

WILL AIR FAMILY DIFFERENCES

Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Reynolds in Court Over Possession of Child.

CASE TO BE HEARD BY JUDGE FRAZER TUESDAY

Mrs. Reynolds Claims She Was Driven From Home, While Reynolds Says She Frequently Ran Away—Woman Wants Allowance.

The Guy E. Reynolds' family skeleton may be dragged from its closet next Tuesday morning and dusted and aired in the circuit court in the hearing of the habeas corpus proceedings instituted by Guy E. Reynolds of Clatsop, a post-office near Portland, for the possession of his 3-year-old daughter, now being kept away, so it is alleged, by Mrs. Reynolds.

Presiding Judge Frazer this morning overruled a motion to quash the writ of habeas corpus, and set next Tuesday as the time for hearing of the case. The case was occasioned by Mrs. Reynolds leaving her home and taking the child with her. The husband when the child returned, and it is claimed that he also wants his wife to come back.

John P. Kavanagh appeared as attorney for Mrs. Reynolds, and when his motion was not allowed he asked that the court instruct the husband to give a sum for the care of the wife and child. Mr. Kavanagh said:

"This woman has been driven away from her home and during the past two months has been given nothing for her support. Neither she nor the child have enough clothing, and she is now in a delicate condition, having recently undergone two serious operations. Although the husband has means, the wife was driven from her home without a cent.

"Appearing as attorney for Mr. Reynolds, I wish to say that the statement about the woman being driven from her home is false," responded Dan J. Maloney. "She was not driven from her home, but went away when her husband was not at home. She had left many times before, and her husband had written and begged her to return. Mr. Reynolds is willing to give his wife the comforts of his and up until recently she was given a regular allowance."

Reynolds is a dairyman, and is a son of Byron P. Reynolds, a well-known pioneer. The unhappy couple were married four years ago, and it is said that Mrs. Reynolds is now an invalid. She is staying at the home of her parents, H. H. Wright and wife, at Troutdale. It is said that at next Tuesday's hearing tales shall be told and it is believed that family troubles that long have been kept secret will be made public.

FOURTEEN SUITS WILL SETTLE TITLES TO LOTS

In order to quiet the title to 14 small suburban lots purchased at tax sales at various times during the past eight years, P. H. Marlay has begun 14 suits in the circuit court. In speaking of this list of cases, Richard W. Montague, attorney for Marlay, said:

"The property involved is a bunch of outlying lots which are not worth many dollars apiece, but the former owners cannot be found. The lots were purchased at numerous tax sales, and these suits are brought in order to locate the former owners so that a settlement can be made. If these people cannot be found then we wish an order from the court so that we can give a clear title to the land. The lots are worth from $5 to $25 each."

The suits are against the following named parties: N. Merrill, Fred C. and Grace S. Forbes, Joseph Best and W. W. Marquam, Mrs. Olivia Kitchen, Charles N. Wait, Catherine and Emma Robinson, Rita, and P. B. Hilbrook, James Chalmers, heirs of E. H. Long, and Administrator A. J. Owen. Katherine Schurman, Thomas A. Allison, Mary L. Hoffman, E. A. Whiting and Campbell T. Wilson.

THE LAST CALL TODAY AND TONIGHT

GREAT EXPOSITION SALE WILL SURELY CLOSE THIS EVENING.

Seven Sold Yesterday, Leaves but 15, Store Will Be Open Until After 10 O'Clock Tonight. If the Saving of Money Is an Object You Must Attend to This at Once. Make Payments to Suit Yourself on These Remaining Ones.

Only 15 instruments remain of all the splendid Exposition pianos, Pianolas, Clavinolas, included in this great closing-out sale, which started about a month ago. The sale will, undoubtedly, come to a close before this evening, and if you are coming you will have to hurry to the choice of the most expensive instruments still remain for sale. Any reasonable offer as to terms will not be refused.

Special interest will be excited in the beautiful Hazelton piano, which plays by means of an electric motor, can be attached to any light socket, and plays perfectly. You turn the button—the Hazelton furnishes the music. Don't imagine it is "grind-organ" music—to the contrary, it is playing as you would a virtuoso. The price is $250, and you'll admit it's worth twice that when you have seen and heard it.

A beautiful Chickering Grand should find a home today—who'll take it at $218 off.

Only one of the Pianolas pianos remains, and the beauty in the Maine building. Prices are 30 per cent off regular price.

Several used pianos for a song. Take the Newton for $68; others for $52, $108, $124. Some square pianos, $38, $48, $58, $68, $78, $88, $98.

A couple of Pianolas under price. Bear in mind that this sale ends the chance to secure that noble educator and entertainer at a discount. Year's library subscription goes with each.

If you want a fine piano, don't let this opportunity go by unheeded. If you do not wish to pay all cash you can arrange for monthly payments on the installment plan. These closing-out prices plus simple interest.

KREBS BROTHERS FOREEET THEIR HOP YARDS

Give Over to Salem Bank Eight Hundred Acres to Satisfy a Mortgage.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Salem, Or., Nov. 18.—Krebs Bros., famous as the owners of the largest individual hop yard in the world, have turned over to the Ladd & Bush bank $25 acres of hop land to satisfy mortgages amounting to $180,000.

Conrad Krebs has been the most persistent of borrowers in the hop market during the season just ended, and his firm held fully 1,500 bales of old hops at the opening of the present season. For most of these hops the firm paid about 30 cents a pound, with carrying charges of about 2 cents additional. This makes the total cost of the hops to Krebs Bros. amount to 32 cents a pound. These hops—last year's crop—are now selling in the market at about 6 cents a pound.

PORTLAND AUTHORESS WINS FRESH LAURELS

The Lothrop Publishing company of Boston has just issued the newest work for juveniles of Henrietta R. Elliott, a well-known Portland authoress, at 217 West Park street. It is entitled "Laura in the Mountains," and will prove of absorbing interest to children, while adults will find within its covers a good deal of literary material worthy of notice.

My husband called in whom we supposed was one of the best physicians in the city. He was not sure, but thought I deserved a trial. He gave me a few pills, but I gradually grew worse. I had a severe attack of influenza, and was left in bed for several weeks. I have now taken a few more pills, and I feel much better. I am sure that Dr. Fulton's medicine is the best in the world. I have heard of Dr. Fulton through friends of ours, we decided to call her in. In no time she was here and brought her medicine. Upon examination she pronounced it a case of acute gastritis, and after one treatment she was able to get up. I have not heard of my usual household duties. I ever had a severe attack of influenza, and I think her the most wonderful doctor I have met. "MRS. C. E. HUTTON, "200 Tenth St., Portland, Ore."
