Mrs. Orlena Murray, a member of one of Oregon's oldest families, died Thursday night in Portland after an illness of several months. She was born in Illinois 71 years ago, and was the daughter of W. L. and M. A. Cardwell. She accompanied her parents to Portland in Corof W. L. and M. A. Cardwell. She accompanied her parents to Portland in 1852. The family first settled in Corvallis, but came to Portland in 1858, where Mrs. Murray resided continuously. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. L. C. Chaimers; a sister, Mrs. M. A. Dalton, and three brothers—Drs. J. R., R. H. and C. H. Cardwell. Another brother, the late Byron Cardwell, died in this city three years ago. For many years Mrs. Murray was prominent in charitable work. She was greatly interested in the annual gathering of the Oregon pioneers, in which she was a moving spirit.

A formal debute took place in room 21 in the Ladd school Friday afternoon between two high school classes—Mr. Hover's and Miss Gladdis. The subject debated was selected from Eliot's "Slias Marner." The judges were Miss Gaddis, Mr. Hover, Mr. Grout and a pupil teacher of the Ladd school. The debate proved a victory for the Gaddis debaters. The debaters were C. James, R. Bain, S. Johnson, Miss R. Potter, from Miss Gaddis' class; Miss E. Wallace, Miss E. Quilliam, Miss C. Oakes, Miss R. Stohes from Mr. Hoover's class.

Everything is being put in readiness for active operations and the United States engineers' department declared this morning that the date set for the work to start would see the machinery in full blast. The tugs which will be used for towing barges from the quarry are the Hercules and Samson. As soon as arrangements can be completed other vessels will be engaged and the work rushed with all possible dispatch. The engineers say they are determined to make as fine a

On Tuesday the government snagboat Mathlema will be placed in service on the upper Willamette improving the channel. She will be kept in service all summer and by fall the United States engineers are of the opinion that the river will be in better condition than it has ever been. The Mathlema has been rebuilt since last season and is capable of doing more work than heretofore. She is considerably larger than the boat bearing that same which was formerly employed in making improvements to the channel of the upper Willamette. The first work she will perform will be at some point above Salem.

Beginning about May 1, the dredge Wallowa will be put to work improving the channel of the Snake river. A sufficient amount of money is on hand to keep both vessels running until late next fall.
