TOBACCO DEALERS SAYS PEOPLE ARE ARE SHY NOW AWAKENING

Twenty-Three Have Been Fined for Selling Tobacco to Minors.

FENALTIES LIGHT AT FIRST, HEAVIER NOW

Crusade at Last Is Beginning to Have Salutary Effect, Says Deputy District Attorney Robert Galloway, Who Conducted the Prosecutions.

"The crusade against storekeepers who have been selling tobacco to boys under 18 years of age, in violation of the state law, is bearing its fruits," said Deputy District Attorney Robert Galloway as he put the last touches to his report for three and one half months. "From August 1 to November 15 I have prosecuted 23 cases before Presiding Judge Fraser of the circuit court, and the fines paid have amounted to $250. The greater part of these fines have been paid by the offenders who persisted in selling tobacco to boys in knickerbockers after being warned by the lessons given others that they should have to suffer severely."

The storekeepers prosecuted by Mr. Galloway were: R. H. Green, W. R. Jones, John J. Conboy, John Pulstra, E. J. Richards, Charles Sanderholm, A. Kaufman, Luther W. Place, Edward Barnett, Carlo Tonte, Frank Neuzerky, Christina Steirang and H. F. Taylor, fined $5 each; H. P. Boardman and Charles B. Rose, $10 each; Charles R. Rose, $15, and J. E. Bennett, R. Volken, A. H. Fisher, B. F. Hanegan, Cal. Dunning and Samuel Lechter, $25 each.

"When the crusade was begun," said Mr. Galloway after looking over the list, "Judge Fraser imposed fines of $5, believing the dealers would take warning and refrain from selling tobacco to boys. Violations of the law continued and the court raised the minimum to $10. Still, the boys were able to buy tobacco, and the court began to impose fines of $15 and the effect has been salutary. The maximum fine for the offense is $50."

"During the investigation of these cases I have learned that some stories that have obtained circulation, to the effect that the boys have obtained tobacco by misrepresenting their ages to the dealers, were made of whole cloth. In no case did the boy tell the dealer that he was 18 years old, nor did the dealer even ask him his age. However, any question as to age would have been entirely unnecessary in a majority of cases, for the lads were in short trousers and their dress was proof of their years."

"From a question asked me yesterday, I believe some dealers are innocently violating the law, and if they should be arrested they will be liable to punishment. This question asked was: 'May a dealer sell tobacco to a boy if the boy is sent to the store by his father, who is within sight of the dealer?' The dealer may sell the tobacco, but he is liable to punishment. A note from the father relieves the dealer of responsibility, but the fact that he is within sight does not. Of course, a note may be forged and passed on a dealer, but a boy who commits such an act may be punished in the juvenile court."

Dr. G. L. Tufts, Superintendent of State Anti-Saloon League, Sees Hope Ahead.

BEGINNING TO DEMAND ENFORCEMENT OF LAWS

Balance of Power Leagues Are Organized in Several Counties—System Has Worked Well in Many Other States, Says Dr. Tufts.

Dr. G. L. Tufts, superintendent of the anti-saloon league, has just returned from a trip over the state in the interest of his work. He visited Wasco, Sherman, Gilliam and Wheeler counties canvassing them thoroughly to sense public opinion. Addresses were given at the county seats and important towns before large audiences.

"I was impressed," said Dr. Tufts today, "with the fact that the people are demanding a better enforcement of their laws, and that they were outspoken against those officers who neglect their duties."

At The Dalles Wednesday night, a large mass meeting was held, and a county chairman and other officers and committees were appointed. Another meeting will be held at the court house next Wednesday night to complete the work of organization. The grand jury, which is now in session, will be urged to do some definite work towards law enforcement. Similar organizations were established at Moro, Condon, and Fossil for their respective counties.

The balance of power leagues are strictly non-partisan, or, as Dr. Tufts says, omni-partisan. The better class of citizens are urged to attend caucuses and primaries and concentrate their votes upon the best candidates who have a reasonable probability of being elected.

Said Dr. Tufts in one of his speeches: "This plan does not, as some people object, require men to vote dishonorably against their own party candidates. Tens of thousands in Massachusetts, Minnesota and Missouri, at the last presidential election, bolted the Republican ticket for a Democratic governor. Two years ago Mr. Herrick was elected governor of Ohio by 100,000 majority on the Republican ticket, but this year his Democratic opponent rode into office on a 50,000 majority. The party lash, vote a straight ticket, has lost its power."

"We cannot say what the balance of power plan will give these counties which have adopted it as relief from political corruption, for that depends upon who wields it. If the scepter is in the hands of the corrupt the government will be corrupt. But if the scepter be snatched from their hands by the moral, law-abiding element, as has been done in Ohio, and as the people in over one fourth of the counties of Oregon have organized to do, then we have grounds for the belief that the political atmosphere of this state soon will be purified and men unfaithful to their oath of office will be retired to private life."

(Journal Special Service.)
New York, Nov. 17.—Anson Phelps Stokes, the millionaire philanthropist, has told the Society of Naval Architects about a floating fort he invented, which he claims is the strongest fighting ship in the world. This remarkable vessel is 270 feet long, 150 feet broad, has displacement of 30,000 tons, 10,000 horsepower and can steam eight and one quarter knots an hour. She will carry two 15-inch guns and 20 3-inch guns, each of the 15-inch guns will weigh 135 tons. Thus equipped, Stokes said the floating fort can destroy any battleship in the world before the latter can get close enough to bring her own guns into range. She is practically four armored vessels in one and could fight when submerged up to the gun deck, in which case she would show scarcely more free board than a monitor.

WOODBURN COUNCIL HOLDS UP FRANCHISE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Woodburn, Or., Nov. 17.—The city council at a special meeting continued the matter of granting a franchise to the proposed Portland-Salem electric line over Walnut avenue, one of the fine residence thoroughfares of this city. The petition refers to electric and steam, and the council demurs to giving a right of way over this street, with its elegant residences, for a transcontinental road. There are no objections to either, but the council prefers another street for the latter. There is no doubt that everything will be cleared up before the next meeting.
