The new store of Vanduyn & Walton, $13 Washington street, two blocks west of their former location, has been so tastily fitted up that as a matter of fact it far surpasses the "old home" wasted by the firm a few days ago. It has happened, too, that a large consignment of new stock has been received, which prepares the gentlemen to more satisfactorily supply the wants of their men patrons than they could ever do before. This is the only firm in Oregon dealing in men's shoes only. It does not even carry youths' and boys' footwear, the only stock it carries heing shoes for adult persons. The bouse

This is the first time Mrs. Linnville has been in Portland since 1864, and her astonishment at the activity of the present city that she last saw pretty much as a wayside village, was great. Within a few days she will proceed to Lane county to visit her brother, I. E. Stevens, and slater, Mrs. G. H. Armitage of Eugene. The latter woman made and raised the first American flag that floated in the breezes of Lane county, and is still hale and hearty.

Captain Johnson Only Norwegian Whose Ship Was Wrecked, Say Agents.

AMERICANS COMMANDED UNFORTUNATE VESSELS

It Is Admitted That Some Foreign-Born Skippers Have Obtained Naturalisation Papers Through Fraud, but Statement Not True.

Agents of steamship companies take exception to the statements made by John E. Wilkie, chief of the United States secret service, that all of the vessels which have been wrecked in Pacific coast waters during the past three years were in command of Scandinavian officers who secured their American naturalization papers through fraud. Agents relate that the steamers St. Paul and George W. Elder were commanded by Captain Clem Randall, a native American. Captain McIntyre, master of the steamer South Bay, which went down off the Oregon coast less than two years ago, was born in the United States. Captain Dunham of the Roanoke, which was disabled off Eureka is an American as was also the skipper of the Oregon, which came near being destroyed by fire last summer. In fact there has been no week of a vessel in recent years on the Pacific coast which was in charge of a Scandinavian officer except the ill-fated steamer Valencia, of which Captain Johnson was skipper, and it is said that he secured his naturalization papers steamer Valencia, of which Captain Johnson was skipper, and it is said that he secured his naturalization papers through the regular channels.

Many of the schooners and other lumber carriers, it is admitted, are officered by Swedes and Norwegians. It is also acknowledged that many of them got their naturalization papers dishonestly. During the past summer nearly 40 of these were arrested and their licenses taken from them. Nearly half as many on the sound have lost their licenses. Everywhere the Scandinavians are looked upon as great navigators.

IN REGULATOR'S PLACE.

Likely That New Boat Will Be Built, Using Old Machinery.

M. Talbot, vice-president and general manager of the Regulator line, says that his company will either build, buy that his company will either build, buy or charter a boat to take the place of the Regulator which was recently destroyed by fire. He explains that another vessel will be needed shortly, as it is the intention to take the Balley Gatzert out on the ways to get her in excursion boat.

The boiler and engines of the Regulator, it is thought, were not injured by the fire to any great extent. They have wrong with the boller is that one of the plates was elightly sprung. When this plate has been riveted it is believed that the boiler will be as good as ever. Should such prove to be the case the company will build a new boat and equip her with the old machinery. It is pointed out by the general manager of the line that the carrying capacity of the steamers will be taxed during the next year or two transporting material to the north bank-road. With the Gatzert off the freight run and used as an exclusive excursion boat the fleet would be rather small if another craft should not be procured. It other craft should not be procured. It is supposed that in the early spring the steamer Churles R. Spencer will be

Three of the youngest sailors that ever came to Portland arrived last night on the British ship Argus, which reached here after a passage of 65 days from Mollendo, Peru. The Clackmannanshire reached Portland several days ago, coming in halast from the Mexican port. She is under charter to the American Trading company to carry a cargo of lumber to Port Pirie, Australia. As many vessels have been lifted by the Portland drydock during the past season as by any other structure of the sort on the Pacific coast. When built it was feared there would be little use for it.

Prench Bark Jacobses Will Load at Dankirk for Fortland.

Andrew Weir & Co. have chartered the French bark Jacobsen, 1,723 tons net register, to load general cargo at Dunkirk for Portland direct, making two new vessels added to the list in as many days. The other is the British ship Glenalvon, taken by T. B. McRath & Co., of which mention was made yesterday. It is learned that the latter was secured at 14 shillings, She will take a small portion of her freight at
