

SUFFRAGISTS ARE NOT SCARED

Efforts of Opposition Movement Worry State Association Very Little.

FROM BALTIMORE COME GOOD WISHES FOR CAUSE

Mrs. Anna B. Shaw Calls Oregon the Battlefield of National Organization and Praises Initiative and Referendum Law.

The efforts of the anti-suffragists trouble the State Suffrage Association but little, so secure does the organization feel in its own strength. Communications were read from some of the "ants" at a meeting of the association yesterday afternoon, together with some protestations from friends who are disturbed by the opposition movement. But discussion was not allowed. Messages were read from the national convention at Baltimore, which for success in the coming campaign and assurance of good will from many friends now of the convention were given. An abstract of the annual address of the president, Dr. Anna Shaw, was read. She spoke of the Pacific coast, and especially Oregon, as the immediate battlefield of the organization and praised the initiative and referendum law which makes it possible to bring the question before the voters. "Our hope lies in the power of the people to compel action," she said; "and the best method yet employed is that secured the state of Oregon through its initiative and referendum law. The amendment on November 30 by the national manager of the Oregon campaign that the required number of signatures had been secured made our movement complete. The later amendment that the petition had been accepted by the secretary of state and the proclamation of the governor had been issued December 21, submitting our bill to be acted upon by the voters on June 4, were sufficient causes for rejoicing and gratitude as we looked to the ringing of bells that told of the birth of the new government which we hope to be brought with victory for our cause."

Compliments were passed by the president on the work of Miss Laura Gregg, who has the campaign in charge; Miss Laura Clark and Dr. Jeffrey, national officers making their stay in Oregon; Mrs. Clara Colby of Washington, Mrs. Woodworth of Oklahoma, Miss Mary Chase of New Hampshire, Miss Gail Laughlin of Maine, Mrs. Dennis of Illinois and Mrs. Boyer of Pennsylvania. Miss Laughlin made the principal address of the afternoon at today's meeting, and Mr. Hedges made the closing remarks. Mrs. Hedges made the first address for the cause in Oregon in a little old schoolhouse in the early sixties. A quarter of the work throughout the state and Mrs. Colby, who has just returned from a lecturing tour in Washington county, told of the enthusiasm with which her work was there. She leaves next week for Columbia county.

Yesterday the association celebrated the birthday of Susan B. Anthony with an informal reception in the new headquarters over the Allen & Gilbert Rammer piano house. A large number were in attendance.

Big Real Estate Deal.

It is reported that Charles K. Henry during the past few days has made a great many sales in real estate, including a block in the northern part of the city for $100,000. The 2 1/2-acre tract of Charles Hagle, fronting on the railroad, to manufacturing concern. A half block in the northern part of the city for $40,000. A quarter block on the southwest corner of Seventh and Burnside streets to Mr. D. C. Patton, which, with the property heretofore sold by Mr. Henry to Mr. Patton, makes a very attractive and valuable property. A quarter block in the north end of the city for $22,000, and to a manufacturing concern a large tract of river frontage with trackage and deep water facilities opposite St. Johns for Rev. L. E. Elliot. Also a similar corner lot in the northern part of the city for $10,000. A quarter block on McMillan street to a party who will build thereon, as well as a number of smaller sales in Piedmont, Albina, Alameda, Homestead and other parts of the city. A warehouse quarter block on the east side for $20,000, and a quarter block in Carver's addition to parties who will build thereon. Parties having good properties for sale at right prices will find it to their interest to list same with Charles K. Henry, who has been steadily in the real estate business for the past 18 years and is a successful salesman. Individuals, firms and corporations will find it to their advantage to consult Mr. Henry about real estate in or about the city of Portland before buying elsewhere.

Carl Denton's Program.

GOVERNOR WILL TELL BOYS ABOUT WASHINGTON

Paul Riggs, Boy Soprano, to Sing at Patriotic Mass Meeting at Marquam Grand.

A big George Washington's birthday patriotic meeting is to be held in the Marquam Grand theater this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Governor Chamberlain will deliver an address on the "Life of George Washington." Judge A. L. Fraser and other prominent men will participate.

Paul Riggs, a boy soprano, will sing "My Own United States," the popular and catchy song from the patriotic opera, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home." The Trinity choir will sing and the Y. M. C. A. orchestra will play patriotic airs. This will be the first big mass meeting for boys only, conducted by boys, ever held in Portland. Admission is to be by ticket only to all boys between 12 and 18 years of age. Tickets can be secured free this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. boys' room, Fourth and Yamhill streets, between 1:30 and 3 o'clock. Several boy clubs, boy brigades, and similar organizations, have secured tickets and will attend in bodies and occupy seats together.

