German Bluff Called.

Like masterful generals covering up their retreat, the German papers, which a few months ago told their readers how Germany was going to humiliate France and her new friend and ally, Great Britain, are new using all their ingenuity to conceal the fact that the kaiser's bluff in Morocco has been called and that Germany has suffered a great defeat in Algerias.

They try to prove that only their love of peace and the most altruistic generosity have been the motives in the German policy at the conference. That the fact that Germany stood ab-solutely alone without a friend, should have had anything to do with her change of front, is indignatily denied and the assertion of an English paper that Germany is financially unable to conduct a war has also aroused their anger.

A Berlin paper, which is known often
to voice the kaiser's personal opinions, says concerning this:
"Recent official statistics show that

Germany at present possesses sixteen billions of foreign bonds, principally Japanese, Argentine, Brazilian, Span-ish, Portuguese and Turkish. The amount of this is about four times the indemnity paid to us by France after the Franco-Prussian war.
"In case of war we would immediately throw these bonds on the market in London, Paris and New York. We would probably lose about two million marks by doing so, but our enemies would lose far more, and a general panic would be the immediate result. "Germany is financially better prepared for war than any other country.

And there are probably those wh really believe this Kaiser's Love for America.

Once more the kaiser has shown his love for the American people. That the people of the United States having the people of the United States having been unfortunate enough to have been born in a country that he is prevented from visiting shall not be deprived of the pleasure of listening to his volce, he has graciously made a speech or a sermon.
