Judge Frazer Forecasts Further Conflict Between Rival Forces at Meagly.

The bill camp at the junction continues in charge of Foreman Desautel and less than half a dozen men. The Harriman camp, pitched on the railroad track constructed by the O. R. & N. Co., chief officials at the spot where the Harriman tracks were torn away Tuesday night, is guarded by O. R. & N. agents and equipped with a commissary department for feeding about 15 men who are at work on the road running south from the disputed point. Half a dozen additional tents have been taken to the scene by the O. R. & N. people and preparations for a long siege are being made.

TROUTDALE LINE IS BEING RAPIDLY BUILT

Harriman prepares for a long siege by placing tents for a large number of men and laying in a good supply of provisions.

Further violence at the contested railroad crossing at Meagly junction between construction forces of the Hill and Harriman railroad companies, has been averted by instructions issued against both sides by Judge Frazer preventing them from interfering with present conditions existing at the junction. The next move will be made when the attorneys for both companies start actions to dissolve these injunctions. The Northern Pacific's attorneys in Portland are now preparing papers for such a motion.

Half a dozen additional tents have been taken to the scene by the O. R. & N. people and preparations for a long siege are being made.

The O. R. & N. survey toward Troutdale runs along the Meagly farm fence to the large barn belonging to the farm, and grading work is being pushed forward from Meagly Junction to the barn. It is said the condemnation suit decided Tuesday, in which the owners of the land were awarded a verdict of $5,500 from the O. R. & N. Co. for the desired right-of-way includes ground on which the larger part of the barn stands and that the building will have to be removed. It is one of the largest barns in the county. Prices of land in the vicinity of the barn ground have advanced considerably since the right-of-way agents of both companies have difficulty in getting owners to set a price on their lands. The O. R. & N. Co. is now carrying on construction work over a long stretch of the route from St. Johns to Troutdale. Its men are clearing the ground in a field lying to the west of Meagly Junction and burning brush. A new fence has been erected by the company across the field where the rail fence was torn down Tuesday night and rails used for a bonfire to furnish light for the work of demolition and reconstruction on the spot where the Harriman forces at the junction.

The O. R. & N. Co. today filed two more condemnation suits to obtain rights of way across lands owned by Jacob Slaughterbeck and O. A. Markland.

THIS IS PIGEON DAY AT THE POULTRY SHOW

Judges Announce Awards in Many Classes and Crowds Attend.

The day at the poultry show was devoted chiefly to the making of entries in the department occupied by the pigeons. There are over 600 birds in this class and they form the feature of the exhibition thus far.

The great honor of having won all firsts in silver trophies was bestowed upon Thomas Wilkinson of Nainaimo, British Columbia. He likewise secured all firsts and six seconds in white, red and black maples, all firsts and second in blue, blue and grided dragons, two firsts and two seconds in parrot tumbler and two firsts in flying tumbler.

C. W. Knox of Oakland, California, won three seconds in silver, one silver homer, one second in trumpeter, three firsts and one second in white Maltese non pigeons, four firsts and four seconds in other colored varieties, one first in the swallow class, two firsts in the parrot tumbler, two seconds in blue birds and all firsts, second and thirds in Java. Other awards were:

G. Powell, Portland—Two firsts and two seconds in mottled trumpeter, J. P. Limerick, Portland—Three firsts and one second in Maltese varieties.

E. H. Bauer, Portland—One first in white Jacobins.

The exhibition continues to attract great attention and will break all records of the association both for attendance and for the quality of the birds on show.

Reception to Dr. Jordan.

The congregation of the Central Baptist church will tender a reception to their new pastor, Dr. W. T. Jordan, in the parlors of the church, Dr. Brougher, pastor of the White Temple, and Dr. Rader, editor of the Pacific Christian Advocate, will make addresses before the meeting of the music will be rendered and refreshments served.

HOLD FRIENDS' BODY AND DANCE TO GET MONEY FOR HIS FAMILY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Seattle, Jan. 12.—Alone Koppner, a barber in South Seattle, died last Monday after a long illness. Last week his friends decided that a benefit dance should be held to raise money for his family, that had become destitute caring for him. After the hall had been hired and many things held, Koppner died on Monday. His friends, however, decided that the dance should take place tomorrow night notwithstanding.

The friends that got up the dance asked that his body be held for burial until Sunday, so they could all attend the funeral. Saturday night his friends will dance to raise money for the family and Sunday they will turn out in masses to the funeral.

