

HILL, GOULD AND CLARK COULD NOT FIGHT HARRIMAN INTERESTS

Burlington Begins Actual Construction of New Line to Salt Lake City.

RAILROAD BUILDING WAR HAS BEGUN IN EARNEST

Clark and Gould Have Understanding With Hill to Assist Latter in Invasion of Enemy's Territory—St. Paul and Northwestern Active.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Salt Lake, Utah, Nov. 4.—Advice from Bridgeport, Nevada, today are that actual construction has begun on the Burlington's cutoff and extension to Salt Lake City. This and other tangible developments in and around Salt Lake show that a great railroad war is on. The base-ground extends from Salt Lake to Portland and Seattle in the northwest, to San Francisco in the central Pacific coast, and to Los Angeles in the southwest. It is Harriman against the field. The field in this case includes such railroad titans as James J. Hill, J. Pierpont Morgan, George Gould and William A. Clark.

The fight is not so one-sided as might be imagined, however. For there is a strong impression that Harriman's main backer is Standard Oil. Following the announcement that the Great Northern and Northern Pacific would join in the road down the Columbia river to Portland invading Harriman territory, the most significant move has come in the form of statement by General Manager H. W. Holdredge of the Burlington that his road would build to Salt Lake.

Hill on Warpath.

This is an even more flagrant act of warfare on the part of Hill than the building to Portland, for the determination of the Burlington to reach Salt Lake was one of the main causes of the frantic competitive buying which resulted in the Northern Pacific corner when the stock exchange battle between Harriman on one side and Hill and Morgan on the other was settled. One of the conditions being that the Burlington should abandon its Salt Lake extension.

Clark Is Independent.

Then Harriman, by starting a parallel road, forced a compromise with Clark and secured a contract giving him a half interest in the road providing he carried out certain agreements. As a part of this deal traffic arrangements highly favorable to the Clark road were made with the Harriman lines. Then Harriman tried to work things around so that he could take the control completely away from Clark. He underestimated the wit of the Montana man. As a consequence Harriman has lost his grip on the road.

Gould Heads Northward.

The road is being built to carry transcontinental business and to furnish an outlet for Utah Coal & Iron. The activity of the Gould right of way agents toward the northwest give color to the belief that he intends to tap the north Pacific coast either by Coos Bay or Portland or both. The Denver, North-western & Pacific road, now being built between Denver and Salt Lake, is another competitor for Harriman. To keep him still more busy the Santa Fe is showing signs of creeping up to the coast toward Portland from San Francisco, having acquired the North Shore line.

The Chicago & Northwestern has recently made a move to Salt Lake and is already building to Lander, Wyoming, near the Idaho line, on the way toward Portland. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul is also showing signs of activity with the Northwest as its goal. With one new railroad just completed in Salt Lake, three more under construction and others showing symptoms of stretching out, the opinion here is that an important era of railroad construction and development of the natural resources of the west is already under way.

VIADUCT OVER TERMINAL TRACKS, MAYBE

Project is Mentioned at Special Council Meeting and Then Fall of Silence Falls.

At a special meeting of the city council Friday evening, Mayor Chamberlain of the Northern Pacific Terminal company said that plans were under way for the construction of a series of viaducts to bridge the Northern Pacific tracks on terminal property for the convenience of traffic. Since that statement the officials have maintained a wonderfully discreet silence.

Mr. Lyons said he was busy to talk to reporters until Monday.

President C. A. Dolph said he had not even heard the report of his engineer.

The city engineer said he had never heard of the project.

The chief engineer of the Harriman lines, though not necessarily directly interested, had no word of the plan.

Other officials who "might know" denied all knowledge.

If such a project should be put through it would mean a great expenditure and would greatly facilitate traffic between town and the big docks. The new tracks across 300 feet of the terminal ground and much difficulty is experienced, to say nothing of the danger, in teaming across them.

J. M. DAVIS TO TALK ON WINNING OF THE EAST

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Spokane, Wash., Nov. 4.—The reorganization of the Falls City (trades and labor) assembly, the formation of a new central body embracing all American Federation of Labor unions, is the aim of a number of unions in this city.

The Typographical union, one of the strongest affiliated with the labor council, is reported to be dissatisfied with the central body, and is in favor of a new central body of A. F. L. unions.

The bartenders' union, one of the strongest in the labor assembly, is willing to cooperate with any movement tending to bring all A. F. L. unions together.

About half the Federation unions in the city are not affiliated with the central body but would probably be induced to join the new organization.

