

FELT SORRY FOR THE BURGLAR

Church Janitor Had Decided to Offer the Intruder a Bed.

BUT FOUND THE DOOR LOCKED AGAINST HIM

Man Told First Congregational Keeper He Was Merely Seeking Shelter From Cold, as He Had No Money to Get a Room.

Two more church robberies were reported to the police last night, those of the First Congregational and Westminster Presbyterian churches. The first occurred about two weeks ago and the second last week, but neither was made public until its pastor learned that numerous other churches have recently been broken into by burglars.

The janitor of the First Congregational church happened to be asleep in the church the night of the robbery, occupying a small room on the lower story. He was awakened at an early hour in the morning by hearing the sound made by a match as it was scratched.

"Who's there?" he called out. "Oh, it's all right," came a voice from the dark. "I'm merely looking for some place to sleep. It's a pretty cold night and I haven't any money to get a room at a lodging-house."

The janitor said that there was no place for the man to sleep and asked him how he got in. He was told that the door had been left ajar. When the man left, the janitor arose and started for the door. He had concluded to try to provide some kind of bed for the wanderer. He was astonished at finding the door closed and locked. It had a spring lock and the burglar, for whom the man proved to be, had quietly closed it on leaving the church, so that the janitor was debarred from immediate pursuit.

The next morning practically every room in the church showed evidence of the presence of the intruder. All he secured was about $1 in small change, in a children's bank in the primary room. The amount represented the contributions of the little ones.

The Westminster Presbyterian church was entered after the lock of a door had been forced. The church was ransacked thoroughly. The burglar carried away about $11 in pennies. H. R. Albee reported the burglary.

The police are satisfied that John C. Fabricius, the noted church thief recently released from prison, is the perpetrator of the recent church robberies, and detectives are trying to locate him. It is deemed probable that he either left the city yesterday or is in hiding.

ANGRY MERCHANT THROWN OUT

Jacob Asher Abuses License Inspector and is Ejected From City Hall.

J. A. MEAROW WANTED AN AUCTIONEER'S LICENSE

Intended to Sell Out Asher's Business, and When Council Committee Refused Application, Merchant Heaped Abuse on Hutchinson.

Because the license committee of the city council refused to grant J. A. Mearow a license as an auctioneer yesterday afternoon, Jacob Asher, a merchant, of 229 First street, heaped a tirade of abuse on License Inspector Hutchinson, with the result that the angry merchant was thrown from behind the counter in the license department at the city hall and Policeman Quinlan ordered the man from the building.

Mearow applied for a license as first class auctioneer. He said that he desired to go from store to store and sell goods. He had planned to sell out a stock belonging to S. Maserowski of 228 1/2 First street, who formerly had his second floor quarters in Asher's taken from him for defrauding his customers, and Jacob Asher. On inquiry the committee learned that Mearow had no regular place of business and could not be called a first class auctioneer. When the license was denied Asher began to abuse the committee.

"I must have a license; you will have to give it to me," he demanded.

"I don't see how you are going to get it," was the reply of Councilman Willis, and the meeting adjourned.

Asher then demanded of License Inspector Hutchinson a license, but the latter flatly refused. The disturbance then occurred which resulted in Asher being thrown from behind the counter and ordered out of the city hall.

The committee drafted a new ordinance for the purpose of imposing a license on all doctors who deal in the occult sciences to cure patients. Hereafter hominy, horseradish and pickle peddlers who walk from house to house and sell from a bucket will be charged $10 a quarter.

A Card From Chief Holden.

Portland, Or., March 6.—To the Editor of The Journal—I noticed in last evening's Journal, under the heading of "Weak Buildings Chief Menace," the first paragraph: "More important than fire limits and of almost as great importance as increased engine service, is the strict enforcement of building laws in the central east side district, according to Battalion Chief Lee Holden and others." Then follow several paragraphs in support of the construction of frame buildings in the warehouse district of the east side. This statement as coming from me is correct, but the rest of the article does not meet with my views on the subject at all, as I think that brick or stone should be used in all congested districts and every building should be built as near "fireproof" as it can be made, and in order to accomplish this result there must be a fire limit established, and in regard to the practicability of placing all of the central east side in the fire limits, I think it could and should be done. Hoping you will oblige me by publishing this letter, I am, yours truly,
L. G. HOLDEN,
Battalion Chief Fire Department.

TRY GRATTON AND CULLISON

They Must Face the Charge of Conducting a Handbook in Owl Saloon.

