

TRAPPED BIG GAME ON THE RANGE

Famous Dick Rock Ranch in Montana Backed by Wealthy Salt Lake City Men.

HUNDREDS OF ANIMALS WERE CAPTURED ALIVE

Owners Supplied Circus Men and Preserves of the East—One of the Owners Killed by a Buffalo Bull and Herd Is Sold.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Anaconda, Mont., Nov. 25.—Salt Lake City men have bought the Dick Rock ranch, and it is to be called, and the property will probably lose much of its old time novelty and charm in becoming a resort for wealthy men who desire to bring down big game on one of the wildest and most picturesque sections in the Rocky mountains. The ranch was taken up 20 years ago by Smith and Rock and served a novel purpose. The men, captives of the hundreds of wild animals, kept them at the ranch for a while and then sold them to circus men or rich New Yorkers who paid liberally for animals with which to stock their game preserves in the Adirondacks.

Smith and Rock became acquainted in the early days of Montana. Many a buffalo fell beneath their aim and Rock was accounted a wonder when it came to skinning these animals, often removing the skins from half a hundred in one day with nothing to aid him except his knife. But in the end he forfeited his life to a buffalo's rage. The partners built immense pens at their Henry's lake ranch during the summer months. When winter came and the snow became deep, the men would fasten Norwegian sled runners to the pens and pull them up the hillside and scaly forth to locate a herd of elk. This done, they drove the animals ahead of them like cattle, as they were unable to escape by the deep snow. They walked into the pens that had been previously stocked, with catching food and their captives put up the bars. The prices paid for the animals ranged about like this: Elk, $45 to $100 apiece; bears, $50; mountain sheep, $250; deer, $30, and the purchasers paid the freight and met the expense of getting the animals to the railroad. In five years they had secured 25 bears, 20 mountain goats and several moose were trapped. Three buffalo calves were the last brought into the fold. The late V. E. Smith was pining for civilization and at last sold out his share of the business to his partner and wedded a bright-eyed Anaconda girl. He still resides in this city. Rock thought his buffalo had been tamed by captivity and grew careless of danger. One day he ventured too close to one of them and the animal rushed upon him with a bellow and gored him to death. His widow afterward sold the skins and they are now the property of Senator Clark of Montana and are kept at Columbia gardens, Butte's pleasure resort.

EVERYTHING BOOMING IN NORTHEASTERN LEWIS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Chehalis, Wash., Nov. 25.—Commissioner Tilly has returned from a trip to Mineral Lake, in the northeastern part of Lewis county. He reports things progressing in that neighborhood, a big sawmill that will cut 100,000 daily being well under way at Mineral Lake and construction progressing on the Tacoma & Eastern. About 40 Japs are at work on the railroad. While there Tilly authorized some road work near Mineral. He says that the county will get an increased valuation of probably $100,000 next year on the improvements going on in that section.

Tilly has recently closed an arrangement for about three and a half miles plank road that will be once pushed to completion on Lincoln creek. Gray Bros. of Cowitz are sawing the lumber. This will give about 13 miles of plank road to the farmers of the Lincoln creek valley.

Windsor Weddings Illegal. Windsor, Ont., Nov. 25.—A decision just handed down by the attorney-general of the Dominion is to the effect that marriages contracted by Americans in Windsor are invalid, and that a residence is necessary in this town before a license can be taken out. Hundreds of Americans, among them many clergies, are annually wedded here.

SUPPORT ASSURED ALASKA LINE

A. H. Devers Promises Fifty Dollars a Month, Business or No Business.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SOUNDING BUSINESS MEN

Coal, Oil and Copper Regarded as Permanent Wealth Sources—Boats Might Have Coal Cargo Coming Back—Portland Distributing Point.

