Council Has Busy Session and Disposes of Numerous Questions,

WATERFRONT IS LEASED TO STEAMBOAT COMPANY

Petition Presented by Business Men Asking for Lenient Regulation of Small Vices Granted-Effort to Have Open Town Will Be Made.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
The Dalles, Or., Dec. 5.—At the meet ing of the city council last night an or-dinance was passed to lease the city waterfront to the Regulator line to build docks, warehouses, etc., for a term not stated, at a rental of $50 a month, but it does not give the Regulator line full control, becaus of a provision that al-lows the use of this property by other companies at a reasonable rental.

Some months ago an ordinance was passed regulating the saloons, which it seems has not been effective because of some defect in wording it. Last of some defect in wording it. Last night another ordinance was passed which is expected to hold good, and all saloons must close at 1 o'clock sharp.

A petition was also brought before the council, signed by nearly all the leading business men, asking the council to be more lenient in regulating small vices. While the petition did not ask for anything direct, in reading between the lines it could be plainly seen that they were asking to have the gambling ordinance repealed. The petition was granted.

A strong effort will be made to make this an open town and keep the saloons open all night, at least until after the morth-bank railroad is completed. It seems to be this opinion of many that thousands of men will spend their money here, and the town must be opened wide in order to get it.

The city tax levy was reduced from 5 mills to 4, and a 3-mill road tax; total, 7 mills. The valuation of property is $1,500,000 this year, against $1,200,000 last year.

The city treasury has $7,500 to the last year.

The city treasury has $7,500 to the good this year, and if expenses are no higher next year than this it will have $9,500. More than $1,000 has been spent on the streets this year, and $2,000 or $3,000 will be spent next year. A fire-engine house, quarters for the firemen and many other improvements are contemplated.

Chinese Affairs Discussed by Presiden and Portland Importer

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—J. H.
Brown of Portland was presented to Brown of Portland was presented to President Roosevelt today by Senator Fulton and accorded a 20-minute interview relative to Chinese affairs, particularly regarding the boycott of American goods. The president asked how the boycott affected American trade and was told that in the northern provinces the boycott had not proved injurious.

The president said that he was glad to learn this, for he had recently received a memorial from San Francisco claiming that the boycott was hurting American trade materially.

The president questioned Brown about consular service in the orient and was informed that since the visit of Assistant Secretary of State Peirce and his report, that the consular system, by the elimination of certain abuses, had improved, but further improvement could be made by the creation of a court.

provement could be made by the creation of a court.

Fulton advised the president that he had a bill ready to introduce to provide for such a court. The president expressed the hope of its passage and advised a conference between Fulton and Secretary Root relative to the proposed legislation.

Mr. Brown also discussed the regula-tions of the municipality of Shanghai in relation to American interests and was assured of the president's aid in the direction of reform.

Tug of War Tournament.

Interest in the international tug of war tournament, now being held at Merrill's hall, is increasing every day. Last night the American defeated the Finland team in one of the most stubbornly fought contests ever witnessed. After 15 minutes, when the referee's pistol announced the limit, the defenders of the stars and stripes had the lead by an inch only. Possibly Sweden will go up against the American team this evening. The Norwegians defeated the Germans in a 10-minute pull last night. The Germans have one victory to their credit so far. will be a bigger town than Butte." predicted Mr. Freedman. "The copper deposits in that district are so great that it is almost impossible to describe their district are so great that it is almost impossible to describe their extent. Henry Bratnober, a leading mining expert, was up there last summer with a party. He reports that the copper deposits are vastly better than around Butte. At Butte the mineral belt is about two to three miles wids and seven and one half to ten miles long, the ore running about 6 per cent in copper. In the White river country Bratnober found that the mineral zone is about 10 miles long, the copper, so far as he examined it, running 36 per cent purp. There is enough float to keep a plant in operation for a number of years, many nuggets being found weighing from five to ten tons. and it was supposed that there was to gold in the tundra. But a year ago last fall three men leased some ground about three miles back from town and there they found what is believed to be the old beach line. An immensely rich strike was made, and in 30 or 48 days the three men took out over $400,000. Three or four rich discoveries have been made this year on this old beach line.