NEASE AND READY MAY BE STATE'S WITNESSES

Judge Fraser Overrules Demurrer in Which Attorneys Moody and Tarpley Asserted That Circuit Court Had No Jurisdiction.

Isaac Gratton and Jack Cullison will have to stand trial on the charge of maintaining a nuisance by conducting a branch office of the Milwaukee Country club at the Owl saloon, corner of Fifth and Alder streets. Presiding Judge Arthur L. Fraser this morning overruled the demurrer to the information filed against them. In the information filed, they are alleged to have maintained a nuisance by having a handbook kept at the Owl saloon, the agent in charge of the book having a private telephone wire connection with the Milwaukee club.

Ralph E. Moody and L. H. Tarpley, attorneys for Gratton and Cullison, filed a demurrer to the information, stating that as it had been charged that a part of the alleged nuisance was committed in Portland, which is in Multnomah county, and a part in Milwaukee, which is in Clackamas county, the local circuit court would have no power to pass upon the case. Judge Fraser said that while there might be a doubt as to whether the crime charged was divisible he was sure that the information charged that a crime had been committed in this county.

Deputy District Attorney Bert Haney, for the state, cited many authorities to show that nuisances in which two counties were affected had been tried in counties other than the one in which the nuisance originated.

FOUND SALOON BUSINESS NOT ALL PLEASANT

"Becoming disgusted with the business, your petitioners closed their saloon February 10, and will not reopen it again."

This was the unusual statement of David Peyer and C. M. McCallum in a petition to the city council. They took out a license on the first of the year to conduct a saloon at 46 North Sixth street. They did a flourishing business for a time, but they did not approve of the sort of traffic with which they had to deal and closed their doors February 10. In their petition they asked for a refund of the unearned portion of their license.

The judiciary committee considered the petition yesterday afternoon. Councilman Vaughn thought that they should forfeit the unearned portion of the license, but the other members of the committee decided otherwise and the money will be returned.

CHRISTIAN RELIGION PAYS, SAYS DR. WILSON

People Become Prosperous in Proportion as They Live According to its Principles.

Rev. Clarence True Wilson, D. D., was the leader of the noon day Lenten service in the assembly room at the chamber of commerce today. He read as his text the fourth chapter of First Timothy, eighth verse: "Godliness is profitable unto all things having the promise of life that now is and of that which is to come."

"It has been claimed that the Christian religion is the religion of the prosperous and well-to-do," said Dr. Wilson. "This is not because it makes its appeal to those only but because people become prosperous in proportion as they live according to its principles. God has promised to do great and wonderful things for us. I know of no commandment without a promise attached, and it is a statement capable of vindication that he enriches us not by legacy but by exchange."

"If we give up sin and self and worldliness, he will give us holiness, happiness and prosperity. For godliness is profitable unto all things having the promise of this life, and that promise is daily fulfilled. It is fulfilled financially; it pays to be a Christian. Socially, righteousness is the passport to the highest social circle. Politically, never before was it so marked that good men were coming to the front. Mentally, where Christianity goes, the schools and colleges flourish; the religion of Jesus maketh wise the simple. Morally, for churches are cheaper than jails; revivals do more good than court sessions and the Bible prevents more crime than other law books, and preachers exert more influence than policemen. Spiritually, for man has a spiritual nature and godliness is the only thing that satisfies it. No wonder Saint Augustine exclaimed: "Oh, God, thou hast made us for thyself and our hearts are restless until they rest in thee!"

DETECTIVE DAY WANTS BURGLARS KEPT IN JAIL

When Detective Joe Day was informed this morning that an effort was being made to secure a pardon for William Guttman, sentenced January 20, 1906, upon his plea of guilty to serve seven years in the penitentiary, he immediately telephoned a protest to Governor Chamberlain and personally called on District Attorney Manning, who signed the petition for the pardon. Governor Chamberlain telephoned from Salem to Day that he would not grant the pardon until he had given the detective a chance to tell him all the facts of the case.

"Guttman's story to the effect that he stole some articles from a former sweetheart in a spirit of revenge, and that this constituted the burglary charge upon which he was arrested is a lie, pure and simple," said Day. "Guttman is a crook and has been in jail several times. He robbed the room of a woman who lives on Union avenue. He was not personally acquainted with the woman and had never seen her. He also robbed several other rooms in Portland before his arrest.

"I understand that a sister of Guttman is making the effort to secure the pardon, and while I appreciate her feelings I do not think it safe to have such a man at large."