A movement to establish a steamship line between Portland and the Valdez-Kayak-Seward region of Alaska has assumed definite form in an effort that is being made by the Portland chamber of commerce to ascertain the amount of support such a line would receive from merchants and shippers. The first man called upon—A. H. Devers, of Closset & Devers—replied:

"You may put this firm down for support to the extent of $50 per month for any steamship line that will operate on that route, whether we ship anything or not."

This is the spirit in which the undertaking is being received. Portland merchants long have been convinced that there are great trade opportunities for Portland in the copper, coal and oil fields that are being opened up along the coast of western Alaska. They are further convinced that no city in the United States has a whiter location than Portland for trade with these regions. The outside route for steamships offers a straight course from the mouth of the Columbia to Seward, Valdez, Kayak, Cordova bay or Sitka. The population and business of this part of Alaska will exceed within two years, it is said, that of any other part of the great north country.

Permanent Industries. The nature of the resources of Kayak, Valdez and Seward, peninsula is such that the industries will be permanent and their prosperity absolutely certain. It is said that far more wealth will come out of the coal, oil and copper than has been produced from the frozen placers of the Yukon country. The business of merchandising will be permanent and reliable, credits will be good because there is ample capital behind the coal, copper and oil developments and the character of these industries gives strong support to the financial fabric of any community they build up. To carry on copper mining and smelting, coal mining and oil production requires large population, and it is said by those who are in a position to know that at Cordova bay, the harbor selected by the New York railroad syndicate for a railroad system in the Copper river country, will be built the largest city in Alaska. Portland proposes to have a steamship line running to Cordova bay.

Return Cargo of Coal. "With the opening of the Kayak coal mines, the navigation problem will be solved. Ships will be able to secure a return cargo, and, what is almost as important, they will not be obliged to carry fuel for more than the one way trip," said a steamship man. "One of the troubles of this business has been that a ship sailing from Portland would have to carry fuel enough to last her for the round trip, and so much space was taken by the fuel that, together with the loss involved by returning in ballast, there was no profit in the run. These conditions, now that they are rapidly changing, the coal situation in the Kayak district is the most encouraging factor. As soon as there is coal on the docks at Kayak or Cordova bay for shipment, no steamship will require any outside help to establish a business. The undertaking will be simply a matter of having a good ship and enough money to handle the coal business. Rates for transportation of merchandise from Portland to Alaska can be reduced when the coal carrying trade begins, and this further will benefit the Portland proposition.

Portland the Coal Market. "This city will be the best market on the north coast for Kayak coal for two reasons: There are no coal mines in the immediate vicinity of Portland, as in the case at Seattle and Tacoma, and the completion of the north bay line of the Northern Pacific will give Portland a second water grade route to the east for transporting the anthracite to the interior of the country. It naturally follows that this city will be the favored distributing point for the coal that is brought from Alaska, and the territory of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company, Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Burlington roads will receive fuel through this port in preference to hauling it over the mountains from sound ports to the interior."

A San Francisco steamship line is ready to conclude arrangements with Portland merchants for starting an Alaska line next spring. The president of the company has taken up the question seriously and asks that Portland merchants show him what the extent of the support would be here for such a line. This question the chamber of commerce is investigating. It is believed the merchants are unanimous in favor of the undertaking and that a definite proposition will be the outcome.

POULTRY SHOW WILL OPEN AT CORVALLIS

Indications That Exhibits Will Far Exceed Those of Former Years.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Corvallis, Nov. 25.—There is every indication that the Corvallis poultry show, which begins in this city next Thursday, will be a "roaring" success. No effort is being spared to make it so, and entries are coming in faster than in previous years, which demonstrates the widespread interest taken in the affair abroad. The period for entering birds closes Tuesday. The show takes place in the opera house, which is to be attractively prepared for the exhibition.

Judge Hinds of California, who presided at the show held here last year, has written that he cannot attend, and in his stead Elmer Dixon, the well known judge of Oregon City, will officiate.

