

CHIEF KILLED BY WATCHMAN

Charles Jones of The Dalles Meets Death in Struggle With Officer.

CAUGHT TAKING FLOUR FROM DIAMOND MILLS

When Arrested by Policeman Gibbons Makes Desperate Assault With Fatal Results—Coroner Investigating the Tragedy.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
The Dalles, Or., Nov. 20.—For the last ten years bargains of various descriptions have been brought to the attention of the police in this town, but evidence could not be secured to arrest or convict any one. Three weeks ago James Sadler of the Diamond Flouring Mills reported to Chief of Police Wood that some one was stealing flour. Up to this time he could not get any one to believe that thefts of flour had been going on in town. Chief Wood detailed Night Officer Ralph Gibbons on the case. The mills have since been watched nightly, but the thief was too smooth to be caught. He made three calls since Thursday night, and took six barrels of flour in one night. About 3 o'clock last night the officer in hiding saw Charles Jones enter the back door of the mill. Jones came out with a sack of flour and was arrested. While searching him Jones caught the officer's pistol and a struggle for life followed. In the struggle five shots were fired, two taking effect, killing Jones instantly, one penetrating the abdomen and the other the breast. Jones had Gibbons on his knees several times, and it was only by chance that the latter killed his assailant. Other officers were immediately summoned and the body taken to the morgue. Jones, it is said, had made threats to kill the officers before, and is said to have tried to kill his wife Saturday night. He had robbed several stores and warehouses and was concerned in the Dr. Wall robbery at Lyle in 1902. He had a skeleton key.

TWELVE-YEAR-OLD BOYS RUN AWAY FROM ALBANY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Albany, Or., Nov. 20.—The young sons of John Morgan and Charles Hogue, living near this city, had aged about 12 years old, and have disappeared from their homes and the police are searching for the little runaways. The boys left home some time early Saturday morning but nothing was thought of their absence until late Saturday night when a search began for them. It was not until yesterday that the parents of the little fellows realized that the boys had left home with no intention of returning and the case was given into the hands of the police. The little fellows had no money and took very little in the way of clothing with them. It is thought they will soon be discovered in some nearby town and returned to their homes.

Asks Big Damages.

Ed and Al Mendenhall, attorneys for George W. Davis, who is being sued for $25,000 by Mary Prescher, who alleges a breach of promise, have filed a motion in the circuit court requesting that the complaint filed in the suit state what constitutes a reasonable time when the two should have wed. The complaint says that Davis promised to marry the girl within a reasonable time. Mary Prescher is a Roseburg (Oregon) girl who worked in the Portland home of Davis before the death of Mrs. Davis.

NEW FLOATING DRY DOCK FOR SMALL CRAFT

C. M. Heyes Heads Incorporation—Will Be Convenience of Mosquito Fleet.

Portland is to have a new drydock. It will be a floating dock similar to the one owned by the Port of Portland. The new structure will be used in the repairing of small vessels, those of 70 feet in length to be the limit in size. The dock will be located at some point along the river within the corporate limits of the city.
Articles of incorporation for the Pacific Drydock company were filed in the county clerk's office this morning. The incorporators are: Clarence M. Heyes, Monroe French and J. N. Peary. The capital stock is given as $3,000, to be divided into shares of $10 each. It is said that Mr. Heyes will be the principal shareholder. It is expected that work on the new dock will begin in a few days.
At present owners of small craft do not like to have to pay to have them docked at St. Johns whenever repairs are necessary. If this course is not taken the vessels must be hauled up out of the water. A new dock will be the means of a great saving to owners of small vessels.

JOHN T. BEAGLE, PIONEER ROSSES GREAT DIVIDE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Pendleton, Or., Nov. 20.—John T. Beagle, one of the pioneers of Oregon died last night at 9 o'clock in this city, at the home of his sister, Mrs. C. A. Turner, 521 Thompson street, after an illness of several years.
The deceased was born in Missouri, March 13, 1828. In 1843 he came across the plains with his parents, who settled in the Willamette valley near Forest Grove, where they lived until 1854, when they moved to California. The family moved back to eastern Oregon in 1861 and made this their home until 1875 when they went to Colorado and Wyoming living there until 1903, when he returned to Pendleton to make his home with his sister, Mrs. Turner.
Funeral services will be held at the home of Mrs. Turner at 701 Thompson street, this afternoon.

