New Commercial Club Quarters to Occupy Two Stories and to Be Fitted at Cost of Fifty Thousand.

MEMBERS GIVE FREELY TO FIREMEN'S FUND

Subscription List Grows to Big Proportions in a Day—Many Messages of Sympathy Received From Clubs and Railroad Men Throughout the Land.

From the ruins of the former quarters of the Commercial club are to rise the finest club rooms west of Chicago.

The rooms of the Commercial club, located in the eighth story of the Chamber of Commerce building, were destroyed by fire Friday afternoon.

Mr. Leadbetter said that as yet no definite plans had been made for a new home for the club.

Mr. Leadbetter, however, declares that in selecting the site there is no need of unusual haste.

Generous contributions have been made for the firemen's benefit fund, not only by various citizens of Portland, but by numerous members of the Commercial club.

Pioneer Episcopalian Finishes His Great Work After Ministerial Career of Sixty Years—Second Oldest Bishop of His Church.

Bishop Benjamin Wistar Morris, for 55 years missionary bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church in Oregon, died at his residence, 435 Everett street, in this city last night.

His father was Hon. Samuel Morris and his grandfather was Captain Samuel Morris, captain of the first city troop of Philadelphia in the revolutionary war.

Bishop Morris was born in Philadelphia in 1844, and received the degree of a B. D. from Columbia and the University of Pennsylvania in 1868.

His father was Hon. Samuel Morris and his grandfather was Captain Samuel Morris, captain of the first city troop of Philadelphia in the revolutionary war.

When he first came to Oregon in 1868 the missionary work of the church in this field was in a very primitive condition.

It was by some accident about the establishment of the Good Samaritan hospital, and in the work of this institution he has centered his whole heart and soul since it was built.

He was the author of a book known as "Protestantism, Baptism and Methodism: Testimony to Confirmation," a volume of missionary reports and sermons which were published in 1890.