ARRESTED FOR FORGERY CONFESSES TO MURDER

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Red Lodge, Mont., Nov. 4.—G. B. Candler, alias James R. Smith, has been arrested here on a forgery charge at the request of Somerset, Kentucky, officials. Candler, who is in poor physical condition, only admitted his connection with the forgery, saying it amounted to only $20, but admitted a murder in Somerset and had escaped from jail. He declares the act was committed at a farm near his home.

TWO TEAMS RUN OVER BOY AND WOMEN FAINT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Walla Walla, Wash., Nov. 4.—Eddie Bowers, a 9-year-old boy, was knocked down and run over by two teams on First street at noon today while street was crowded with shoppers. Young Bowers was on a bicycle and in trying to avoid a hack ran squarely into the farm wagon. The team passed over him and as the boy lay sprawling in the street a hack being driven rapidly came up and passed over his prostrate form. Pedestrians rescued the boy, who was found to be suffering from numerous bruises and contusions. Several women fainted at the sight.

S. P. SURVEY NEARING TIDEWATER AT COOS BAY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Drain, Or., Nov. 4.—The Southern Pacific survey crew locating the new line to Coos Bay is now within a few miles of Stottsburg, at which place the survey reaches tide water. A very easy grade is being found. Right of Way Agent J. W. Nier states that he has secured right of way for a considerable portion of the distance and is paying cash for the same. Actual construction work has not yet begun, but is expected before spring.

KLAMATH FALLS IS CELEBRATING

Signing of Contract With Government by Water Users Made a Gala Event.

Ovation is Given to GOVERNOR CHAMBERLAIN

Visitors at Keno Escorted to City on Steamer by Delegation—Driven Over Reclamation Project—Many Speeches Made.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Klamath Falls, Or., Nov. 4.—This is a great day for Klamath county. An immense crowd is here celebrating the signing of the contract with the government for the building of the big Klamath project, which was ratified yesterday by the unanimous vote of the stockholders of the Klamath Water Users' association.

Ovation to Chamberlain.
The committee of the chamber of commerce met Governor Chamberlain Thursday evening at Keno and escorted him to Klamath Falls on board the new steamer Klamath. Two hundred and fifty people were at the foot of the dock, which was crowded. Steam whistles sounded and the band played a welcome. The city was decorated with flags and bunting.

A 10-mile drive over the main features of the reclamation project took place Friday. At the banquet at night 100 were present, among them being Governor Chamberlain, Assistant-General Finney, S. B. Huston, H. V. Gates, State Game Warden Baker, Hon. John Shook and the directors of the Water Users' association. Judge Benson acted as toastmaster.

Speeches took place Saturday afternoon in Foust's opera house. Mayor Alex Martin, Jr., presiding. A large audience was present. The speakers were H. V. Gates and S. B. Huston of Hillsboro; T. H. Humphreys, the project engineer; Judge H. L. Benson and Governor Chamberlain. The speeches were breezy, the crowd jolly and the day fine.

After the exercises were over the governor became the guest of Engineer Humphreys at supper at the reclamation camp. The governor expects to leave tomorrow for Salem.

In his speech, Governor Chamberlain said:

New Era for Oregon.
"A new era is dawning for Oregon, and during the next few years I prophesy that there will take place the most rapid development that has ever been witnessed in our great state. This will be due largely to the impetus that has been given to the westward trend of population by the Lewis and Clark centennial exposition. That fair brought a class of men, real representatives of the west, seeking a field for investment, and we certainly have what they are looking for.

"One of the things that is necessary for the rapid development of any state is a unity of action on the part of the people of the whole state. Such a course in Oregon will lead to a united demand for government aid toward the opening of the Columbia and its tributaries, deepening the channel at its mouth, and opening Coos bay.

"It is very unfortunate for Oregon that just at one of the most critical periods in the history of the state we have only one real representative in the congress of the United States. It is indeed unfortunate at this time that the demands of the state do not have the proper voice in the halls of legislation to give information as to the needs of existing conditions. To make up for this lack of representation, the commercial bodies of every city and town in the state should attend to the preparation of petitions addressed to congress, showing the great resources of this country and the urgent need for immediate aid."

A man can be tender-hearted without being putty-headed.

The Kidneys

When they are weak, torpid, or stagnant, the whole system suffers. Don't neglect them at this time, but heed the warning of the aching back, the bloated face, the sallow complexion, the urinary disorder, and begin treatment at once with Hood's Sarsaparilla which contains the best and safest curative substances.

