IS FORCED OUT FOR GOOD!

The fame of this sale has traveled far. Its wondrous values have called forth plaudits from all the people. The end is in sight. ONLY SIX DAYS MORE—soon the tremendous bargains (unprecedented in the retail records of the west) of which this advertisement tells in part—will have passed into the realms of things that were. It therefore behooves belated buyers to make their selections NOW. Remember, only Six Days More. We simply have to get out by March 1. Therefore WE CLOSE OUR EYES TO COST AND VALUE. We turn a deaf ear to our loyal salespeople not to sacrifice so splendid a stock. But we are determined in the next Six Days to turn into MIGHTY CASH EVERY DOLLAR IT IS POSSIBLE TO EXCHANGE. We are forced out, so now we put it up to you. Will you benefit by our determination to sell quick? Will you see the TREMENDOUS SAVINGS, or will you let this opportunity SLIP AWAY FROM YOU? We won't burden you with adjectives—THE MERCHANDISE—THE RIDICULOUSLY LOW PRICES WILL DO OUR WORK.

ONLY SIX DAYS MORE

A news article which appeared in the daily papers explains why we must get out. It is a case of being thrown out. We must go. The following is quoted from the article:

"Golden Eagle will be the name of a new department store to be opened about the middle of March at the Northwest corner of Third and Yamhill streets. A ten-year lease has been secured and extensive alterations will be begun in a few days," etc.

That means we have to get out by February 28—SIX MORE DAYS. Take advantage of this and secure unheard of bargains.

Send in your Mail Orders. They will be filled same day letter is received. We do not substitute any orders.

MADE LOVE WHEN HE WAS DRUNK

But When Sober, Says Mrs. R. W. Montgomery, Her Husband Loved Her Not.

TWICE WOODED, TWICE WED, TWICE DIVORCED

Mrs. Montgomery Says She Found Life in Woodshed Not Agreeable—Place Had Paper Roof, and Was Too Small for Comfort.

R. W. Montgomery has twice made love to Margaret South, twice he has married her and as often she has received a divorce from him. Divorce No. 2 was granted to her this morning by Judge Sears, she having alleged desertion and cruelty. The last time the couple were married was at Vancouver, Washington, May 4, 1903. The woman's maiden name of Margaret South has been restored to her each time she has been divorced.

On the witness stand this morning, Mrs. Montgomery explained that she did not enjoy love in a woodshed. She declared that right after her last marriage her husband took her to a nice home in a pleasant residence district in Portland. But Montgomery's love, she said, waned in three months, and he moved out to a building at Laurelwood, which Mrs. Montgomery declared was built for a woodshed. She said that the roof was a paper one and leaky, that there was only room enough in the new home for a bed, a stove and two chairs. "He never purchased me a bit of clothing and complained because I did not get out and work," said the woman. "Some friends of mine were going to Alaska, and he kept at me to go up there with them and work. At last I complied with his wishes, and then he wrote to me and told me that he did not care for me any longer. I returned home at once, and tried to win him back. Whenever he was under the influence of liquor he would say that he was in the wrong, was sorry for the way he had acted and would do better; but just as soon as he got sober he got surly again. At last he left me."

"How long were you separated from him before your remarriage?" asked Judge Sears.

"Ten years," was the reply.

"Well, why did you marry him again?"

"He made so many nice promises to me and I thought anything was better than to have no work all my life," replied Mrs. Montgomery.

Mrs. C. A. Calloway, sister to plaintiff, said she had often asked Montgomery to make up with his wife, but that whenever he was sober he would not consider the project.

Montgomery is said to have deserted his wife and woodshed on May 11, 1904. For 12 years Mrs. Esther Reed waited for Henry. Read to return to her and their two children. He did not return, nor write, nor send any funds to his family, so this morning Judge Sears granted Mrs. Reed a divorce. The couple were married at New Westminster, British Columbia, March 18, 1892.

DENIES ABRAMS WAS UNDULY INFLUENCED

J. Thorburn Ross has filed an answer to the complaint filed against the Title Guarantees and Trust company by D. K. Abrams through George W. Stapleton, his guardian. The suit was brought by the guardian against the company and the officers of the Pacific university to have a gift made to the college set aside, alleging that undue influence was used to get Abrams to make the gift.

Mr. Ross denies that any such influence was used on Abrams. He says that on July 31, 1903, he was in Ridgefield, Washington, and there was directed by Mr. Abrams to draw up a trust deed for the undivided one-half interest of a 40-acre tract of land in Albinia, this city; Abrams, who is past 70 years old, expressing a wish to give the university $25,000 to found the "Abrams Memorial fund."