DR. DOUGLAS HYDE MAY COME

Most Beloved Man in Ireland Likely to Visit Portland on Tour of Country.

MAY BE PRESENT ON SAINT PATRICK'S DAY

Dr. Hyde is President of Gaelic League and Has Been Instrumental in Securing Instruction in Dying Tongue for Children.

It is likely that Dr. Douglas Hyde of County Roscommon, one of the most beloved men in Ireland, will visit Portland. He is at present in San Francisco, and efforts are being made by Portland admirers of the famous Irishman to induce him to include this city in his itinerary. A meeting for that purpose was held yesterday in the office of Judge M. G. Munley. As a result of the meeting a telegram was sent to the national secretary of the entertaining committee in New York asking that arrangements be made for Dr. Hyde to visit Portland. A reply is not expected until Monday. However, it is generally believed the visit will be accepted. In case it is those who will have charge of his entertainment will endeavor to have Dr. Hyde participate in the celebration in honor of St. Patrick's day. Dr. Hyde is the son of a Protestant clergyman, graduate of Trinity college, Dublin, and is president of the Gaelic league. It is largely due to his efforts that nearly 300,000 children are studying Gaelic, or Irish, at Dr. Hyde prefers to call it, in the schools of Ireland. It is also largely due to him that the product of nearly all the smaller manufacturing industries has doubled, and that Irishmen now demand clothes, hats, shoes and other articles made by Irishmen in Ireland from material raised in Ireland. Dr. Hyde, through his endeavors to restore the Gaelic language, has become one of the foremost men in the world. Gaelic has not been in common use in Ireland for nearly 100 years. It was practically barred from the public schools by the English government, though in a measure it was kept alive by traveling schoolmasters. It was rapidly becoming a dead language when revived by the league. This will be the first instance in which one of the dead or dying languages has been restored to common use. Chairs for instruction in the Gaelic tongue have been established in universities in Copenhagen, Berlin, Paris and in John Hopkins and Harvard in America.

CHARRED RUINS A RICH MINE

Some Dig for Pipe Fittings, Some for Face Wash and Others for Tintypes.

DOGS HOWL GRUESOME CHANT OVER BONES

Crowd of Curious Keep Watch While Owners of Destroyed Shops and Stores Fry in Ashes for Such Goods as Plates Left Undestroyed.

The east side ruins of the Journal is the scene of a busy scene. The black ruins left by the East Water street fire of Monday last, and some semblance of order is being brought in the chaos. Traffic has been resumed over the Morrison street bridge by teams, though only half the roadway is at present open to the public, the workmen being engaged in placing new supports under the east approach. About 100 feet of the approach was more or less badly burned, and the bridge proper and much of the heavy piling and crosspieces beneath will have to be replaced. This work will probably be finished by the end of the present week.

A hundred busy hands are removing the black ruins left by the East Water street fire of Monday last, and some semblance of order is being brought in the chaos. Traffic has been resumed over the Morrison street bridge by teams, though only half the roadway is at present open to the public, the workmen being engaged in placing new supports under the east approach. About 100 feet of the approach was more or less badly burned, and the bridge proper and much of the heavy piling and crosspieces beneath will have to be replaced. This work will probably be finished by the end of the present week. Morbid crowds still gather about the ruins in the hope that some of the numerous explorers will dig up a gruesome find. No line of demarcation was left to inform the owners of the half dozen burned buildings where their original establishments stood, but rough boundaries have been set up in the charred heap and on every little patch a crew is working. Up to one corner is a bartender grubbing in the charcoal for demitiches and straws to sell, finding them often intact. Besides the bartender a plumber and his assistant are searching. Deep down under the pile of cinders they found a vein of metal which when mined produced elbows and smaller fittings little the worse for the fire.

To the rear of the industrial plumbers is a beauty doctor clawing over the ashes of his former parlor for such bottles of complexion cream, hair bleach, face ointment, and wrinkle eradicator as may be left. By some chance his stock was rather well preserved and bushels of bottles have been carried away by him in the last few days. Farther on a tinsmith man is prying with dejected mien among the ruins of his gallery. The photographer finds least to repay him for his trouble. Over in a far corner of the plot, a lean, gaunt figure in rusty black, armed with a long-handled shovel, is scraping the chaos about him in the apparent hope of finding something, but he in three days has brought up nothing to reward his industry. Back among the ruins of the stable curs from scow town nose about, fighting over such stray bones as may have escaped the garbage men, who removed the carcasses of the burned horses, and occasionally sitting down and howling in concert. By the end of another week most of the ruins will have been thoroughly explored, all the stuff of value taken and the site will be ready for new building operations, which it is reported will be soon started. The northwest corner of the street intersection is one of the best central east side locations, and a single block of stone or brick would attract a desirable class of tenants and pay a good return.

