

A BRILLIANT WEDDING AT THE WHITE HOUSE

AN UNIFORM WEDDING BREAKFAST IS SERVED TO GUESTS STANDING

Buffet Repast Adds Not a Little to Pleasure of Occasion—Reception Follows and Bridal Party and Friends Leave the White House for Depot to Take Honeymoon Trip.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—After the wedding ceremony breakfast was served in the spacious state dining-room by a famous New York caterer. It was a buffet repast, for lack of space forbade any attempt at seating the guests, but this informal arrangement added not a little to its pleasure.

When Mrs. Longworth returned to the guests, she wore a charming reception gown of the richest white silk, cut low in the neck, trimmed with a bertha of rare lace, sleeves dropping off the shoulder into a puff, finished with a band of lace just about the elbow. The body of the skirt and the bodice was ornamented with beautiful embroidered butterflies of various sizes. The smaller ones in the upper part of the dress were flat, while the larger ones toward the bottom of the dress had raised wings. The young bride, looking charming in the rich gown and radiantly happy.

Reception Congratulations. The happy couple were surrounded by the guests, who showered their congratulations upon the groom and their most enthusiastic good wishes upon the bride. Young Mrs. Longworth displayed remarkable tact and received the felicitations of her numerous friends with dignity which, however, did not altogether prevent occasional outbursts of youthful enthusiasm, one of her most characteristic charms. Throughout the breakfast Lieutenant Bantelmann's red-coated musicians played classical and popular airs, and the delicate tones of the magnificent gold piano in the East room from time to time added gentler melody to the feast of sound.

Newspaper men are guarding every avenue of exit from the city to learn where the couple is going. The private car Mayflower has been cleaned spotlessly, decorated with flowers and backed into the station. The railroad men say that they leave at 4 o'clock for Palm Beach, but refuse to say whether the bridal party is going in it.

To Soon Return. This trip will be of long duration, for the groom must soon return to his desk in congress. After an adjustment, however, the Longworths will make an extended journey to Europe, and in London, Paris, Berlin and on the Riviera will enjoy to the full their flat, while the larger ones toward the bottom of the dress had raised wings. The young bride, looking charming in the rich gown and radiantly happy.

Reception Congratulations. The happy couple were surrounded by the guests, who showered their congratulations upon the groom and their most enthusiastic good wishes upon the bride. Young Mrs. Longworth displayed remarkable tact and received the felicitations of her numerous friends with dignity which, however, did not altogether prevent occasional outbursts of youthful enthusiasm, one of her most characteristic charms. Throughout the breakfast Lieutenant Bantelmann's red-coated musicians played classical and popular airs, and the delicate tones of the magnificent gold piano in the East room from time to time added gentler melody to the feast of sound.

Newspaper men are guarding every avenue of exit from the city to learn where the couple is going. The private car Mayflower has been cleaned spotlessly, decorated with flowers and backed into the station. The railroad men say that they leave at 4 o'clock for Palm Beach, but refuse to say whether the bridal party is going in it.

To Soon Return. This trip will be of long duration, for the groom must soon return to his desk in congress. After an adjustment, however, the Longworths will make an extended journey to Europe, and in London, Paris, Berlin and on the Riviera will enjoy to the full their flat, while the larger ones toward the bottom of the dress had raised wings. The young bride, looking charming in the rich gown and radiantly happy.

Reception Congratulations. The happy couple were surrounded by the guests, who showered their congratulations upon the groom and their most enthusiastic good wishes upon the bride. Young Mrs. Longworth displayed remarkable tact and received the felicitations of her numerous friends with dignity which, however, did not altogether prevent occasional outbursts of youthful enthusiasm, one of her most characteristic charms. Throughout the breakfast Lieutenant Bantelmann's red-coated musicians played classical and popular airs, and the delicate tones of the magnificent gold piano in the East room from time to time added gentler melody to the feast of sound.

Newspaper men are guarding every avenue of exit from the city to learn where the couple is going. The private car Mayflower has been cleaned spotlessly, decorated with flowers and backed into the station. The railroad men say that they leave at 4 o'clock for Palm Beach, but refuse to say whether the bridal party is going in it.

