

The Market Basket

While there will be a heavy shortage in the supplies of turkeys in the United States for the dinner next Thursday, Oregon housewives, and Portland ones especially, will be somewhat more fortunate. Dry weather with plenty of sunshine the past season and larger operations by turkey-raisers have combined to increase materially the production of the Thanksgiving birds. Had it not been for the fact that Oregon is looked upon by the entire Pacific coast as the natural place to secure turkeys prices this year would be rather low. As matters stand, there will be enough to go around, but the price is likely to remain at 25 cents a pound for the dressed article.

Perhaps it may not be known generally by those who eat turkeys that there is created one spot that seems to have been created especially for the raising of these toothsome birds. This is Oakland, not Oakland, California, but Oakland, Oregon. The surrounding country is often known as "turkeyville" by those who trade there. Every season buyers visit Oakland, coming from all parts of the Pacific slope. The Puget sound cities depend upon this state almost altogether for their turkeys, and they almost all come from Oakland.

berry-producing section and practically all the supplies used in this market at present are from there. The first cranberries of the season in Portland generally arrive from Cape Cod, but when Jerseys come into the field it is the signal for all others to disappear. This year it has been estimated that there is a shortage of fully 100,000 barrels of cranberries in the United States. Cranberry-raising has been experimented with successfully in Oregon—in fact this state has been raising good cranberries for years. The bogs around Tillamook and Coos-bay are natural cranberry grounds. The business up to this time has been in the nature of an experiment, but is growing and a great deal of additional capital has been placed in the venture the past season.

It takes considerably more than turkeys and cranberries to make a successful Thanksgiving dinner. There are the raisins, for instance. Raisins are slightly higher this season on account of a short grape crop in California. Then there is the celery, that should never be left off the table on that day. Its cost is small but it fits in its regular place in the festival. Mince pie should not be forgotten, even if one is compelled to go to a bakery and buy it.

Cranberries to go with the turkey will cost more money this year. Cranberries are cheap, so the rise in prices does not amount to much for each family, but taking it altogether the grocers receive a considerable advance over what was obtained a year ago. New Jersey remains the principal cran-

Along with the other incidents that go toward completing the Thanksgiving dinner are the fruits. The apples that make Oregon famous should not be denied a place on the table, and nuts—very raisins, for instance. Raisins are slightly higher this season on account of a short grape crop in California. Then there is the celery, that should never be left off the table on that day. Its cost is small but it fits in its regular place in the festival. Mince pie should not be forgotten, even if one is compelled to go to a bakery and buy it.

CLAIMS FOR 29 IN ONE TOWNSHIP

Lincoln County Fine Field for Operations of Gardner and McCrossen.

ONE THIRD OF VICTIMS RESIDENTS OF PORTLAND

Seventeen Live in Boise—McCrossen Out of Town Somewhere, but Partner Is Still Doing Business in the City.

Records of the Roseburg land office show that Lincoln county was a jurisdiction field for timber sharks, W. H. McCrossen and J. W. Gardner. Within the last few months 29 persons were located in a single township in that county and there is abundant reason to believe that most, if not all of them, were the victims of a swindle and never saw the land on which they fled.

Each of the victims paid a locating fee of $100 to $200, so that McCrossen and Gardner cleared up several thousand dollars from this single locality. By tampering with the inscriptions made by the government surveyors and by means of false witness trees, the entrymen were led to believe that the rich timber land to which they were taken was the same described in their claims, and they readily parted with their money, expecting rich returns.

Township 14 south, range 11 west, lying almost due south from Toledo, shows the scene of the operations. About one third of the entrymen are residents of Portland and the remainder, with one exception, are from Boise, Idaho.

The Portland residents who took up claims in this township are: Mark Patterson, William T. Patterson and Alta Patterson, 391 Ivon street; William H. Morehouse, Lillian Morehouse and Zedda Morehouse, 14 North avenue; H. H. Carey, 1521 East Thirteenth street; Warren Walden, 205 Market street; James Roberts, 1205 Milwaukee avenue; Wilber H. McManis and Hattie McManis, 813 Umattilla avenue.

Seventeen residents of Boise, Idaho, trustingly paid their money to McCrossen and Gardner. The list is as follows: Albert C. Nedstrom, Chester C. Crowley, Chris Moffat, Otto F. Peterson, Emerson Wheeler, A. F. Long, Robert Brown, Anna W. Long, Joseph Dion, John Mair, Duncan McLaren, Luella Macreath, Sarah C. Milnes, Samuel Milnes, Alice Koll, L. Wardwell Boeck, John Boeck.

Clarence Fegies of Yoncalla, Oregon, completes the roll of entrymen in this township who were located by McCrossen and Gardner.

McCrossen is said to have gone to California, though another report is to the effect that he is in southern Oregon waiting for the public to forget the recent revelations as to his peculiar method of doing business. Gardner is still in Portland and is said to be reaping a fair harvest, even now from credulous "investors."

Excitement on Morrison Street.

The second grand bankrupt stock of E. P. Kelly has arrived and is being disposed of by Will Wolf, 329 Morrison street, amid a large and appreciative gathering, such as has never before been seen in Portland, both from the standpoint of the quality of the goods and the size of the patronage. It can be truthfully remarked that the stock being sacrificed is one of unusual value and consists of a full line of clothing, underwear, socks, shoes, hats, etc.

Lecture at Men's Resort.

Alfred Foster will give the third of the series of stereopticon lectures at the Men's and Pagan's Institute, corner of Fourth and Burnside streets, tonight at 7:45 o'clock. The subject is "Japan, the Fiji Islands and Jenolan Caves." One hundred colored views will be used. The lecture is free and all are welcome. Tomorrow night Mr. Foster gives an elocutionary recital, assisted by the Webber Mandolin club.

The Big Fire Sale of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Shoes and Hats will be on sale at 172 Third street.

Site for Proposed Electric Light Plant.

Eugene, Or., Nov. 24.—The city of Eugene has finally settled upon a site for the proposed municipal electric light plant. Yesterday W. T. Campbell, a local capitalist, who has been foremost in promoting the municipal ownership idea, decided to the city the power site which he recently located and appropriated to the McKenzie river, 14 miles east of Eugene. His site was deemed a better and more advantageous one than the one located by the city 15 miles further up the river.

Ever since it has been reported that the city might secure the Campbell site stories of graft have been circulated, but these are dispelled by the fact that Campbell receives from the city the sum of only $25.00, his actual expenses in locating and filing on the site.

DR. SLATTEN FORBIDDEN TO APPEAR IN COURT

Local Dentist Fails to Pay Money for Wife's Attorney's Fees and Support.

By an order of court issued by Presiding Judge Fraser this morning, Dr. Warren T. Slatten, a local dentist, will not be permitted to appear in the circuit court as a defendant in the divorce suit begun against him by Sadie E. Slatten. This order was issued because Slatten had failed to pay his wife $50 cash for costs and attorneys' fees and $5 a week for the support of herself and child. His wife alleges that during the past few months all that her husband has given her was $1 and one roll of butter.

The Slattens were married May 14, 1922. In the complaint filed in the divorce case begun by Mrs. Slatten on October 19, 1934, and in which treatment is alleged. The defendant says that her husband drank heavily and called her vile names.

Dr. Slatten denied the charges, and said that he had stayed at home every night during the past seven years excepting when his business required that he go down town. He denied being a man of vicious habits, and declared that his wife had offered him $25 if he would not appear in court when the divorce case was tried and he being stated also that last April his wife had informed him that she had made up her mind to quit living with him.

He alleged that he was unable to pay the money his wife had asked.