FIGHT NEW SALOON.

Residents of Recently Formed Precinct in Doubt as to Their Rights.

Residents of the new precinct formed recently in North Irvington are wondering under what sort of a license administration they are. The majority of this precinct was formerly dry and the majority of the residents of the new precinct are opposed to saloons in the residential district. The question of election on the question since the division of the precincts anew, so it is not certain what the status of the district is. R. Sinner desires to open a saloon in the precinct at Falling and Sixth street and has informed the residents that if he secures the necessary names he can open his bar. Whether this opinion of the liquor dealer is justified by the law has not yet been shown to the residents, who are trying to discover just what they can do should Sinner secure a license and open a saloon among their homes. Those who are preparing to contest the matter assert that Sinner's record as a saloon-keeper is not a good one and that before the saloon formerly in that district was closed drunken men were common in the residential district and a crowd of undesirable frequented the place. Since the precinct went dry it is said that conditions are greatly improved, there being no more inebriated revelling home by night or young braves who frequent street corners and insult unprotected women and girls.

EAST SIDE NOTES.

February 14 was Valentine's day and the first anniversary of Master Raymond Jenkins' birth. A Valentine party was held at the residence of his parents, 425 East Mill street, did honor to the occasion and 30 mothers and their children were present. Valentines of all sorts were in evidence and many more substantial gifts were interchanged. The annual dinner of the St. Johns Evangelical Aid society will be held at Bickner's hall in St. Johns Friday afternoon and evening. An elaborate entertainment and Valentine social was given at the Grand Avenue United Presbyterian church Wednesday evening by the members of the boys' Sunday school class. The decorations and program, as well as the unique amusements, showed the ingenuity and versatility of the young hosts. A considerable amount was netted from the entertainment and will be used for the needs of the church. The Congregational pulpit at St. Johns will be occupied tomorrow by Rev. J. J. Stubbs of Portland at 3 o'clock p. m. On a few weeks the new church building of the organization will be completed and formally dedicated. At present services are being held in Woodman's hall. Work has been commenced on the McCaskey block in St. Johns, which will be one of the largest store and office buildings in the town. It will be two stories in height and constructed of brick and stone. A well-attended invitation dance was given by the Royal club at the Multnomah hall last evening. Tuesday evening the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, will give an invitation dance at Multnomah hall.

STENBACH PLANS BIG BUILDING

Two Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollar Structure at Seventh and Stark Streets.

COUNTRY NEVER SO PROSPEROUS AS NOW

Eyes of East on Northwest, Says Merchant Back From Extended Trip—We Have Mighty Fine Reputation Financially and Otherwise.

Upon his return home last evening from an extended business trip to eastern commercial centers, A. B. Stenbach confirmed the report published in The Journal a few weeks ago that he intends to improve his quarter of a block at the corner of Seventh and Stark streets with a handsome building. "It will cost about $250,000," continued Mr. Stenbach. "I am not ready to talk about the matter any further, but you are at liberty to say that when the building is completed it will be a credit to the city of Portland."

"Before the fair I could have put up a two-story building upon the lots that would have made me lose of money during the exposition. But I knew that once the building was up it would be apt to stay there, so I decided not to build until I was ready to expend about $250,000."

"The country never before enjoyed the prosperity it is enjoying now. I heard more about the Pacific coast and Oregon on this trip than ever before. The eyes of the east are on the northwest. I do not mean on Chicago, but I mean that the extreme northwest. We have a mighty fine reputation financially and otherwise in the east."

"In my business I found the demand greater than the supply. Why? Because the people have money and are spending it. I want east several weeks earlier than usual so as to be an early arrival upon the market and get the goods. The late comers cannot get anything."

"I left Portland on January 3 and went direct to New York City. I ran in and out of that city for several weeks and then took a pleasure trip to Atlantic City, where I remained a week. To save time I caught the Flyer out of New York City for Chicago and after looking the market over there came on home."

FAIRY TALE ROMANCE IS ENDED BY DIVORCE

George W. Earl this morning was allowed a divorce from Francis D. Earl, thus closing a romance that had all the trills of a fairy tale. The couple married in Portland on May 27, 1905, and Mrs. Earl left her husband's home on July 15 in company with her brother, Leon Jones. Letters written by Mrs. Earl weeks after her marriage caused Judge Cleland, who granted the divorce, to say that "one of two things is true—either these letters are false or the testimony offered in the case is false, and the testimony of these letters cannot be contradicted."