To Soon Return. This trip will be of long duration, for the groom must soon return to his desk in congress. After an adjustment, however, the Longworths will make an extended journey to Europe, and in London, Paris, Berlin and on the Riviera will enjoy to the full their flat, while the larger ones toward the bottom of the dress had raised wings. The young bride, looking charming in the rich gown and radiantly happy.

Reception Congratulations. The happy couple were surrounded by the guests, who showered their congratulations upon the groom and their most enthusiastic good wishes upon the bride. Young Mrs. Longworth displayed remarkable tact and received the felicitations of her numerous friends with dignity which, however, did not altogether prevent occasional outbursts of youthful enthusiasm, one of her most characteristic charms. Throughout the breakfast Lieutenant Bantelmann's red-coated musicians played classical and popular airs, and the delicate tones of the magnificent gold piano in the East room from time to time added gentler melody to the feast of sound.

Newspaper men are guarding every avenue of exit from the city to learn where the couple is going. The private car Mayflower has been cleaned spotlessly, decorated with flowers and backed into the station. The railroad men say that they leave at 4 o'clock for Palm Beach, but refuse to say whether the bridal party is going in it.

To Soon Return. This trip will be of long duration, for the groom must soon return to his desk in congress. After an adjustment, however, the Longworths will make an extended journey to Europe, and in London, Paris, Berlin and on the Riviera will enjoy to the full their flat, while the larger ones toward the bottom of the dress had raised wings. The young bride, looking charming in the rich gown and radiantly happy.

Reception Congratulations. The happy couple were surrounded by the guests, who showered their congratulations upon the groom and their most enthusiastic good wishes upon the bride. Young Mrs. Longworth displayed remarkable tact and received the felicitations of her numerous friends with dignity which, however, did not altogether prevent occasional outbursts of youthful enthusiasm, one of her most characteristic charms. Throughout the breakfast Lieutenant Bantelmann's red-coated musicians played classical and popular airs, and the delicate tones of the magnificent gold piano in the East room from time to time added gentler melody to the feast of sound.

Newspaper men are guarding every avenue of exit from the city to learn where the couple is going. The private car Mayflower has been cleaned spotlessly, decorated with flowers and backed into the station. The railroad men say that they leave at 4 o'clock for Palm Beach, but refuse to say whether the bridal party is going in it.

To Soon Return. This trip will be of long duration, for the groom must soon return to his desk in congress. After an adjustment, however, the Longworths will make an extended journey to Europe, and in London, Paris, Berlin and on the Riviera will enjoy to the full their flat, while the larger ones toward the bottom of the dress had raised wings. The young bride, looking charming in the rich gown and radiantly happy.

Reception Congratulations. The happy couple were surrounded by the guests, who showered their congratulations upon the groom and their most enthusiastic good wishes upon the bride. Young Mrs. Longworth displayed remarkable tact and received the felicitations of her numerous friends with dignity which, however, did not alto-

White House Weddings of the Past Eclipsed Today's Ceremony Tenth to Be Performed, Not Including a Freak Marriage.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—Today's wedding was the tenth solemnized by the president and his wife since they were married in 1880.

All of these weddings, however, were given on a scale of grandeur and splendor far beyond anything that has ever been witnessed in the East room, within a few steps of where Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth stood today.

The list of weddings given above does not include a "freak marriage" that was performed in the White House in 1874.

The members of the party which accompanied Secretary Taft to the Philippines presented the bride with a handsome ornament to be worn either as a brooch or pendant.

Both Russian and English Monarchs Fail to Send Gift to President's Daughter.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—While the failure of the czar to make a wedding present to Miss Roosevelt has excited a great deal of attention, no one seems to have taken note of the circumstance that neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride.

King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

Neither King Edward or Queen Alexandra has dispatched any offering to the bride. King Edward, who has an extremely keen sense of the fitness of things, realizes that any presents sent now must necessarily partake more or less of an official character, and thus cannot be of the nature of a gift.

When the time comes to have your home heated, consider these things: You are the one who is to buy the fuel, not the man who installs your heating plant. You are the one who pays for the repairs, and the man who installs your plant is the man who gets paid. You are the man who wants his house warmed—always. In short—just consider yourself—be fair to yourself—investigate.