"On Candle creek rich strikes were made this year on the benches, and almost every man in the camp of 100 people is now well fixed. The camp is about 300 miles north of Nome. Tom Noyes, a brother-in-law of August Heinze of Montana; Charlie Herron, Fred Meyers of Seattle and others have started to build a ditch which will be over 50 miles long and which will tap the Candle creek benches. The cost will be about $1,000,000, but the gold deposits the Candle creek benches. The cost will be about $1,000,000, but the gold deposits are rich enough to warrant the outlay. "Another big strike has been made at Jess creek, which runs into Bering sea, about eight miles northeast if Nome. About 1,000 feet back from the present beach line gold was struck averaging $50 to the pan. Conservative experts figure that in this one claim alone there is about $18,000,000 in placer gold. A number of other rich claims have since been struck in the same vicinity. Each year in the Nome country seems to produce a strike richer than any that have gone before and there can be no doubt as to the permanency of the developments or the future of the country."

Mr. Freedman expects to go east soon, but will return to Portland for the re-mainder of the winter, going back to Nome in June.

Third Contest Tug-of-War.

The American team won last night after a terrible struggle. The tourna-ment continues tonight. The second night of the Portland International tug-night of the Portland international tugof-war contest was most exciting. The first contest was between the Germans and the Norweglans, but owing to a substitute anchor man in the German team the Norweglans had comparatively a light struggle, and after a strain of one minute, pulled the Germans the required distance.

The Finnish team, after their successful winning on Saturday evening, were confident of success last night, but the American team, with blood in their eye, were equally confident that they could not be budged off the slat.
The struggle commenced at 9:35, and for 11 minutes the red mark did not leave the center. With a mighty effort the American team straightened out and secured an advantage of one inch, which secured an advantage of one inch, which they held to the finish the full length of the pull, 25 minutes, amid the excite-ment of several hundred people of all ment of several hundred people of all nationalities.

The team from Sweden marched onto the platform looking in the pink of condition, ready to meet the Scottish team, who earlier in the day signified their intention of being on the platform at the required time. Not arriving, the Swedish team, according to the rules, won the contest by default, giving them two winnings during the two nights' contest. The Johnny Ducks and Willie Gooses in the juvenile teams created considerable amusement by pulling so hard that they broke the rope.

Tonight the winning teams will come together in a mighty struggle, and when the husky Swedes meet the determined Americans something will be doing. Crowds are growing each night. Admission 25-cents. Reserved seats 25 cents extra.

McMinnville Woman Trying to Find Whether Her Husband Secured a Divorce.

Mrs. Emily Galley of McMinnville is in Portland trying to find whether she is divorced or not. She visited the courthouse this morning and had the records searched to find whether or not Elmer J. Galley had ever received a divorce decree in this county.

Mrs. Galley says that last July, while she was living at McMinville with her parents, a man purporting to be a deputy, sheriff served papers on her which she took to be a notice that her husband had instituted divorce proceedings. The woman declares that she was unable to find that he had secured a decree in Yamhili county.

Accused of Gambling.

Landmark on Postoffice Block Declared a Menace to Remodeled Structure.

ITS CREAT ROOTS PRESS HARD AGAINST MASONRY

Other Trees on the Lawn Will Be Trimmed, Dead Ones Removed, Lawn Will Be Reseeded and Roses Will Be Planted.

On the east lawn of the postoffice block near the corner of the building there is an old pine tree that threatens injury to the remodeled structure and for that reason it will be cut down. At the same time two dead trees on the south lawn will be removed and other trees and shrubbery will be trimmed.

A special agent of the government visited the city recently and inspected the building and grounds of the postoffice. In examining the cement work of the basement he discovered danger signs and investigation showed that serious damage might result if the venerable pine tree was permitted to stand. Its roots have grown large, and being barricaded from expansion by Fifth street on the east have stretched out steadily toward the west. As a result, there is a mass of roots pressing against the cement masonry of the basement, which in the opinion of the special agent, eventually would cause damage. Accordingly it was ordered that the tree be removed.

"I readily agreed with the agent."

"I readily agreed with the agent," said Postmaster Minto, "for the roots of the tree are pressing too strongly against the cement masonry. And besides the tree is of no use. We need the light it obstructs in the winter and do not need its shade in summer."

The tree has stood there since the postoffice block was selected and for