Abrams is said to have told Mr. Ross that J. E. Hazeltine had an option to buy the land for $300 an acre, said option to be in force up to March, 1905, when, if Hazeltine did not purchase the property, the trust company would have the right to sell the land. When the property was sold, $25,000 of the returns were to be given to the college and the remainder to be disposed of as directed by Mr. Abrams.

Unsettled Commercial Club. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Fendleton, Or., Feb. 23.—Arrangements are being made for the organization of a county commercial club in Unsettled county, for advertising purposes and the good of the county generally. Letters have been directed to all clubs in the county, and a meeting is expected to be held here today for the purpose of obtaining concerted action.

MAIL IS WEIGHED THIS MONTH

Quadrennial Test by the Government is Now in Progress Here.

ON RESULT IS BASED CHARGE BY RAILROAD

Hill, Harriman and Gould Interests All Striving for Long Distance Carrying Contract Which is Extremely Valuable.

Throughout the United States hundreds of men are being employed by the railway mail service in weighing the mails preparatory to the fixing by the postal authorities of the compensation the railroads are to receive for carrying all classes of mail matter for the next four years, commencing July 1. Portland, Seattle and Spokane are in the eighth division of the service, and the work here is being done under the personal supervision of Samuel Stephens, the superintendent, whose headquarters are at San Francisco, California.

In this district more than 30 men are employed. Every train running on the distribution centers in the division carries an extra man, whose sole duty it is to weigh every sack or pouch of mail taken aboard or thrown off the mailcars. These figures are sent to Washington by the division superintendents, and a comparison with the weights taken four years ago is intended to show the increase or decrease in the mail tonnage carried by the railroads over specified periods. It is upon this comparative showing that the compensation for the next four years is based.

Every four years the government enters into a new contract with the railroads of the country for carrying and handling the mails. They are entered into on July 1. In view of the awarding of new contracts in the near future, the railroads of the country are striving to get the same. The roads making the fastest time between common points are supposed to get the contract, and for that reason are shortening their time cards. Interest is centering upon the fight of the Hill, Harriman and the Gould interests, all three striving for the long-distance carrying contracts, in which there is big compensation.

PACIFIC SQUADRON OFF FOR MAGDALENA BAY

(Special Special Service.)
Coronado, Cal., Feb. 23.—The south Pacific squadron, under the command of Rear-Admiral Goodrich, and consisting of the flagship Chicago, the cruiser Boston, the torpedo-boat Perry, the Princeton, the Paul Jones and the Marblehead, are scheduled to sail this morning for Magdalena bay for their annual target practice. While the squadron was in this harbor the officers and men were received with the greatest enthusiasm and scores of social functions were arranged in their honor.

NO DRINKS TO DRUNKEN MEN SAYS CHIEF

Strict Orders Issued to Patrolmen to Enforce Law.

"It is a violation of the law for a saloon-keeper to sell liquor to an intoxicated person. The law must be enforced," says Chief of Police Gritzmacher. Orders have been given all patrolmen to cause the arrest of any saloon-keeper or bartender who violates the law by selling intoxicants to persons in an intoxicated condition. The three relief of patrolmen have been addressed by their respective captains and the order of Chief Gritzmacher read to them. They have been instructed to use every effort to break up the practice.

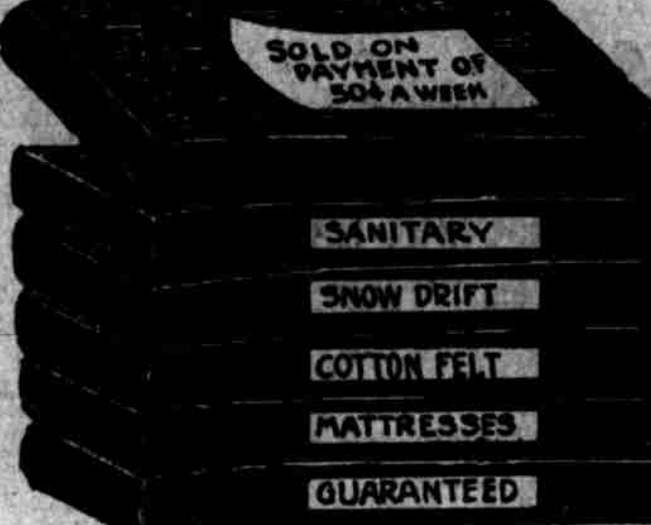

This action has been taken because of numerous complaints that have been made at police headquarters. One woman approached the chief two days ago with tears in her eyes and begged him to force certain saloon-keepers to refuse to sell her husband liquor when he was already intoxicated. She told the chief that her husband could readily get more liquor after he had consumed enough to wreck temporarily, blind and body, with the result that more of his money was spent and his condition was so much worse that he lost work con-