We'll be satisfied with the result, if you go at it impartially to every one but yourself.

The W. G. McPHERSON CO.

Heating, Ventilating and Drying Engineers 47 FIRST STREET

ALICE'S TWIN WEDS. Girl Who Was Born on the Same Day Married Soldier in Army. New York, Feb. 17.—Miss Madge Hogan of this city, known among her friends as "Alice Roosevelt's twin," was married here today at high noon with William Holbrook, a private in Company E, Eighth Infantry, stationed at Governor's Island.

DESCRIPTION OF GOWNS. Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Longworth and one or two others without exact description of Miss Alice Roosevelt's wedding gown was prepared by her secretary.

UNIVERSITY STUDENTS DO NOT FEAR FEVER Re-Registering of Pupils for Second Semester Begins on Monday at Eugene.

MRS. MARGARET LITTLE, PIONEER, PASSES AWAY Mrs. Margaret Little, who died Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. S. F. Myrland, 729 Corbett street, was born in Liverpool, England, in 1825, and came to America when a girl.

WARRING Factions and Attorneys Agree on Man to Take Charge of Pendleton Tribune. Arguments of Both Sides to Be Heard Court Adjourns Until Monday, When Case Will Be Argued to Determine if Either Side Shall Be Given Control.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS WILL GATHER WEDNESDAY At the last county Sunday school convention Multnomah county was divided into four districts with a president for each district and a convention was arranged for each. The second district, which embraces all schools south of East Taylor and east of the Willamette river to the boundary lines, will hold its convention Wednesday, February 22, at Mispah Presbyterian church on Powell street, near East Thirtieth, at 7:30 p. m.

BRIDGE AND GROOM REARED IN LAP OF LUXURY Both Contracting Parties Born With Golden Spoons—Longworth Protege of Cox.

WOULDN'T TAKE NO. Longworth, a Persistent Suitor, Refused to Be Shunned by Miss Roosevelt.

BUILT IN OREGON LOGGING AND HOISTING ENGINES MARINE AND STEAMBOAT MACHINERY ELECTRIC HOISTS HEAVY SAWMILL SPECIALTIES POWER TRANSMITTING MACHINERY Guaranteed heavier, stronger and of better design than similar machinery built elsewhere. We believe what we say and stand behind it. Willamette Iron and Steel Works PORTLAND, OREGON, U. S. A.

OREGON LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY Conducted on safe lines that have stood the test of time. Profits of the business paid to policyholders at the end of each year. L. Samuel, Manager, Mackey Building, 326 Washington St., Portland, Oregon.

CASTORIA The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Dr. J. C. Watson and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiment: that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience Against Experiment.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS Bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Watson. The Kind You Have Always Bought In Use For Over 30 Years.

Bassett's Native Herbs Best for All Digestive Disorders, Liver and Kidney troubles, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Headache, No Alcohol, No Opium, No Cocaine, No Stimulants, No Narcotics, No Drugs, No Chemicals, No Poisons, No Harmful Ingredients, No Dangers, No Side Effects, No Discomfort, No Pain, No Suffering, No Weakness, No Debility, No Exhaustion, No Fatigue, No Irritation, No Inflammation, No Swelling, No Redness, No Itching, No Burning, No Stinging, No Prickling, No Tingling, No Numbness, No Paralysis, No Loss of Sensation, No Loss of Power, No Loss of Strength, No Loss of Vigor, No Loss of Energy, No Loss of Appetite, No Loss of Sleep, No Loss of Rest, No Loss of Health, No Loss of Life.

MRS. CATHERINE HODSON DEAD (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Salem, Or., Feb. 17.—Mrs. Catherine Hodson, aged 81 years, died in this city Thursday. She was a native of Ohio and crossed the plains in 1850 with her husband, Elmer Hodson, and settled near Roseburg, Oregon. She had lived in Salem since 1884. She leaves six children, Mrs. William McCormick of Laurel, Oregon; J. W. Hodson of Salem, Mrs. Jane Billingham of Camanche, Washington; A. L. Hodson of Salem, Miss Ella Hodson, clerk in the state treasurer's office. The funeral will probably be held Sunday morning and burial will be in Twin Oak cemetery, Roseburg.