Both Are Democrats and Both Want to Represent Oregon's First District.

CHARLES V. GALLOWAY OF McMinnville IS ONE

P. A. Cochran of Woodburn Is the Other—Former Has Served in the Legislature and the Latter Is a Solid Business Man.

Charles V. Galloway of McMinnville, Yamhill county, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for congressman from the first district. Though but 33 years of age, Mr. Galloway is already well known to the voters of the district, having served a term in the state legislature of 1902, as a member of the lower house. Although the youngest member of the house and one of the minority party, he was a decided factor in the work of the session and it was largely through his earnest efforts that the sailor boarding-house bill was passed in the face of the bitter opposition of the crimps of Portland and Astoria.

P. A. Cochran, Woodburn.

Mr. Galloway is a native of Oregon, having been born in Yamhill county. He is a son of Judge William Galloway of the state circuit bench. Charles Galloway graduated at the University of Oregon in 1899. He was appointed superintendent of Oregon's horticultural exhibits at the St. Louis exposition, and was also general superintendent of the Oregon exhibits in the Lewis and Clark exposition during the construction period.

WANTS TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS FROM FAIR

Dan J. Malarky, attorney for the Lewis and Clark exposition, corporation, this morning filed an affidavit with a complaint filed by Emil P. Strandberg in the circuit court asking for $10,000 damages for having been injured by the premature discharge of a cannon at the fair on September 23.

P. A. Cochran of Woodburn desires to be the Democratic nominee for congressman from the first district and is making a vigorous campaign to that end. Few Democrats in the state are more widely known. Born 23 years ago on the picturesque banks of the Callapaqua river, he has played his part in the growth and progress of the state and has been active in the councils of his party. His earlier life was spent in Linn county. About 15 years ago Mr. Cochran removed to Woodburn, which has since then been his home. He has been a successful business man and has accumulated a comfortable competence.

During recent years Mr. Cochran has taken an active interest in Marion county politics and has gained a reputation as a ready and entertaining speaker. Though his opportunities in early life were limited so that his education was confined to the common schools, his experience has been wide and varied. He is an ardent Democrat and has clung to his party through all the political changes of recent years. Mr. Cochran proposes to make his campaign largely on the platform of opposition to graft.

Richard's Trial May Involve Social Set

An additional charge of selling liquor in apartments connected with a barroom, which was filed against Richard's, proprietor of a restaurant at Park and Alder streets, by Deputy City Attorney Fitzgerald yesterday afternoon. This makes the fourth charge placed against Richard's who is to be tried before Police Judge Cameron next Wednesday morning.

About 100 persons who have patronized Richard's establishment during the last few months have been subpoenaed as witnesses. Detectives Kay and Jones, who had charge of the raid on the restaurant, assert that facts will be brought out which will cause consternation among a local social set.

Six couples escaped arrest during the raid by climbing through a window onto a roof of a porch and through another window into the main dining hall, from which they obtained access to the street.

Church Society to Build.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Silverton, Or., Jan. 12.—The Christian Church society of this city has purchased a lot and will erect a church building as soon as the weather is favorable for out of door work.

Few Places Have Them Though All May Under Recent Ordinance.

POLICE KEEP WOMEN FROM SUCH PLACES

Enforcement of This and Other Regulations Has Robbed Private Apartment of Its Attraction for Liquor Men.

Although Portland is practically without an ordinance regulating private boxes in saloons, comparatively few saloons contain them. The better element among the saloonkeepers have openly expressed themselves opposed to boxes of any sort in saloons. They know that if the practice is again permitted to any extent they will have to install boxes to protect their own pecuniary interests.

Boxes containing 100 square feet of space or over can now be maintained without any restrictions placed on them, according to the amended ordinance which stands as the result of months of petty political bickering over the box problem by the city council.

The police have been keeping a watchful eye on all notorious resorts and have received instructions to strictly enforce the ordinance prohibiting women from frequenting the boxes. During the earlier part of Mayor Lane's administration, the police made many arrests and heavy fines were imposed on the violators of the ordinance. The result has been that the practice of women frequenting the boxes has been broken up and has taken the revenue which was received from the box traffic away from the saloonkeepers.

The saloon men are just about as tired of the box ordinance question as the councilmen. The ordinance, they say, has arrived at the conclusion that under present conditions maintaining boxes is an unprofitable business.

