

ESCAPED LUNATIC IS CAPTURED

J. Broderick, Who Fled From Mount Tabor Sanatorium, Found in Seattle.

BRITISH DEVELOPMENT SOCIETY ASSISTED HIM

Was Trusty When He Left Institution and Represented Himself as English Subject in Distress to the Portland Organisation.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Seattle, Wash., April 14.—J. Broderick, an escaped lunatic from Mount Tabor sanatorium, Crystal Springs, Oregon, was arrested on the water front here this morning, handcuffed and taken to the city jail. He was located by J. W. McClelland, an attendant at the asylum who had been sent to Seattle to look for him. Broderick protested against his arrest, but made no forcible resistance. According to the story told by McClelland, Broderick, who is a fisherman, becomes violent at times, and at such times is apt to do great injury to himself and others. For that reason it is necessary to keep a close watch on him.

McClelland says Broderick claims to be a British subject and when he escaped he made his way to Portland. There he called upon the officers of the British Benevolent association and told them the story of his escape and they advanced him sufficient funds to make his way to Seattle and across the Canadian border.

From Dr. Gillespie of the Mount Tabor nervous sanatorium it is learned that Broderick escaped Thursday afternoon. He suffered from religious hallucinations and became violent at times the doctor states that he never attempted to harm himself or others. He was brought here from Valdez, Alaska, and had been at the sanatorium about seven months.

"I had him about cured," said the doctor, "and would have released him in a few weeks, but he took advantage of the fact that he was made a trusty and disappeared. The government holds us responsible for these matters and when I learned that he had taken the train for Seattle yesterday afternoon I immediately sent one of our men after him. Broderick got his transportation by representing himself to be a British subject in distress and making an appeal to the British Benevolent association of Portland. The association, I learn, did not know he had escaped from a sanatorium. They did not know he had even been there."

MILLIONS OF GOLD FOR BANKS IN NEED

Secretary Shaw Announces Collateral Security Will Be Accepted From Borrowers.

New York, April 14.—Secretary Shaw of the treasury announced that sub-treasuries will advance gold in any amount up to $5,000,000 for each bank to gold-importing institutions that will deposit with the sub-treasury acceptable collateral security. This collateral will be held as good and sufficient security for the gold advanced for such time as may be required to secure imported gold to replenish the bank's reserve. As soon as the imported gold is received the amount advanced by the sub-treasury must be returned to it immediately.

Local bankers state that the above announcement applies only to gold importing banks and the money advanced upon collateral security is merely a temporary loan to relieve stringencies pending the arrival of foreign gold previously imported.

"The announcement simply means," said J. Thorburn Ross of the Title Guarantee & Trust company, "that banks importing gold may go to the sub-treasury with acceptable collateral and secure a temporary loan of any amount of gold up to $5,000,000 upon this security. I take it from the nature of Secretary Shaw's announcement that these advances can be secured only if collateral gold has been ordered but failed to arrive. It is undoubtedly only a relief offered for money stringency in such instances of temporary shortage."

AMERICAN MALTREATED IN MEXICAN PRISON

Twelve Years of Horror Spent in Dungeon by Superintendent of Electric Plant.

El Paso, Tex., April 14.—Declaring that he spent 12 years in a Mexican jail at Torreón, John Humphreys, formerly of Corsicana, Texas, reached here today a human wreck. He was a strong, robust man of 24 years of age when arrested, and is now barely able to walk. He was sentenced because of four men killed by an electric power wire from a plant of which he was superintendent, and declares that he slept on the arched floor in the same cell for 12 years without clothing, when his own had been worn to rags, without bedding and without seeing a soul to whom he could speak English.

He declares that he was only half fed, allowed no reading matter, could appeal to no relatives, as they were all dead, and to keep from going mad devised a game with matches and cigarettes to distract his attention from his plight. He has been nursed from the jail when released and brought to the border by sympathetic railroad men. Americans here will draw the attention of the state department to the case.

ACTRESS HALTS PLAY UNTIL CONTRACT IS SIGNED

Margaret Anglin Strikes at End of Second Act and Holds Audience an Hour.

(Journal Special Service.)
Chicago, April 13.—It was long after midnight when Margaret Anglin finished the premier production of William Vaughn Moody's new play, "A Sabine Woman," at the Garrick theatre. At the end of the second act Miss Anglin refused to go on with the production until her future rights in the play were safeguarded by a written contract. Lawyers were summoned to the stage and before the matter was satisfactorily adjusted there was a wait of nearly an hour, the audience meantime manifesting its impatience in no uncertain way. Both the playwright and the star issued statements tonight saying that the interruption was due to a misunderstanding and that they are now at peace. Of the play itself the local critics are agreed that it has possibilities of great things.

WILL SEEK RELIEF THROUGH MR. SMITH

How Between Multnomah County Sentimental Candidates Now Assure His Nomination.

The exchanges from the interior counties continue to indicate strongly that Hon. E. L. Smith will lead all of the candidates for the nomination for United States senator. The sentiment seems to be universal that as long as Portland is divided between her own candidates that the country cannot be reasonably expected to take a part in that contest. The exchanges from the interior think that Mr. Smith ought to be acceptable to the Portland people, as his energies have for many years been directed in favor of the large enterprises beneficial to the country. He is a man to be depended on to represent the whole state and not merely an special interest thereof. Surely there can be no doubt that Oregon needs just such a man as that. The country and the metropolis rightly considered have no conflicting interest. What is beneficial to one is beneficial to the other.