Among the prizes offered are four handsome silver cups, valued at $10 each. They are offered by the association and will be awarded as follows: First, to the 10 highest scoring birds; second, to best pen in the show, in competition to be decided by the judges; third, to best collection Buff Orpingtons; fourth, to best exhibit Barred Rocks.

WIFE AND FIVE CHILDREN KILLED WITH HAMMER

(General Special Service.) Independence, Ia., Nov. 25.—William McWilliams is under arrest here, charged with the murder of his wife and five children, the ages of the latter ranging from 12 years at that time, six miles from here. The mother had evidently been killed while preparing a meal, as food was on the stove. The others had apparently been sought out and killed in different places about the house. The baby, less than 3 years old, was dressed in hood and mittens. A hammer was used to kill them, while numerous knife-outrages were on the bodies. "Howitts—denies—that he is guilty."

HOME BURNS WHILE FAMILY IS ABSENT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Chehalis, Wash., Nov. 25.—Fire last night destroyed D. C. Millett's old residence while the contents while the family was absent at a church supper. The loss is $2,500. His fine new residence, costing thousands of dollars, which is nearly completed, caught fire, but was saved by hard work.

Mrs. Marshall Thomas. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Albany, Or., Nov. 25.—Mrs. Eva Marshall of Pennsylvania, recently arrested here while trying to defraud the First National bank of $500 by a forged check, has been committed to the insane asylum by County Judge C. H. Stewart. A not true information was filed against the woman, and she was ordered discharged from custody on the forged charge. She will be taken to Pennsylvania next week.

CONCENTRATOR TO BE ENLARGED

Copperopolis Company Has Placed Order for New and Better Milling Plant.

WILL HAVE MORE THAN HUNDRED-TON CAPACITY

M. A. Butler Says New Mill Has Been Ordered and Is to Be Erected and Put in Commission as Soon as It Is Delivered.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Prairie City, Or., Nov. 25.—M. A. Butler, of the Copperopolis company, operating on Dixie creek, said upon his return here from the east that he had purchased a 125-ton concentrating plant, which was to be shipped immediately, and would be erected at the property as soon as it could be hauled out to the mine. The type of a mill is not stated by Mr. Butler, but he says that it is a modern concentrator, adapted to the requirements of the Copperopolis ores, and when running will enable the management to realize on the large copper ore body that has been opened by the work of the past three years.

The management tried a Wild pulverizer, jigs and a table the early part of this year, but found the plant inefficient and concluded to make the change for a standard type of a mill. The Wild mill had small capacity, and it is clear to the management that one at the Copperopolis must be handled in large quantity, insuring low costs for mining and milling. With the new plant Mr. Butler believes that the Copperopolis will become a steady producer, and will ship regular concentrate tonnage to the Sumner smelter.

WILLOW SPRINGS SOLD.

Prominent Placer of Early Days Will Be Equipped for Modern Work. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Grants Pass, Or., Nov. 25.—A mining deal has been closed in this city, the C. Manning, for the purchase of the Willow Springs placers, on Willow creek, near Gold Hill. J. K. Armstrong and associates of Spokane are the buyers, and the vendor is Dr. James Braden, a Gold Hill mining man. The first payment was made yesterday through the First National bank of this city. The new owners have taken possession and at once will increase the equipment of the placers. The Willow Springs placers consist of 135 acres, which carry a well-defined ancient channel. These diggings have been worked continuously since 1852, having yielded more than $1,000,000. The property is equipped with a small hydraulic plant, water being delivered through a five-mile ditch. The new owners will widen and deepen the ditch, lay several hundred feet of additional piping, set a heavier battery of giants, and shape the placers for operation on a greater scale. The deposit has a depth of from 100 to 200 feet, and is free of boulders and cement, yields readily, and carries coarse gold.

MINING NOTES.