TO THE PUBLIC

Since the establishment of the first chemist or apothecary shop in New England, way back in the 17th century, it has been the custom for the druggist to keep open doors from daybreak until midnight, and with all our modern civilization and centralization we haven't outgrown this provincialism.

The hardships which the long hours have worked upon all employed in this business have been many. The drug clerk is not through with his day's work at 6, but at 10, 11, or even 12 o'clock—none through his week's work on Saturday night, for he must get to business on Sunday the same as week days. He puts in from 40 to 50 hours per week against the 56 of the average retail clerk.

For several months our employees who work Sunday have been given a week day off in return—recently we discontinued this, and now pay an extra day's salary to those who work Sunday, but we desire to do yet better if possible by our employees, and in the effort to come to some solution of the problem, we have decided to LEAVE THE NEXT MOVE WITH YOU.

WE SUGGEST KEEPING OUR STORE OPEN SUNDAYS FOR THREE HOURS ONLY (say from 12 to 3). This would mean that the employees who now work an entire day every other Sunday would work but three hours every other Sunday. We are willing to sacrifice whatever this may cost us in a pecuniary way, for we know our employees will feel better for the Sunday's rest—better for having a change of thought—all work and no play, you know. And then this gives those who desire to take advantage of it an opportunity to attend their various churches.

Below we have outlined a little coupon and we ask you, our friends and patrons, to fill this out and hand it to one of our employees next time you come in, or mail it to us as you prefer. If the public is willing then we will remain open Sunday but three hours. THE DECISION RESTS WITH YOU.

WOODARD, CLARKE & CO.
Gentlemen: I..... approve your plan for "Better hours for Drug Clerks" and the three hours which your store will be open will give me ample time to make any necessary Sunday purchases. I suggest from..... a. m. to..... p. m. as the best..... Sunday hours to keep open.

CONFESSES TO SLAYING BROTHER IN A QUARREL

Fratricide Returns to Scene Muttering to Himself and Pitying Dead Man—Both Started to Rob House—One Shot in Struggle for Gun.

(Special Dispatch by Lasec Wire to The Journal.)
New York, Nov. 4.—The return of the murderer to the scene of his crime and his soliloquies of remorse, overheard by a hiding policeman, are expected to clear up a murder mystery which completely baffled the Williamsburg police. This was alleged today by Captain Pinkerton of the Bedford avenue station, when he arraigned William Cody in the Gates avenue court on a technical charge of intoxication. The captain announced that he would arrange Cody on a homicide charge tomorrow.

The case was the deepest mystery until, according to Captain Pinkerton, the solution came unexpectedly and accidentally. On the morning of October 21 the body of a man with a bullet hole through his heart was found lying at North Eighth and Roebling streets, Williamsburg. There was nothing to give a clue to his identity and no one came forward to identify the body. It remained in the morgue for a time and was buried by the city as an unknown.

Early today Policeman Lloyd was standing in a doorway near the corner when the murdered man had been found. According to Captain Pinkerton, he saw an intoxicated man stagger toward the spot, muttering to himself. The policeman heard him mutter:

"Poor Jim. This is where Jim died. Poor Jim. This is where Jim died. He got a tough deal."

Lloyd promptly took the man in tow, and at the Bedford avenue station the third degree was applied with such success that, according to Captain Pinkerton, the man confessed to killing his own brother, clearing up the mystery which had baffled the police.

The prisoner gave his name as William Cody, 22 years of age, of 3229 Broadway. The dead man was his brother, James Cody, according to his confession. "On the night of the killing the men had gone out to rob a house. Both had been drinking heavily. William wanted more liquor, but James cautioned him that they had had enough, and if they took any more they were likely to make incriminating remarks in some saloon. A quarrel resulted. William drew a revolver. The two fought for it. In the struggle the weapon went off, the bullet piercing James Cody's heart. Magistrate Furlong held Cody without bail."

PORTLAND BANK WINS BIG SUIT IN MONTANA

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Butte, Mont., Nov. 4.—By the finding of a verdict for the plaintiff in the case of the First National bank of Portland, Oregon, against Eugene Carroll the jury has awarded judgment for $21,377.95. The case was tried in Judge McClerman's department of the district court and occupied six days. An appeal from the verdict was taken by the defendant but he has not yet been heard.

The $1,000 bond of Fred Woodson, indicted for peddling liquor in the hop fields of Yakima county without a special tax, was ordered forfeited. He did not answer when his name was called.