WRECK OF THE HILDA

morning is the foremost sticking out of water. The six survivors picked up by the tug Chateaubriant were half unconscious, tied to the mast. They were taken off by lifeboats from the steamer Ada, which had arrived at the scene to assist in the rescue. Two are expected to die and the rest are in bad condition from exposure. They state that they owe their escape to having been standing alongside the foremost when the vessel broke and were able to climb into the rigging before the remnant of the hull lodged on the rock.
Among those who are said to have perished were Lord Lansborough's sister, the Hon. Mrs. Butler, Colonel Follett and 20 cabin passengers, including several English army officers with their families and other English people of wealth en route to spend the season at Mediterranean resorts.
The Hilda was built at Glasgow in 1882 and registered 348 tons. She was an iron screw steamer 235 feet in length and was the property of the Southwestern Railroad company.

FILES NEW CHARGES AGAINST WIFE

G. W. Earl Answers Divorce Petition of Frances Earl With More Damaging Assertions.

Attorney Ed Mendenhall this morning in the circuit court filed additional affidavits in the divorce case of Frances D. Earl against G. W. Earl, two being from C. E. Elliott and wife of Wellington, Kansas, and another from Earl. Earl says that he spent several days in Summit county, Ohio, last October investigating the former actions of his wife and her brother, Leon Jones. His petition says: "I met a number who knew them for a long time, but not one would say that either she or Jones had a good reputation and on the contrary they were freely criticized and not above suspicion."
Earl denies that he ever told Jones that he was worth $5,000, but declares that his alleged brother-in-law asked neighbors regarding the Earl wealth.
C. E. Elliott, an attorney at Wellington, Kansas, and a nephew of Earl, affirms that he visited his uncle's home in this city last July. He states that while here it seemed that Leon Jones was the head of the family and that the actions of Mrs. Earl were "decidedly unbecoming."
Mrs. Camilla Elliott affirmed her husband's story of their visit to the Lewis and Clark exposition and of the things they saw at the Earl home.
The hearing of the case will be commenced Thursday morning in the circuit court.

six months from Antwerp for Portland with a general cargo. One of the ships on the outside is supposed to be the vessel has been placed on the over-due list and insurance rates have been advanced.
Advice to the merchants' exchange this morning state that the American barkentine Katie Flickinger, which was preparing to sail from Redondo for Portland yesterday, got caught in a heavy northwest gale and was blown ashore. It is believed that she can be floated and tugboats are now working with her.
The Katie Flickinger is an old trader at Portland. For the past year she has been engaged regularly in carrying lumber from here to California ports. She usually handles about 1,000,000 feet at a trip.

STORM AT SEA.

Fleet Is Harbored at Westport—Sea Reported Very Rough.
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Aberdeen, Wash. Nov. 20.—A severe storm with occasional high wind has raged for the last three days and a fleet of steamers are harbored at Westport. The steamer Grand Dollar, which left from the bank inside of a heavy Thursday, has been floated. With the steamer Coronado and the steamer Newberg she is harbored at Westport. The steamer Cascade was to leave Hoquiam yesterday but cannot get out. The steamer Norwood, due Friday noon, is harbored outside, showing the bar very rough, as steamers can often cross in which they cannot get out. One or more schooners are outside. The tug captains say the bar is unusually rough.

MRS. A. P. ARMSTRONG DIES OF HEART DISEASE

The announcement that Mrs. A. P. Armstrong died suddenly of heart disease yesterday morning was a severe blow to the many friends of the family. Mrs. Armstrong was raised in Portland. Her husband is principal of the Portland Business college. She was a sister of Mrs. Ralph W. Hoyt. Besides the husband, a daughter, Bertine, survives her.
Funeral services will be held at the late residence, 131 East Madison street, Tuesday forenoon at 10:30 o'clock. Friends are invited. Interment will be private.
Misses Jean, Old Gent—Have you washing ink? Trademark—Yes. Going to make sure of no break-off promises suits? Old Gent—Oh, my going to give my daughter a check for $5 as a wedding present.

