

GUARD AMERICANS IN THE ORIENT

Military Measures for the Protection of Citizens in China Inaugurated.

WESTON OR WOOD WILL COMMAND EXPEDITION

Boycott Does Not Affect Portland Flour Shippers Who Find Better Market Than Ever in Disturbed Region.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Washington, Feb. 12.—Military measures for the protection of American lives and property in China have been inaugurated by Secretary Taft with the full consent of the president, Secretary Root having originated the suggestion that the Chinese situation justified an increase in the forces in the orient. The war department has complete sources of information.

It is rumored that General Weston will command the Chinese expedition if one is made. It is also thought that General Leonard Wood may command the proposed invasion.

Advice from Shanghai state that an attack was made on a foreign mission at Nanking on the Yangtze Kiang river but no one was killed.

Anti-foreign attitude of a marked character is being displayed by many of the high viceroys which it is said is in all probability receiving the sanction of the Peking court. Japan is believed to be viewing the coming trouble with gratification, believing that what she failed to get from Russia may be obtained from China when complications become acute.

Notwithstanding the rumors of an uprising in China and the boycott of American goods, 21,000 barrels of flour will be shipped to Hongkong on the steamer Albatross which is to arrive from the far east February 21. Of this amount 5,000 barrels of flour have been secured for shipment on the vessel within the last day or two. Almost enough general freight has been promised to fill the steamer.

"The talk of an uprising in China has had no perceptible effect on our business," said J. H. Dawson, local general manager of the Hawaiian steamship line, this morning. "We are receiving inquiries for space on our steamers almost every day. It is usually dull at this season, but apparently business with China, which has not suffered in the least degree of late, small quantities of freight are being offered right along."

though given, of course, the substance of the charges.

"Furthermore it occurred to me to be just a little strange that Mr. Grant should request a copy of the charges before they had been inquired into or acted on by the committee, president or department of justice. Most people would have the charges in hand if they properly wait until action had been taken by the parties charged with the investigation. I could not understand the necessity of instituting department proceedings in such breathless haste."

DALLAS MAY GET TERMINAL

J. N. Teal and Judge Mariner Meet With Citizens to Discuss Portage Road Questions.

MORE AVAILABLE FOR SHIPPERS AND BOATS

Numerous Speeches Made by Prominent Men and Committee Appointed to Make Thorough Canvass and Report Best Route.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
The Dallas, Or., Feb. 12.—Hon. J. N. Teal and Judge Mariner of the open river commission met the citizens of the Dallas last night at the Commercial clubrooms to discuss with them the project of making the terminal of the portage railroad at this city instead of five miles above at Big Eddy. Mr. Teal spoke of the greater convenience of having the terminal here. It would be more available for shippers and boats could make the wharves here easier than to follow the tortuous stream to the present terminal facilities.

To place the terminal in this city there are two routes, one via the Great Southern, the other an independent one. He urged that surveys be made and the better route chosen. By the Great Southern the cost would be $20,000, of which amount the open river commission would stand $5,000 and the city could bond itself for $15,000.

Very probably the next legislature may pass an act enabling the city to issue the bonds for full amount.

Judge Mariner followed Mr. Teal on the same line. Speeches were then made by J. T. Peters, E. C. Fess, J. L. Keith, Judge Lake and Judge A. B. Bennett was appointed to thoroughly canvass the subject and report the most feasible route that could be adopted and whether the city would bear the burden of the major portion of the amount necessary to accomplish the object.

BARNETT POISON MYSTERY STEADILY DEEPENS

Peculiar Circumstances Surround Death of Three Members of Barnett Family.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Stockton, Cal., Feb. 12.—The poison mystery of the Barnett family becomes deeper. Coroner Southworth is making a chemical analysis of the stomach of James Barnett today, but says he will have no results before this evening. He declares positively that Barnett's death and probably the deaths of his two children was caused by some irritant poison. The strange features of the case is that the entire family, including Mrs. Barnett's sister and brother, partook of exactly the same food, and that the three who died and the nurse, Mrs. Hartley, were the only ones made ill.

MAJOR TAGGART GIVEN CUSTODY OF BOTH SONS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Wooster, Ohio, Feb. 12.—Major Elmore P. Taggart appeared in court today and said that he did not know where his divorced wife was. He said that he would be able to care for the boys as soon as he could learn where they are. The court said that it would extend clemency to Mrs. Taggart and hear the major's wife of the case today and hear hers later, as soon as she could get to the state. At the close of Taggart's testimony the court awarded him full custody of the boys, allowing the wife the right to visit the younger son. The judicial custody remains in the court and the court can at any time take the boys from the father.

Appetite Gone, Nerves Unstrung, Sleepless, Thin, Pale, Tired all the Time.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Gave Nerve, Mental and Digestive Strength.

"Last spring my health was completely broken down through prolonged watching at a sick bed. My appetite was gone and I was in the unstrung nervous condition where I was unable to find sleep, but would toss and turn through the long weary nights. I became thin, pale and looked 10 years older. Was languid and tired all the time, and seemed unable to recover, though the doctor tried different remedies. I could not keep food on my stomach, and through the physical weakness my mental condition became affected so that I lost my memory and was unable to collect and hold my thoughts as formerly.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to perfect health. It aided the worn out nerves of my digestive organs to do their duty, and I was once more able to eat and properly digest my food. I slept peacefully the entire night, and now I feel new life and vitality course through my veins. With the physical the mental was soon restored, and within