The box ordinance to eliminate boxes entirely from the city has been laid on the table by the city council, where it remains, although several attempts have been made to take it from the table. The supporters of the measure have not admitted that they are defeated and will make another attempt to have the council consider the measure. If they are unsuccessful in their efforts, they say that another ordinance similar to the one now on the table will be introduced for consideration.

EASTERN STAR INSTALLS OFFICERS FOR THE YEAR

At the annual installation of officers of Corinthian chapter No. 54, Order of Eastern Star, Mrs. Minnie J. Wasserman, retiring matron, was presented with a chocolate set by the chapter. Miss Bessie G. Smith making the presentation speech. Arthur L. Finley was master of ceremonies for the evening. The installing officers were: Worthy grand matron, Mrs. Ines M. Ryan; grand marshal, Mrs. Hermilina J. Wasserman; grand chaplain, Mrs. A. Antonette Stiles; grand secretary, Mrs. Mrs. E. Gilpin; grand treasurer, Mrs. Anna E. Spencer; grand organist, Miss Edna I. Protzman. The reception committee consisted of Mrs. Margaret E. Kellogg, Mrs. Nellie E. Scott, Mrs. Ella Wilson, Mrs. C. W. Wasserman, A. Bailey, Dr. J. Francis Drake. The officers installed follow:

PREFERS PINE PILLOW TO FEATHER BED

Disgusted Because Couch is Too Soft Logger Leaves Hotel and Vanishes.

Because George Jenkins, a logger, who, as he expressed it, had been "customed to sleeping on the soft side of a pine board," objected to sleeping on a feather bed, he left the Kingston logging-house in anger and disgust last night and has not been heard of since by his friends. Fred Hamilton, his companion, has asked the aid of the police in locating him.

Hamilton, who is well known in Portland, having once been a member of the Multnomah club football eleven, came to Portland with Jenkins from southern Oregon, intending to go to Vancouver, Washington, today, where they are to be witnesses in a land case. They procured a room at the Kingston, corner of Third and Taylor streets.

"What do you think?" exclaimed Jenkins angrily, appearing at the door of Hamilton's room at 11 o'clock last night, "they have put me in a room where I am expected to sleep on a feather bed! Me sleep on a feather bed, who have been accustomed to sleeping on the soft side of a pine board!"

Hamilton laughed and went to sleep again. He discovered this morning that his companion did not sleep last night at the Kingston. He went to the police for aid in locating the missing man.

DOUBT COLE'S STORY AS TO GLOVE BLUFF

The police are skeptical as to the reported holdup of W. A. Cole, agent for the Union Mutual Aid society, near the corner of East Pine street, last night. Circumstances, they say, are such as to make it impossible for them to believe his story that he thrust a pair of gloves against the highwayman's stomach, though the latter was holding a revolver at his (Cole's) head, and made the robber believe that he was going to shoot.

DEATH RELIEVES MAN WHO INHALED GAS

Axel Knoblock, who was taken to St. Vincent's hospital Wednesday suffering from the inhalation of illuminating gas in the rooming house, died at 1 o'clock this morning. The man never recovered consciousness.

When Knoblock went to the Eldora the landlady asked him if he understood the use of gas. He replied in the affirmative. He left the stopcock turned on full force, whether by accident or with suicidal intent is not known.

In his pocket were $5 and papers showing that he came to Portland recently from Salt Lake City, Utah. He left a sealed letter addressed to Miss Tams Amstrussen of Astoria.

It is believed that this letter may show that Knoblock was disappointed in love and sought death as a relief for his mental suffering.

STEARER RAINIER LOSES SAILS AND DECK CARGO

Steamer San Juan Four Days Overdue From Dixon Entrance Reports Heavy Weather and Tremendous Seas—Boats Capsized.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Seattle, Jan. 12.—A severe storm is reported by arriving vessels as sweeping along the section from the Columbia river as far north as Dixon's entrance, Alaska. A severe storm is raging off Cape Flattery.

Steamer Rainier, L. H. Gray & Co., arrived this morning from San Francisco and reports that she lost her fore and aft sails, a quantity of cargo while making Cape Flattery from the Columbia bar. Her deck cargo was swept overboard.

Captain Hanson says that the weather was good until he reached the Columbia bar, when he struck a gale that blew with heavy seas. He set both fore and aft sails, but the wind blew the sails off the bolt ropes and tore them to ribbons.

