

LUCKY MISS DEAN

By Julia Robert Goodmann. (From The Journal's Own Correspondent.) NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—A young lady by the name of Miss Anselma Dean and the tragedy which has befallen her, has been the subject of a recent story to the effect that she had inherited some $200,000...

have money or they will be put out of their apartments by the bailiff and their furniture will be seized. The plot was made up by the author, and the result is a very interesting and original story...

False Tale of Fortune. Miss Dean has been secretly married to a Frederick Ware, an artist. The main asset of this charming young couple is a splendid sense of humor and a perfect adaptability...

Not a tremendously exciting play this nor immensely funny. Retaining its original charm, it is a play which will be almost every moment it pleases. There are charming bits of sentiment and a light playfulness to the lines...

Gifts in Plenty. Other results now follow quickly. The two sons, the cousins of Miss Dean, pay suit. Presents rain down upon the flat from the suddenly affectionate relatives...

Real Thrills. The best acts of "Bedford's Hope" are the first and third. The second and fourth are almost flat. The first has elements of clever play-making and shows Lincoln J. Carter, the author, to have the instincts of the true dramatist...

MARSHALL DARRACH THIS WEEK

On Wednesday evening, at the White Temple, the first of the splendid series of Shakespearean recitals given by Marshall Darrach, under the auspices of the Settlement Work of the People's Institute...
