

The Market Basket

Today is the third day of Lent and the dealers are getting their fish supplies so that they will soon equal the demand. There are various kinds in the market—most of the varieties usually shown—but the amount of each kind is not so great as during normal times. The greatest scarcity is in fresh Columbia river salmon. Both the royal chinook and the steelhead are rather slow in getting into the fishermen's nets, and the result is that some people will be compelled to go without them. In the retail markets the steelhead—a variety at 12½ cents a pound, while the genuine royal chinook brings 15 cents. There are quite liberal shipments of Columbia river smelt, which at 5 cents a pound find many buyers. Sturgeon from the lower river is quoted at 12½ cents a pound and halibut from the far north brings the same figure. Sea trout, or, to be more exact, salmon trout, sell quite well in the markets at 25 cents a pound. This same figure being asked at retail for sea bass.

California waters have many fine fish that are sold in these markets, and the shad and the sole are perhaps the best known. Both of these sell rapidly in the retail markets at 15 cents a pound. Lobsters come from the Hawaiian islands are in good supply. Nicer quality has not been seen for many a day. Rather high, though, at 50 to 60 cents each. Apples are way up in price on account of the smaller variety and the smaller supply. Prices are too varied to quote.

Eggs are now selling in practically all the stores at 20 cents a dozen. Supplies are beginning to increase again and the market is expected to be better. This may possibly result in lower prices.

Chickens are arriving so slowly in the Portland market that some dealers have been forced to send to the east in order to supply the trade. Prices, however, about the same. Ducks and turkeys are slow in coming; prices high.

Potatoes all the way from the Bermuda islands have made their appearance in the Portland markets. They are of the "new" variety and are remarkably high, being quoted at two pounds for 25 cents.

Taking the market as a whole, prices are practically 1 to 2 cents a pound higher than a week or two ago. The cause of this is the higher price being paid in the stockyards for live stock. For sheep and hogs the prices have not been so high in the wholesale market for some time today, and there are indications that values will again rise at no distant date. Hogs are the highest in recent years and still further advances are looked for. There is no doubt that has not been boosted in price is but and in some quarters even this product is advanced.

The vegetable market is beginning to respond to the spring weather and there are better supplies in most lines. Asparagus is coming freely from California and prices are ranging from 15 to 20 cents a pound in the retail markets, according to freshness.

String beans are quoted around 40 cents a pound and are hard to get even at that high figure.

Tomatoes from Mexico are coming in better shape and sell around 15 to 25 cents a pound. Some California tomatoes also sell at the wholesale market for 15 to 20 cents a pound. The Hawaiian islands are in good supply. Nicer quality has not been seen for many a day. Rather high, though, at 50 to 60 cents each. Apples are way up in price on account of the smaller variety and the smaller supply. Prices are too varied to quote.

NO MOVE TO STOP PRIZE FIGHTS

Local Authorities Will Make No Effort to Prevent Boxing Contests at 'Frisco.

TENNY'S FUNERAL IS HELD THIS AFTERNOON

District Attorney Investigating the Charges That Dead Pugilist Was Doped—Neil and Seconds Arraigned and Cases Continued.

(Journal Special Service.) San Francisco, March 2.—While those interested in the fighting game deplore the death of Harry Tenny, it is not thought that there will be any interference by the board of supervisors and the local authorities. Senator Halcott, who two years ago introduced a bill to prohibit fighting, announced again today that he will make an effort to have a bill passed at the next session of the legislature. The police committee of the board of supervisors, having the direction of fights, say that the law was compiled with in the Neil-Tenny fight and decline to take any action to stop bouts.

Foreman Mitchell of the grand jury says that the matter is not for that body to investigate. The district attorney will investigate the charges that Tenny was doped. The attorney of the dead pugilist has been sent to the city chemist for analysis.

The body of Tenny was removed from the morgue to his home on Polson street last night. An immense crowd gathered and attempted to break in. The police fought the crowd back.

The burial will be held this afternoon at the Salem cemetery.

Frankie Neil, referee Roche and the seconds were arraigned this morning and their cases continued until after the inquest. The date of hearing will not be set until the inquest is completed.

District Attorney Langdon says that he will make no recommendation to the board of supervisors about stopping prizefighting. He is satisfied that all provisions of the law have been complied with. Neither will he make any recommendation to the grand jury. It can be shown that Neil is guilty of manslaughter, and that Tenny's death was due to the beating received by Neil, he says he will prosecute the case.

The inquest is to be held next Wednesday.

Two sisters of Tenny collapsed previous to the funeral services, which were under the auspices of the Foresters.

AT THE THEATRES.

"Little Johnny Jones."

George M. Cohan's extremely successful musical melodrama, "Little Johnny Jones," will come to the Marquis Grand theatre for Friday and Saturday nights at 10. It is quite within the bounds of reason to say that "Little Johnny Jones" has met with a greater degree of success than any play of its order that has been given to the American stage in the past 10 years. In the cast are Tom Lewis, Sam J. Ryan, Bobby Barry, Charles Baberman, William Methan, J. J. Fenfold, William Seymour, Harry Kirtledge, George Tyler, Heisei Courtney, Edith Tyler, Adele Hafer and Stella Traversy. Advance sale of seats will open next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

"Human Hearts" at the Empire.

"Human Hearts," the beautiful story of the Arkansas hills, is filling the Empire this week. It always does so every visit to Portland. The play contains so much of heart interest and dramatic fervor that it attracts every class of theatre-goer. Tonight tomorrow matinee and tomorrow night will be the last three performances of "Human Hearts."

Imperials Coming Next.

The Baker will offer one of the strongest burlesque attractions of the season next week in "Williams' Imperials," which will open Sunday matinee. A new musical comedy is presented, a two-act burlesque entitled "An Epopee."

Baker-Matinee Tomorrow.

The Baker matinee tomorrow at 2:15 o'clock will close the engagement of the High School Girls burlesque company, which has made a popular hit this week. All the costumes and make-up are new, beautiful and original. Some especially noted acts are in the vaudeville olio. Tonight at 8:15 o'clock.

VAUDEVILLE AND STOCK. At the Lyric.

At the Lyric, "Found a Hat," a seemingly funny farce in three acts, is dispelling cases of blues. There are no wits between acts at the Lyric, as the moving pictures and illustrated songs take up the time which otherwise would be idle.

Russians at Grand.

At the Grand this week there is not a weak nor indifferent specialty. The Haides, four Russians, are the first to appear in Portland in vaudeville. They sing catchy songs and sprinkle their act with comedy. There will be a change in prices Monday.

Hawaiians at Star.

The Royal Hawaiian quintet is a decided hit at the Star this week. The Herivard trio have an aerial act which they have brought to this class. Virginia Richmond, a character singing comedienne, affords additional novelty, while James Dunn gives indications of birds and beasts in a realistic manner.

New Corporation.

Salem, Or., March 2.—Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday for the Bloomer-Safe & Lock company, which proposes to engage in the buying and selling of safes, vaults and desks. The incorporators are Thomas C. Bloomer, G. F. Bloomer and L. E. McDaniel, all of Portland. The capital stock is $5,000.
