Pattison Made Governor of Ohio—Induction Surpasses in Brilliance Similar Events.

EXECUTIVE UNABLE TO ATTEND ALL FUNCTIONS

Ill-Health Compels Pattison to Witness Parade From Inclosed Box to Escape Cold Weather—Heavy Snow Makes Marching Difficult.

(Journal Special Service.)
Columbus, O., Jan. 1.—Governor-elect Pattison, the first Democratic executive Ohio has had in many years, was ushered into office today with more elaborate ceremonies and brilliancy than ever before attended an executive of this state. The citizens committee of this state, in charge of the affair, had labored for weeks to perfect the smallest details of the arrangements. It was a great day for the Democrats of Ohio and they were on hand in large numbers from Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dayton, Springfield, Toledo, Urbana and other cities of the state.

The inaugural parade escorting the retiring governor and his successor to the state house was one of the largest assemblies of its kind ever seen in the Ohio capital. In addition to a number of companies of the Ohio National Guard, under the command of Adjutant General Critchfield, the parade included numerous political organizations from various parts of the state. Among the number was the famous Duckworth club of Cincinnati and the Cuyahoga Democracy of Cleveland. Business houses and residences along the route were profusely decorated. The reviewing stand was located on Broad street opposite the state house and was filled with a crowd of 3,500 persons.

The parade took place at 1 o'clock. Between 4,000 and 5,000 troops were in line. Pattison reviewed the troops from a specially-constructed glass cage on the reviewing stand and he stood on foot-warmer during the time the parade passed.

The ceremonies of the inauguration proper were of a simple character. The taking of the oath by the new governor was presided by the induction into office of the other state officials chosen in November. After the usual invocation the oath was administered by the chief justice of the Ohio supreme court, Governor Herlick, addressing the multitude of legislators, state officials and others who filled the chamber, referred in appropriate terms to the occasion. He presented his commission with his commission and introduced him as Governor Pattison. The latter followed with a short inaugural address and the ceremony was over.

The public reception and inaugural ball for which arrangements on an elaborate scale have been completed, take place tonight in the new Memorial hall. Six tables, the invitations have been issued for the ball and the function is expected to surpass in brilliancy and magnificence anything of its kind ever before given in Ohio.

The evening dinner made marching difficult. The governor, who has recently been ill, was unable to attend all the affairs.

It was an interestingly delivered sermon, which held the undivided interest of the congregation. During the evening he joined the church of the Marquam Grand theatre on "Mahood and Home."

UMATILLA MAN ON THE TAX BILL

Assessor Strain Discusses Measure Proposed by Oregon Development League.

SAYS OREGON HAS NOTHING TO GAIN

Believes State Stands to Lose Money If Proposed Bill Should Become a Law—Action of League Good in Principle but Details Indicate Haste

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Pendleton, Or., Jan. 1.—Against the tax bill proposed by the Oregon Development League, C. P. Strain, assessor of Umatilla county, who doubled the O. & N. company's assessment since he has been in office, yesterday gave out the following statement:

"I do not desire to attack the motives of the gentlemen who compose the Development League, but I freely accord them high credit for their patriotic efforts. I have not time to discuss the entire bill. Suffice it to say that its provisions for a tax upon gross receipts of express companies, telegraph and telephone, for a heavier tax on insurance and for higher rates upon inheritances are right in principle, though their details indicate hasty consideration.

No Executive Council.
"The provision for a state valuation of railroads, to be made by the governor, secretary of state and state treasurer acting as an executive council, is extremely dangerous as well as inopportune.

"As a basis of comparison between Oregon, which has no such board, and the nearby states which have, I submit comparative results.

"Oregon railroads possess a smaller value per mile than those of Washington, Idaho, Montana or California. I compile the following table from bulletin No. 11. Those desiring this document should address the director of the census, Washington, District of Columbia. The following is the value per mile of the railroad property in the above-named states: Oregon $45,000; Washington $54,500; Idaho $63,000; Montana $60,100; California $54,000.