F. A. Wing, assayer in charge of the government assay office at Seattle, has compiled a table showing gold receipts at his office from Alaska in 104 months of 1905, which are as follows: Nome, $4,167,092.19; Tanana, $4,359,686.37; and Yukon territory, $7,861,031.68. Mr. Wing says that he knows of $500,000 shipped to the Tanana from San Francisco and $300,000 from Nome to the same destination. The banks and express companies at Nome reported that they had received from the Tanana $1,000,000 from Nome and more than $5,000,000 from Tanana. The total yield of Alaska and the Yukon territory this year already has passed $18,648,737, which is $4,000,000 greater than for the preceding year, most of the increase being from Tanana, that district yielding in 1904 $377,224. Alaska and the Yukon territory yield since mining began there as follows: 1898, $5,375,212.52; 1899, $12,971,870.20; 1900, $75,038,797.77; 1901, $18,290,222.04; 1902, $11,940,731.55; 1903, $16,781,028.97; and 1904, $12,432,026.73.

Baker City, Or., Nov. 25.—A new and rich ore shoot is reported from the Highland, Rock Creek district. The strike was made in the main tunnel level by a crosscut from the old drift, which had parallel to the main ore vein several hundred feet. Three crosscuts were driven and each tapped the new ore body. One of them had penetrated the ore more than six feet at the time the report was made. The new machinery on the Highland has been completed, and the mill is in operation.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 25.—The largest lead smelting furnace in the world is being manufactured in Nelson, in this province, by the Kootenay Engineering works. It has been ordered for the Canadian Reduction works at Trail.

Baker City, Or., Nov. 25.—Articles of incorporation have been filed here by Otto Simmons, J. J. Connaughton and Charles for the East & West Gold Mining company. The capitalization is placed at $250,000, and the company is

Her Brother's Letters

Letter Number Three

In Which the Brother Talks to His Sister About Never Marrying a Man Until She's Got Another Man's Honest Opinion of Him.

"A girl should never marry a fellow until she's got another man's honest opinion of him. She can always get such an opinion, Kittens, even where she has no father or brother. There's always a straight chap somewhere around whom a girl can go to, and that sort of man will never refuse to be honest with such a girl if she will be honest with him—and if she will heed what he says when he puts the facts before her and not go off on that silly tangent of reforming a man after marriage! If a girl likes to play the rôle of a martyr—and that sort of thing seems to appeal to a lot of girls—it's about the surest way to a perfect hell on earth (forgive me, Sis, but that's the only word) that she can find!"

POND'S EXTRACT

has for sixty years been the standard extract of witch hazel and to-day is more popular than ever both with the public and the Medical profession. This has entailed upon POND'S EXTRACT the inevitable penalty of fame:—

Imitation and Substitution

Neither of these however, would be perilous to public health if unscrupulous manufacturers—swayed more by Profit than Principle—did not jeopardize the health and lives of the people by adulterating their common and unidentified witch hazels and offering them through wholesale and retail druggists and department stores as "the same thing" and "just as good" as POND'S EXTRACT.

Not content with marketing an inferior article, these manufacturers reached the point at last—in their Greed of Gain—of offering witch hazel fortified with Wood Alcohol (poison) or Formaldehyde (poison) or both, to the imminent peril of all who were deceived into buying and using it.

So rife have these pernicious conditions become that the State Legislatures of New York and Illinois have enacted laws which make it an offence punishable by heavy fine, or imprisonment, or both, to sell any medicinal extract containing Wood Alcohol (poison) or Formaldehyde (poison) unless the bottle containing same be labeled POISON, and other States throughout the Union are taking steps one after another, to the same protective end.

In order, therefore, that the public may be secured against the danger of poisoning by the use of such witch hazels, we are impelled to publish the following

Caution

Witch Hazel is not "the same thing" as POND'S EXTRACT. On analysis of 70 samples of witch hazel, bought of leading wholesale and retail druggists and department stores, 52 contained Wood Alcohol (poison) or Formaldehyde (poison), or both, and not one of the other 18 was up to the required standard of strength. The peril of these poisons may be avoided by the exclusive use of