WILL HONOR MEMORY OF IRISH MARTYRS

Ancient Order of Hibernians Plans Exercises to Be Held Wednesday Evening.

Lovers of liberty are invited by the members of division No. 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians, to meet with them next Wednesday evening at the Hibernian hall, corner Second and Stark streets, to honor the memory of Michael O'Brien, Michael Larkin and William Philip Allen, the Manchester martyrs. The three men were hanged in front of the Manchester jail November 23, 1867, for having taken part in the rescuing of Colonel Thomas Kelly and Captain Deasey, famous Fenian leaders, from the police.
Secretary D. W. Lane has been working on plans for the entertainment for some time and yesterday the following were appointed to assist him: Professor M. L. Morris, John Farrell, William McCarthy and Patrick Casley.
Dr. Andrew S. Smith will preside at Wednesday's entertainment and the principal oration will be given by E. H. D'Arcy of Salem. J. H. Murphy will also make an address on "The Career of Wolfe Tone, the first Apostle of the Irish Union." There will be solos by Miss Kate Conway, Miss Lena Harvas, J. F. Meenan and P. D. Henney of this city and T. W. Sullivan of Spokane.
Yesterday's meeting of the Hibernians was presided over by E. H. Deery. In speaking of the coming memorial he said:
"Oppression in Ireland at present is less than it was when the Manchester execution took place, but it is had even now. Industry is greatly handicapped by heavy taxes to support a ruler that the country were better rid of."
"The worst feature of Ireland is the bitter divisions along religious lines. For much of this England is responsible, because it is her policy to encourage strife among the people and keep them divided."
"The mission of the Irish who are in America is to do what they can to teach the people of Ireland that they should give up their religious dissensions and unite for common good. By memorial services for O'Brien, Allen and Larkin we recall the cause which they represented and bring before the Irish of today the necessity of united effort."

IF YOU DRINK

upon church membership but Christ and the church. Of course there are many moral reforms in which the church is interested, but the church should demand subscription to any of them or to make any requirements other than in God's Word."
H. W. Stone, secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, seconds this view substantially.
"Personally," he said, "I believe strongly in the prohibition of the liquor traffic, and I believe that if it were a question of admitting or connecting with the liquor business himself, he should not be received. But the question should not be raised with others, for in church membership belief in Jesus Christ is the issue, not prohibition. A man may be a good Christian and yet not believe in prohibition."
World Should Encourage Unbelievers.
Dr. Clarence True Wilson, of Grace Methodist church, goes a little farther and believes that those unbelievers should be encouraged to join the church for the good they may derive therefrom.
"The church is meant to educate people; not to keep them out. I can hardly agree with the view that prohibitory principles should be made a requirement for admission. The church is a school and surely it can do more good for men and women by receiving them in hope than by shutting them out. They may not believe in all things as we do now, but we have the chance to preach to them twice every Sunday and once in the week and we may see a change later. I think the church will have a greater influence on these men in than out."

Each Church Must Decide.

"The individual church must decide such a question for itself," said Dr. F. E. Shaffer, pastor of the First Baptist church. "I cannot express any criticism of Mr. Shaffer's action with regard to his church, for that would be what we call 'butting in.' If it meets with the approval of the church it is all right in my own church, though I don't think it would be practicable. I must ask certain questions of my candidates and those only. While this question would not change the church doctrine or policy, it would, I might say, narrow it, and I have no right or law to ask it. I believe in prohibition myself but I could not require it of a church member. I believe in my church members maintaining a high standard of Christian life that every member will be a testator, but the individual is left to decide, just as with our amusements."
"Though I am in favor of the total prohibition of the liquor traffic," said Dr. E. B. Muckley of First Christian church, "and do not believe any member of my church is in favor of the accursed business, and though I do not hesitate to proclaim from the pulpit my advocacy of its destruction, yet I am not in favor of Mr. Shaffer's new test of membership."
No Scriptural Right.
"He has no scriptural right, as I understand the New Testament, to make any other test of fellowship than faith in Christ and willingness to obey him. As consistently might he ask his candidate to believe in the desecration of the cigarette traffic, or the quitting of the saloon."
