WEATHER REPORT.

A storm of considerable energy moved eastward over British Columbia during the last 24 hours and is now central over the Dakotas and the British possessions immediately to the north of those states. It caused rain along the Washington coast and very light showers in the interior of western Washington and northwestern Oregon. Elsewhere throughout the United States fair weather has prevailed, except in the northern states east of the Mississippi river, where light snow flurries have occurred.

It is much cooler this morning in the Dakotas, the upper Mississippi, Ohio and Tennessee valleys, the lower lake region, the middle Atlantic and New England states. Elsewhere the temperature changes have been small and unimportant except in western Montana and in portions of Alberta, where it is considerably warmer.

The indications are that the weather in this district will continue generally fair during tonight and Tuesday. It will probably be cooler tonight in western Washington.
