J. J. Collins must place in evidence before the federal grand jury all books, before the federal grand jury all books, records and other documents of the firm of Duggan & Co. Judge Wolver-ton so decided in the federal court this morning. The decision states in substance that Collins must, produce the books before 11 o'clock tomorrow morning and pay all costs of the action brought by United States District At-torney Bristol to secure them and doc-uments as evidence.

brought by United States District At-torney Bristol to secure them and doc-uments as evidence. Collins is a member of the firm of Duggan & Co. and is one of the wit-nesses subpoenaed to appear before the present grand jury, which some time ago issued a warrant for him to testify and bring with him as evidence the books of Duggan & Co. Collins ap-peared before that body, but falled to produce the books, and refused to do so when asked by Mr. Bristol. The dis-trict attorney then brought action. Collins demurred on the ground that the evidence would have a tendency to incriminate himself and that it would therefore be outside the jurisdiction of the court. Mr. Bristol, assisted by At-torneys Curl and Kelly of Abany, held that the suit was not against Collins and that even if it were there would be no way' to ascertain whether the documents would incriminate him until they were placed in evidence. It was also contended by Mr. Bristol that oth-ers would be shielded if Collins were not obliged to produce the books. Mr. Bristol asked for an early decision, in order that the grand jury work might not be delayed. Judge Wolverton took the case under advisement yesterday afternoon at 4
