WEATHER REPORT.

All reports east of the Rocky mountains are missing this morning. The barometer is rising on the Pacific slope, and the weather is becoming more settled. Showers have, however, occurred at scattered places in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, California, southern Nevada and Arizona, and it was still raining this morning in most places east of the Cascade mountains.

The indications are for fair weather in this district Wednesday, except in western Washington, where showers are probable. It will be cooler tonight and warmer Wednesday in eastern Oregon, eastern Washington and Idaho. Light frost will occur tonight in exposed places in the interior of western Oregon and western Washington.