Increase Per Mile.
The following table shows the increase per mile in railroad taxation for the above states, the first column being for 1904, the second for 1923:

Oregon	$272	$171
Washington	228	248
Idaho	227	227
Montana	222	221
California	217	217

"Oregon has made a much larger increase than any of the other states. Oregon gets a higher tax per mile than any of them except California, while the first table shows that Oregon railroads are worth from $10,000 to $19,000 per mile less than those of the other states.

Oregon is Conservative.
"The true relation between railroad taxation here and elsewhere cannot be determined without exact knowledge of relative tax levies in the respective states. But we know that Oregon is

EDITOR AND MANAGER LOCKED UP BY PRINTERS

Eminently Respectable and Conservative Paper Appears for One Issue as an Ardent Advocate of the Revolt.

(Journal Special Service.)
Paris, Jan. 1.—From the reign of terror at St. Petersburg comes a tale of how the revolutionary composers and pressmen forced one issue of the eminently respectable and conservative paper, Novos Vremya, to appear as a revolutionary paper. The incident happened this way:

It was 6 o'clock in the morning. The rooms of the Novos Vremya were closed because of the strike; only three men were working in the electric station fixing a dynamo.

Would Be Manager.
M. Bougdanov, the manager, enters his private office to make plans for the printing of the paper. He has only a few moments, when a number of men force their way by the workmen into his sanctum and coolly declare that they would allow them to use his office for the printing of an issue of their paper, the Novos Vremya.

"You do not dare to leave this office," comes the reply from the men, who keep him covered with their revolvers. "You do not dare to leave this office," comes the reply from the men, who keep him covered with their revolvers.

"The figures herein used may be found in bulletin No. 11, already referred to, and in public document entitled, "Statistics of Railways in the United States," which may be had by addressing the secretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, District of Columbia."

REMY MURDER TRIAL AT HELENA NEARING END

Helena, Mont., Jan. 1.—Prosecuting Attorney Lacroix announced today that the state would probably conclude its presentation of evidence in the case of Camille Frederic Remy, charged with killing Wason J. Oliver, near Wolf creek, September 23 last, late today or early tomorrow. During the day provincial policemen Waddell and Sullivan of Vancouver, British Columbia, testified as to the arrest of Remy upon telegraphic instructions from the sheriff of this county, then at Nelson, British Columbia. They also testified in 1923 numerous articles in Remy's possession which belonged to young Oliver, according to previous evidence.

"The case continued to attract a great deal of attention, the galleries and parquette of Judge Smith's courtroom being taxed to their utmost, including nearly 100 women by actual count.

HOW SOLONS LIVE AT WASHINGTON

Senator Fulton With Wife at Apartment Hotel—Oscarin at New Willard.

WESTERN MEMBERS IN BEST QUARTER OF CITY

Senator Clark Has Finest Establishment and Will Soon Build a Handsome Residence on Site of Stewart's "Castle."

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.)
Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—Where and how to live are problems which confront members of congress quite as portentous as the Philippine tariff, the Panama canal and the appropriations. The latter problems are solved mainly by the houses and senate leaders, but the former must be met and settled by the representative or senator and his family themselves. The western members of congress, to their credit it may be said, are not niggardly in the choice of a place to live or of their manner of living, and as a rule they are to be found in the best quarters of the city and in the best hotels.

Fulton at the Fortland.
Among western members who maintain establishments, Senator Clark of Montana probably has the finest. It is a rented house on Massachusetts street in the city. It is the site of the Stewart "castle," which was the home of Senator Stewart of Nevada when he was rich and prosperous. Senator Clark bought the "castle" many years ago and has since been busy with the construction of a new residence which he is to build later.

Senator Fulton and wife of Oregon live this winter at the Fortland, a substantial apartment hotel not far from the house and principal government departments.

Oscarin at New Willard.
Senator Warren of Wyoming and Senator Oscarin of Oregon live at the New Willard hotel, the Waldorf-Astoria of Washington. The New Willard is the center of official and social activity during the sessions of congress and is the scene of many of the big functions for which Washington is noted.