The steamer San Juan, four days overdue from Dixon entrance, arrived this morning. She met a severe storm. Men in small boats capsized, but their lives were saved. Rough weather forced the entire fleet into Butler's cove, on Stevenson island. They remained there until the weather bettered.

CLOSING ARGUMENTS HEARD IN REMEY CASE

Young Frenchman's Fate Will Be in Hands of Jury by Tomorrow Noon.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Helena, Mont., Jan. 12.—It is expected that the fate of Camille Frederic Remy, the young prisoner charged with the murder of Wason Oliver, will be in the hands of the jury by noon tomorrow. The evidence has been completed.

Today Lieutenant-Governor Norris held a closed session to discuss the case in behalf of the prosecution. He scathingly arraigned Remy as a foul murderer and pictured his removal of the ring from the finger of the dead body, his long flight and his disposal of the dead man's effects as substantiating the state's accusation. He belittled Remy's story of Oliver's killing himself, and said that in reality Remy had clubbed Oliver, fracturing his skull and then shot him to make sure of his death.

Mr. Norris was followed by Lawyer Goodman for the defense. Former Attorney-General Dutton, who is now attorney for the state, will close for defense and state tomorrow.

CITY OF PANAMA IS THREATENED BY FIRE

(General Special Service.) Panama, Jan. 12.—A great fire is raging and the entire city is threatened. Firemen are finding it difficult to contain the flames. The fire originated in Chinese shops and it is alleged to be due to the carelessness of Americans in furnishing gas.

The flames are spreading rapidly toward the heart of the city. The water pressure is poor on account of defects in the new aqueduct. One block has already been burned out. Santa Anna square, in the heart of the city, is menaced.

Mobs are creating great excitement and the people are greatly incensed against the Americans. The police are hardly able to maintain order.

SOFT BRICK FOR SEWER REJECTED

The sewer committee of the city executive board this morning instructed the city engineer to reject a large quantity of brick which the Pacific Bridge company, who has a contract for building the Irvington district sewer, contemplated putting in the construction work of the drain. The committee made a thorough investigation of the sewer and found that all the brick which had been used was of good quality.

The immense conduit is now practically finished from the river to the retaining wall of the sewer at the corner of East Pine street. The contractors are proceeding much more rapidly with the work than was contemplated. The committee found that a high grade of work was being done throughout.

DEAD SALOON MAN MAY HAVE BEEN MURDERED

Coroner Finley is investigating circumstances surrounding the death of Joseph Sabel, proprietor of the Concord saloon, on First street, near Madison, which occurred last night. It is said that he had been drinking and wandered to the docks near the foot of Madison street and fell into the river.

F. M. Merrill, night watchman for the Southern Pacific, found Sabel lying on the dock at 1 o'clock last night. He tried to arouse him and falling started to the telephone to call assistance. He had gone but a short distance when he heard a splash and returning saw that the man had fallen into the river. Relatives of Sabel believe that he met with foul play, but Coroner Finley has been unable to find evidence to substantiate the belief.

Blazers Make Second Rich Strike in Nevada

J. E. Blazier received a telegram this afternoon from his brother Eugene at Goldfield, Nevada, informing him of a rich strike made on their property at Silver Bow, which is about 45 miles from Goldfield. The wire says Manager Fulton has already let four leases.

The strike was made while cross-cutting a vein. This is the second strike made on the property which, it is expected, will turn out one of the richest in that region. Further information, according to the telegram, will follow by letter.

OPPOSED TO PURCHASE OF FORESTRY BUILDING SITE

Superintendent W. T. Gardner, of the Boys and Girls Aid society, and Lewis Montgomery, representing the West Twenty-eighth Street Improvement association, called upon Mayor Lane today and asked that he veto the ordinance appropriating $14,000 for the purchase of the Forestry building site.

The mayor declared that it was likely that he would permit the ordinance to become effective without his signature.

Will of Mrs. Anna Norton Gives Estates Worth Seventeen Thousand to Catholics.

Five Hundred Bequeathed That Masses May Be Sung for Soul of Deceased—Hospital at Condon Is the Chief Beneficiary.

Attorney John F. Logan this morning filed the will of Mrs. Anna Norton, who died last Tuesday morning of old age. She was the widow of Daniel Norton, who was for many years one of the best known policemen on the local force. She left an estate valued at $17,000. So far as known there are no living heirs, although it is reported that there are some very distant kin in Ireland.

