NAUGHTON WRITES ABOUT THE LIMELIGHT PUGS

Sullivan Will Take on Gardner Next Friday and Betting Favors Letter at Ten to Seven—Expert Reviews Fight Situation and Prospects.

By W. W. Naughton. (Special Dispatch by Leased Wire to The Journal) San Francisco, Nov. 18.—The articles of agreement for the Fitzsimmons-O'Brien fight are signed, the forfeits are up and the men are in training. Mechanics' pavilion, San Francisco, is named as the arena and while nothing has been learned officially in regard to the permit for December, it is believed that Jim Coffroth and his associates have received assurance that they will receive the necessary sanction. It is being told around, in fact, that ten of the superiors have signed an instrument attesting their willingness to vote for a Coffroth permit when the matter comes up in council and it is on the strength of its guarantee that the Yosemite club managers are going ahead with their arrangements. The date of the match has been left open until December 1, the understanding being that Fitz and O'Brien are to arrive for the heavy-weight championship sometime between the twentieth and twenty-fifth of the month. Fitzsimmons has gone into quarters at Croli's over in Alameda. At first he intended to camp at some more distant point so as to get the benefit of the inland climate, but the western critics suggested to Fitz that in view of his reported collapse while training at Salt Lake, it would be better for him to locate where the fight fans could keep track of him. It was at Croli's that Fitzsimmons prepared for his match with George Gardner. He was in bed when the Lowell man and he says now he can see where he made fatal errors while training. "Why, I used to go out in the road in the pouring rain and as a consequence I had something very like pneumonia when I had to stand up and fight," says Fitzsimmons.

Fitz's Foolish Tricks. The writer happens to know that the Cornishman did other foolish things. There was considerable talk about his weight at that time and he wanted to show that he could reach 155 pounds. He tricked and tricked until his feet were blistered and he overworked generally. It was claimed that he reached the 150-pound mark one day, but he was a strategy looking Fitzsimmons and under urgent advice from his trainer he allowed himself to fill out again. He was always bent on showing how supple and spry he was and on one occasion it was the day before the fight he believed he ran a race with the local train and caused great trepidation among his handlers who feared he might foul the locomotive or throw a splint. He is a very staid Fitzsimmons this trip, however. He recognizes, no doubt, that every year of life detracts from a man's elasticity and he is going to take great care of himself. Long road trips will be tabooed and working in the rain will be eliminated from the schedule entirely. Short walks and plenty of sprinting will be in order and everything that conduces to the acquisition of speed will be practiced. The Cornishman is looking forward to a feast of boxing. He will have Harry Foley for a partner to begin with and Al Kaufman will take the honors in his later bouts. Bob will emulate O'Brien to the extent of inviting pugilistic wayfarers to have a turn with the gloves.

O'Brien Is Satisfied. Jack O'Brien finds the surroundings to his liking out at the Ocean Beach and he will continue in quarters there. As a matter of fact O'Brien did not relax to any extent after his affair with Kaufmann. He said at that time that he had never gone through a more thorough course of preparation, and for that matter the degree of energy he infused into his work showed that he was in condition perfect. He may not be in any better shape when he tackles Fitzsimmons, but with a camp that suits him and several weeks to prepare in, he should certainly be as good. This means that while there may be some question as to the fit Fitzsimmons will be in when he lands in the ring, there will be none at all in the case of O'Brien. The Philadelphia will surely be fit for the traditional king's ransom. In meeting Fitzsimmons, O'Brien has about reached the height of his ambition. Jack may have said at odd times in the past that he was willing to take a crack at the mighty Jeffries, but when Jeffries retired and gave evidence that he meant to stay retired, there was a rift in the clouds and Mr. O'Brien began to have day dreams. The offer of a match with Kaufmann was a stepping-stone for O'Brien and now comes the chance of a fight with Fitzsimmons. He thinks that with Jeffries out of it, Fitzsimmons is the biggest man—that is in the public estimation—and he believes he can attend to Fitzsimmons. "You must remember that Jeffries is the only fighter who defeated Fitzsimmons decisively," mused Jack.

Now apart from all considerations it would be something to be able to say, "I also defeated Fitzsimmons." I think I can do it and that's why I'm so eager to be in a position to talk about it." Sullivan and Gardner. Next Friday night Mike Sullivan and Jimmy Gardner will hold the boards at Woodward's. Up to the present no bets have been recorded in the poolrooms, but it is reported that Gardner is a favorite in the hand-to-hand warring. The price against Sullivan being 10 to 7. Both men are working hard and it is felt that there will be no advantage on the score of condition when they step to the center. There being no limit to the price against Sullivan being 10 to 7. "You must remember that Jeffries is the only fighter who defeated Fitzsimmons decisively," mused Jack.

He is saying he is matched with me just to fool the public," says Jimmy. "He knows that there is a demand for a Nelson-Gardner fight and he is trying to head it off by saying we are already matched to box in April. We are not. What is more, I think the public will force him to fight me before April and he will give me the same terms as Jimmy Britt—that is, three hours before entering the ring." Gardner has already admitted to the writer that he cannot do 135, ring-side and to be equally frank with him I will say I have my doubts as to whether he can make 135 at any time on the date of a fight. Meanwhile it will be just as well to remember that a settlement is to be reached with Mr. Michael Sullivan of Boston.