Senator Dubois of Idaho retains the same house he has lived in several seasons during the present winter. It is on Twentieth and R streets in a pleasant and fashionable portion of the city. Senator Hayden of Idaho and Mrs. Hayden live at Stoneleigh court, a fashionable apartment hotel built by the late Secretary of State John Hay.

MAYOR WILLING TO BUY FORESTRY HALL

Discovers That City Will Not Have to Maintain Building, So Will Favor Purchase.

Mayor Lane held today that he thought he would sign the ordinance appropriating $14,000 to purchase a site for the forestry building at the Lewis and Clark exposition. Nearly all the objectionable features of the acquisition of the property by the city have been eliminated. A prominent eastern man has promised to build a concrete foundation under the structure to make it safe and it is now proposed that the Portland Consolidated Street Railway company provide for maintaining and lighting the building.

The mayor will not sign the ordinance until he is certain that the city will be at no greater expense than the site for the building. His chief objection to acquiring the structure was because he felt that the city would be at continuous expense to keep the building in presentable condition.

Yesterday mayor, Councilmen Gray, Kallisher, Wallace, Wills, Shepherd, Haight and Dunning, Colonel L. L. Hawkins of the park board, Architects Klesman and McKean and President Myers of the Lewis and Clark state commission, visited the building and inspected it thoroughly. The architects said that it would cost $5,000 to $6,000 to put in a concrete foundation.

WAITED NINETEEN YEARS FOR BRIDE

When Miss Irma Mayfield arrived in Portland today from the Berkshires, Maine, she will be met at the train by Samuel Spencer. The two will go to the home of a nearby parson and there be married. The marriage will be the climax of a romance begun years ago in the Pine Tree state.

Spencer has not seen his bride for 19 years, but they have arranged it so that they will be no mistake at the meeting. Spencer is 10 years his bride's senior and remembers when he used to call at the Mayfield home and announce little Irma on his knee. Their courtship began in the long ago, but the wedding day was put off from time to time for various reasons. When Spencer was 17, he had his marriage license this morning by Deputy County Clerk C. C. Ross he remarked that there would be no postponement.

Spencer is a city engineer. He is logging camp near Yale, Washington. There formerly were six regular sidewalk inspectors but in December 1924 the number was reduced to four. W. C. Elliott, who was city engineer at the time, removed the regular inspectors got $75 a month in his position.

When Mr. Warner was appointed city engineer last March, Rankin was removed and Gross resumed. Rankin contested the case in the circuit court and several weeks ago Judge Freese decided that in as much as the office was under civil service rules neither the city council, city engineer nor city auditor had the right to remove a man or to reduce or withhold his pay. It was held that while the council could abolish an office, it could not discharge an existing position.

The petition filed this morning explains the matter in more detail. The demand is made that the city auditor be compelled to pay Rankin $75 a month for his services as regular sidewalk inspector instead of paying him at the rate of $3.50 a day for time employed.

RANKIN STILL FIGHTING TO GET BACK POSITION

Attorney John F. Logan this morning filed an amended petition in the state circuit court in the case of John Rankin against City Engineer Taylor and City Auditor Devlin. Vice-President Making Dinner Campaign for Presidency—Offends Oridron Club.

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.)
Washington, Jan. 1.—The vice-president in making what is called here a "dinner campaign" for the next presidential nomination. He and his accomplished wife are the hosts half a dozen evenings a week at dinner functions given by the vice-president with the regular members of the Gridiron club, the newspaper correspondents' club of the capital.

It was a fairly good dinner so far as the "east of reason and flow of soul" entered into the menu, but the thrifty vice-president, who is reputed to be both wealthy and "near" gave his guests a very cheap brand of domestic wine, instead of the costly imported brands to which they are accustomed at Gridiron.

Very charitably, this selection of a domestic champagne was attributed to the vice-president's love for American home industry, but all the same if the Gridiron club had a vote in the next national convention, it would be a safe bet that it would not be for Fairbanks, notwithstanding he gave the club a dinner.