An open Columbia helps Portland, but it helps the whole tributary country. Every agricultural interest, the vast enterprises of irrigating the arid lands and making them productive are all of the highest importance to Portland's commerce. Indeed, Portland's supremacy as the metropolis of the northwest is assured only by virtue of the productivity and industries of her tributary Oregon empire.

No better exemplified by his conduct his thorough appreciation of this larger view of Portland's welfare and greatness. Can any other candidate so well answer these requirements as Mr. Smith?
The editor of the Times-Herald, published at Burns, Harney county, as early as March 24 predicted the election of Mr. Smith. In an editorial of that date the Times-Herald says:
"The decision of E. L. Smith, the prominent Hood River fruit man, to enter the race for United States senator seems to have struck terror to the hearts of the Portland machine men, who consider the senatorship their special and exclusive plum. Senator Geavin, the present incumbent, will have no opposition among the Democrats for the nomination, while it appears that every faction of the Republican party has a candidate. 'Hood River' Smith doesn't seem to belong to any of these factions, therefore will likely carry the independent vote of his party, which may be sufficient to make him the choice—hence these tears."

INVENTOR IS BLOWN UP BY HIS OWN EXPLOSIVE

Professor Wurtenberger Fatally Injured in Perfecting Million-Dollar Product.

(Journal Special Service.)
New York, April 14.—While experimenting in his laboratory at East Chester yesterday, Professor Wurtenberger, inventor of a marvelous new explosive, said to be 20 times more powerful than dynamite, was fatally injured by an explosion. The unfortunate scientist was taken to Mount Vernon hospital.

On account of the dangerous nature of the experiments the laboratory is located in a desolate place in the salt meadows near East Chester. The inventor was alone when the explosion occurred and it was an hour before his plight was discovered. It is understood Professor Wurtenberger was engaged in perfecting his invention so that the explosive could be set off by electricity, instead of a fuse. When perfected his invention would have been sold to the United States government for $1,000,000.

TO PREVENT PASSAGE OF EXCLUSION LAWS

(Journal Special Service.)
Washington, April 14.—Strong influences are at work in the house of representatives to prevent the passage of any Chinese exclusion legislation. The bill is proposed to report providing for the inspection of immigrants in China is not particularly objectionable to western men, but they would rather not have any legislation whatever. House and congressional committee leaders have been told that if the exclusion matter was let alone, the west was likely to send a solid Republican delegation to the sixtieth congress, but that if the legislation is passed the labor leaders may become agitated, with results that some Republican congressional candidates will be defeated. The warning is being digested by the Republican leaders.

built and paid for on terms that would not be any burden whatever to the taxpayer and would then yield a steady revenue that could be devoted to maintenance of the bridge and boulevards connecting with it on both sides of the river.
It has been estimated that, owing to great expense of construction and maintenance of 4,000 feet of approaches to the proposed upper deck on the Portland & Seattle bridge, the city and county would bring the cost up to a sum that would require annual payment by the public of $20,000 a year to cover interest on the investment.

WILD STALLION ON FRONT PORCH

Mrs. K. A. J. Mackenzie Badly Frightened by Visit From Unwelcome Beast.

MALL SON ALMOST TRAMPLED BY HOOFS

Horse Escapes From Keeper, Who Was Exercising Him, by Jerking Leash, Bolts Through Gate and Tries to Get Into House.

Jerking its leash out of the hand of its keeper yesterday, a huge stallion, which was being exercised on North Twentieth street, bolted through the gate of Dr. Kenneth A. J. Mackenzie's yard at Hoyt street, climbed the front steps of the house and frightened Mrs. Mackenzie almost into hysterics by walking around on the porch and trying to thrust the door and windows open with its head.

Playing in the front yard when the brute made its entrance was Dr. Mackenzie's little boy, who narrowly missed being trampled under its iron-shod hoofs. Mrs. Mackenzie screamed to the lad, who ran to the rear of the house and saved himself from harm by entering by the back door.

The keeper of the horse hastened after the animal and caught it while it was trying to get into the house. The steps and porch were considerably defaced by its hoofs.

Mrs. Mackenzie called Patrolman Alden after the occurrence and informed him that every day stallions are taken from nearby stables and exercised on North Twentieth street in view of the performance which she had just witnessed and the hairbreadth escape of the child from death or injury. She asked that the stables be required to use some other thoroughfare.

A report was handed Chief Grismacher by Alden. The policeman was instructed this morning by the chief to notify the proprietors of the stables to exercise their animals where they will not be likely to harm anybody if they should get loose, and to take precaution to prevent them from getting away from their keepers.

TRIES TO CHECK BABY AS PIECE OF BAGGAGE

(Journal Special Service.)
Milwaukee, Wis., April 14.—Baggage-master Runyon of the union station has made another enemy for the railroads, but established the rule that babies cannot be checked as baggage. A young woman asked him to check a baby carriage to an interior town. As he was lifting the carriage into the car, he discovered that it contained a big dimpled baby fast asleep.

"Here, here, this won't do," he called to the woman. "Come get your baby." "Oh, he'll be all right. He has just been fed and won't wake up for an hour," answered the woman.

"We don't check babies as baggage. You'll have to carry him," retorted the baggage-master.

"Well, I think you and your old railroad are hateful things," she snapped, but she carried the baby.
