delegates have been trooping to this city for several days from all parts of the country to attend the convention, which opened today. Last night Wednesday of next week. When the convention was called to order today nearly 600 delegates, representing the various state organizations of the W. C. T. U., were in attendance. Mrs. Anna A. Gordon, vice-president-at-large and national organizer, was also present and delivered a short address. Many prominent speakers have been invited to attend the convention and some of them have promised to address the convention at the general meetings.

POLICE RUSHED OUT ON FALSE ALARM

Mrs. Rosa Nye, who had a room on the third floor of the building at 204 1/2 Washington street, left yesterday afternoon found a note lying on the table in the room. Devouring it with frenzied fear he rushed out of the house and summoned the police to the scene, telling them that Mrs. Nye had gone to the river and drowned herself.

The police lost no time in getting to the room and the note, and meanwhile the hurried householder conjured up all his past sins of tenantry to find any possible cause for the rash act. But his feelings were even less enviable when the policemen read in disgust the note which said only that Mr. Nye was dead and in response to information just received she had hurried down the river to look into the matter.

"Mr. Nye had been hastily written 'Mrs.' and the 's' crossed out, thus leading to the mistake."

WOULD DRAG HIM TO COURT

Absence of Policeman Strong Prosecutor Fitzgerald Who Talks of Bench Warrant.

DEFENSE ALLEGES HE DOESN'T WANT TO COME

Scallan Arrested Two Girls, Then Drops Prosecution, Though Subpoenaed to Appear and Give Reasons for His Action.

"If Officer Scallan cannot come to court he should be brought here on a bench warrant," declared Deputy City Attorney Fitzgerald this morning. "There is altogether too much talk about this case, and particularly about the officer," added Mr. Fitzgerald.

The case was that of Alice and Lottie Stafford, who were arrested by Scallan for being out after hours a few nights ago. The women have appeared in court for trial three times, but Scallan has not been present, although a subpoena has been served upon him.

"I do not think he wants to come," said Charles E. Petrain, attorney for the defendants.

"Some disposition of the case must be made," said Judge Cameron.

"If we dismiss it," said Fitzgerald, "the court will have no jurisdiction over the officer."

"We don't mind that; we shall not try the officer here," said Petrain, laying stress upon the last word.

The women were released on their own recognizance and Scallan was ordered to appear in court. The women allege that Scallan and another officer followed them about the streets and into a restaurant, accosted them and placed them under arrest. After taking them to the door of the jail, so they say, they made them go to their room, which they searched, and then called a police sergeant and had them taken to jail.

Mr. Petrain declines to state what action he will take in the case of Scallan. It is said, however, that he intends to file charges against the officers, and also the other officer who was with him and whose name is not known. If the evidence shows at the trial that they followed the women to the restaurant and accosted them there.

BURGLARS WORK HOURS BUT FAIL TO BREAK IN

Attempts were made to rob two saloons and a tent and awning factory in the block bounded by First, Second, Burnside and Couch streets, between midnight last night and 3 o'clock this morning.

The first attempt was made on B. Gobbi's saloon, on First street, near Burnside. The burglars were unable to effect an entrance and then turned their attention to the tent and awning factory adjoining on the north. Here they tried the rear door, but their efforts were in vain. The tent and awning factory is on the corner of Second street and just back of Gobbi's place. The rear door was tried, but the burglars were unable to open it.

The police have been busy clearing the north end of traps, but Chief Gritzmacher says a few yet linger, and the reports of his officers tend to show that the work last night was that of inexperienced men, rather than of professional burglars.

SURVEYORS BUSY IN WHITE SALMON DISTRICT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Hood River, Or., Oct. 27.—The Northern Pacific surveying party, which for three weeks has been camped at the White Salmon ferry landing, is now working between Lyle and The Dalles. The permanent survey has been completed between Bingen and Drano. The line runs through the center of the berry patches of White Salmon, entailing heavy damages to the railroad for right of way. As soon as contracts are let the construction force will be put at work.

At Underwood the permanent survey places the railroad about 65 feet in front of the store building of Amos Underwood. At Drano there will be a series of half a dozen tunnels and construction work will be extremely costly. A similar condition exists east of Lyle where numerous tunnels will be required.

The Northern Pacific is negotiating for water privileges to White Salmon landing, which is taken as evidence that the depot will go to White Salmon for that section of country opposite Hood River. The towns of Underwood and Bingen are also anxious for a depot.

Announcement has been made that the New York building will be used as a costly manner. The Idaho building is situated so close to the New York building that it is likely that the two will be operated in conjunction.