The will, which was filed this morning, was drawn up last Monday evening. It is signed by Mrs. Norton and all who were present at the time the document was made state that they did not know that the hand of death was near. Her last confessor, Rev. Father M. J. Kelly, was present. By its terms the will leaves $500 to St. Joseph's church and school, "an institution to be located at Condon, Oregon"; $1,500 to Rev. Father Kelly of St. Mary's of Portland; $200 to Anna O'Brien of Portland; $300 to Ida Stevens of Seattle; $2,000 to Bishop Charles J. O'Reilly of Baker City, Ore.; $200 to John F. Logan; $500 to the priests of St. Mary's cathedral of Portland for celebrating mass for the repose of her soul; $5 to relatives who may appear. All remaining property is to be given Bishop O'Reilly and Father Kelly for the purpose of erecting and maintaining a Catholic hospital at Condon. The will is witnessed by John C. Skillock and A. Burr.

It is said that several other wills have been made by Mrs. Norton. Mrs. Norton was about 80 years old at the time of her death and had been a resident of Condon for more than a quarter of a century.

TO SHIP CANADIAN LOGS TO SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

H. R. Robertson of Portland Petitions British Columbia Legislature.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 12.—H. R. Robertson of Portland is here asking the legislature to permit him to export logs and piling. He proposes to form a company to be known as the Robertson Lumber & Transportation company, to ship by Robertson's patent rafts. He would use only small timber such as is not at present used in sawmills. The rafts would carry the poorer quality of lumber, also, and would trade not with Puget sound, but with southern California ports and foreign countries.

Captain Robertson is the pioneer in the ocean log rafting industry and is at the head of a rafting company that builds log rafts at St. John and launches them from the mouth of the Columbia river and tows them to southern California ports. The rafts contain about 12,000,000 feet of logs and are chiefly used for piling.

It has been proposed to improve upon the present method of raft transportation of fir and pine lumber from Oregon mills by rafting the logs to mills in British Columbia, from which into lumber and byproducts. Of the many ocean rafts sent out by the Robertson companies only one escaped from its tow, and this raft was carried by ocean currents more than 5,000 miles before it was found and recovered nearly a year afterward.

ATTENDED REVIVAL AND IS ARRESTED

Mrs. Lizette Reiner, a patient at the Mount Tabor Nervous Sanitarium, escaped from the institution a few days ago and made her way to The Dalles. Her peculiar conduct at a series of revival meetings conducted by the Rev. Mr. Luce caused the preacher to doubt her sanity and she was reported to Chief of Police Woods.

As soon as the identity of the woman was discovered Chief of Police Grismacher was notified and informed the officials of the institution from which the woman had escaped of her being at The Dalles. An attendant was sent to The Dalles yesterday and took the deranged woman back to the sanitarium.

MONTANA WILL NOT REPUDIATE ITS DEBTS

Helena, Mont., Jan. 12.—Governor Toole in an interview stated that because of the supreme court decision, declaring illegal $500,000 bonds of the various state educational institutions, he regarded an extra session of the legislature as imperative, but will not take this step, however, until the bond owners have determined if they will appeal the case to the supreme court of the United States or apply for a rehearing to the state supreme court.

"One thing is certain," said the governor, "and that is that the bondholders will lose nothing, as the people of Montana would not for one moment consider a repudiation of obligations."

The high price of copper now is taken as an indication of the war of Amalgamated stock and that the financial market is very strong.

Continued in evidence by their liberal buying of copper. The price of copper is now very strong, making an advance at the very opening of 2 points over the closing of yesterday. During the day a very high character and up to the noon hour the advance continued to the 100s share.

Governor Brady States That Young Women in the Pressing Need of Alaska.

HARDY PROSPECTORS ARE IN SEARCH OF BRIDES

Fine Specimens of Manhood, Too Proud to Return Without Wealth, Are Signing for Wives—Others Please Take Notice.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Washington, Jan. 12.—Young women of healthy mind and bodies. That is the pressing need of Alaska today. So the chivalrous John G. Brady of that territory sends his wife and annual report, just made public, an appeal for young women to come to Alaska, hear the gentle words of love told by the mighty men of the northwest and to find homes for them in the true cry from the wild for wives.