FOUR FAVORITES WIN AT OAKLAND TRACK

Nagazam Captures Sain Handicap in Good Time—Other Races at Oakland and Benings Tracks—Twenty to One Shot Wins at Washington.

(Special Dispatch by Leased Wire to The Journal) San Francisco, Nov. 18.—The Hamburg handicap, at a mile and a sixteenth, and the Sain, for 2-year-olds, were the drawing cards at Oakland today. The Hamburg resulted in a sensational race, San Nicholas, the first choice, led most of the way, and in a furious drive to the wire to stall off Reservation, Davis on the favorite allowed Lady Goodrich to gain a couple of lengths by taking the rail and the last-named poked her nose in front under the wire. San Nicholas was a neck ahead of Reservation.

Nagazam, a good one from the Jennings stable, was installed choice in the Sain handicap and won after a hard drive to catch 'Im Joe. Sir Edward ran disappointingly. Four favorites won. Summary: Mile—Jack (T. Sullivan), 9 to 1, won; Dora L., second; Eleven Belis, third. Time, 1:45. On Saturday, November 25, the last and in a way most important game of the interscholastic league series will be played on Multnomah field between Portland academy and Hill Military. The cadets for five years have not been able to prevent Portland academy from defeating them. Portland academy, on the other hand, must win this game in order to claim the championship, which was not decided by yesterday's game. Portland High school has defeated Newell's academy and Hill Military and was defeated herself by Portland academy. Portland academy, on the other hand, has defeated Newell and the High school and if she is defeated by Hill next Saturday will have won two and lost one. In other words she will be tied with Portland High school for first place. For High school also has two games to her credit, and the championship will remain undecided for this year.

Conditions Favor P. A. The Hill team's career this year has been a peculiar one. It defeated Pacific university, next lost to the Y. M. C. A., then tied with Marshall-Wells, lost to the High school and tied with Newell. Columbia university was not able to score against the cadets, though they badly defeated the Y. M. C. A. team, that won from the cadets. Hill academy is now in excellent physical condition, hard as rocks and two 35-minute halves will be no more work for them than their daily practice. Their weakness in defensive halfbacks and ends has disappeared and Portland academy will have to hustle to win. Hill Military academy has no foxy plays, but she has lots of clean, straight and hard football, delivered straight from the shoulder and with a goodly amount of beef behind it, and she may give the academy as much as the academy can give her. Meanwhile both teams will be working harder than ever to get into the best shape possible for this game. There will be rooters galore.

TEDDY JR. CARRIED OFF GRIDIRON

In Yale-Harvard Freshman Game President's Son is Carried Off the Field.

YOUNGSTER PLAYED A HARD, GRITTY GAME

First Year's Sons of Eli Were Too Much for the Crimson Players—Against His Wishes Young Roosevelt Is Taken Off Field in a Daze.

(Special Dispatch by Leased Wire to The Journal) Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 18.—Theodore Roosevelt, president, has a favorite word. It is "bully." If he could have seen Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., freshman, play his first game of football today he would have used it often.

They carried Teddy, struggling feebly, out of the game before it was over. He had been beaten down until there was not a bone in his body that did not ache. When he had taken all the punishment one young man could stand and could not even stand, much more tackle his opponent, they saw him push off his captain, who told him he was "all in" and make it necessary for them to take him to the side line by force.

They saw him come out of the heaps of struggling youngsters and stagger to his position looking for more. ZUBRICK AND TRACEY MATCHED FOR CONTEST

Bud Smith, manager of the Vancouver Athletic club, has arranged for a match between Tommy Tracey and Warren Zubrick for the early part of December.

CLEVER WORK

A very clever piece of detective work was recently executed in this city, and that by a boy, Frank Michael by name, of the Ohio hotel. Saml Rosenblatt & Co., the progressive clothiers, expecting a visit from the representative of Ederheimer, Stein & Co., boys' clothing manufacturers, offered a suit of clothes as a prize to the boy who would find the representative and make himself known to him by a certain phrase before he left town. As there was no clue to start from other than a man was coming to the city representing Ederheimer, Stein & Co., the lad showed marked talent in finding him.

COLUMBIA SECONDS BEAT THE PORTLAND TIGERS

The Columbia Second Juniors yesterday added another victory to their unbroken list at the University campus, the Tigers of Portland being the victims. The field was all a pool of water and all the players were wet through. Joe Campbell for Columbia played a star game, making a drop kick from the 25-yard line. The Tigers outweighed the Juniors. Most of the big gains were made around the ends, although McDonald made several good gains through right guard. Sullivan for the Tigers played a fine game, bringing down the man almost every time. The Juniors played well together but their interference could have been better. Hanlon for the Tigers played a good game. The lineup: Second Juniors. Tigers. Chickabank C. Hurley. Becker R. G. Weisendagger. Tichener L. G. McMonies. Sianet R. T. Coogrove. Nelson L. T. Kelly. Shannon R. E. Sullivan. J. Krebs L. E. Fitzgerald. Roe Q. B. Hurley. Henriot R. H. B. Karney. Campbell H. B. Hanlon. McDonnell C. F. B. Dube. Time of halves—15 minutes. Referee—Clark Moore. Umpire—F. Walte. Score—6-0.
