MANY BAKERITES ANXIOUS TO BE SACRIFICED

While Politics Is Quiet Aspirants for Favors Number More Than Score.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Baker City, Or., March 15.—Beyond an occasional newspaper puff or street-corner discussion, politics is rather quiet in Baker's county seat at the present time. The congressional and state candidates are absent from the city at work in their own behalf, but the seekers after the county offices seem to be holding back until after the primaries are over. Only one new petition, that of F. M. Saxton, candidate for joint senator from Baker, Malheur and Harney counties, has been filed with the clerk during the last few days. Mr. Saxton is a well-known attorney of this city and will probably have no opposition in the primaries. His Republican opponent is J. N. Hart, a Baker City lawyer, and one of the late presidential electors from Oregon.

Baker county has so far furnished for the different offices, state, congressional and county, the following men, who are willing to be sacrificed at the altar of their parties: For governor, C. A. Johns, Republican; state treasurer, J. H. Aitkin, Republican; congress, J. L. Rand, W. J. Lachner, Republicans, and J. H. Graham, democrat; joint senator from Baker, Harney and Malheur counties, J. N. Hart, Republican, and F. M. Saxton, Democrat; circuit judge, eighth district, Sam White, present incumbent, and William Smith, Democrats, and M. L. Olmsted and W. G. Drowley, Republicans; representative, Walter Moore, D. W. C. Nelson, Republicans, and J. J. Daugherty, Democrat; county judge, W. W. Travillion, present incumbent, and J. B. Mosnick, Democrats, and Davis Miles, Republican; sheriff, Ed Rand, Democrat, and Jesse Snow, Republican; county clerk, A. B. Combs, present incumbent, is the only candidate; treasurer, R. R. Palmer, present incumbent, Republican, and G. Fred Johnson, Democrat.

DUNRAVEN'S COUSIN FALLS TO DEATH FROM CLIFF

Drops Two Hundred Feet Into Ocean—No Effort Made to Recover His Body.

(Journal Special Service.)

San Francisco, March 15.—Lindsay King, 25 years old, a native of West Dulwich, England, and a cousin of Lord Dunraven, fell to his death from a cliff at Point Pedro, 20 miles from this city, Saturday morning. His body has not yet been recovered. Although Coroner James Crowe of San Mateo county has been notified of the death of King, he has not visited the scene of the fatality, nor has an inquest been held. The body has been cast up by the tide and covered with debris dug from the bank by laborers on the Ocean Shore railroad.

King, like many younger sons of prominent English families, was without means. He came to this country years ago to seek his fortune. Two weeks ago he sought and found employment with a construction company building part of the Ocean Shore road. Saturday morning while working on a bank in the canyon the wind carried his coat from the limb of a tree and he reached to catch it, when he lost his balance and fell from the cliff 200 feet to the rocky shore below.

During the day the body of King lay in full view of his fellow workmen, who made no attempt to recover the body. For several hours it lay exposed to the sun on the beach. The rising tide finally carried the body out for some hours and it was tossed to and fro by breakers, and finally thrown back on the beach at the foot of the cliff, where it still lies covered by sand.

KLAMATH COUNTY TOWN STRUCK BY BIG BOOM

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Klamath Falls, Or., March 15.—With the coming of the ditch contractors, Mason, Davis & Co., of Portland, real estate in Klamath county has become very active, particularly the farm lands. The boom has somewhat subsided in Klamath Falls, but it has just begun in Merrill, a town of about 500 people, 22 miles from the falls. Property in Merrill has more than doubled in value during the winter. Many new buildings are planned, which will be constructed just as soon as lumber can be had. At the present time there is not a stick of lumber to be had in that town. A new sawmill with a capacity of 50,000 feet a day is one of the many things that is to locate in Merrill this spring.

Merrill has great hopes of getting the McCloud Railway company to extend its line into the town. The Weed, or California & Northwestern railway, is not expected to come any nearer than ten miles from Merrill.

Echo, Or., March 15.—Last night 20 gamblers were driven out of this place and are said to have gone on toward Umatilla. They were for the most part transient men who have been here for some time past, attracted by the pay-roll from work on the Furnish ditch.
