

ELDER AS SHE LIES TODAY

The Steamer George W. Elder.—By a Journal Staff Photographer.

If the hopes of contractors are realized, the steamer George W. Elder will be raised Saturday from the rock in the Columbia river near Reuben, which has held her for 17 months. The old vessel will be towed into

Portland, where she will be placed in drydock for repair. A great wall of concrete has been built on the inside of the hold around the rock which pierces her side, making the steamer absolutely water-tight. Canvas sides have been placed on her to keep out the water while pumps are driving the water from her deck. Those in charge of the work are positive the vessel will be raised and eventually will resume the run she had for 32 years.

WILL TERRACE HEIGHTS

Mayor Lane Favors Calling Meeting of Interested Parties to Plan City Beautiful.

Mayor Lane is preparing to call a meeting of the Initiative One Hundred, the Portland Rose society, the city council, the executive committees of the Portland commercial and promoting organizations and interested property-owners for the purpose of discussing plans for terracing and building a system of boulevards on the heights in the western sections of the city. When the meeting will be held is not known, but the mayor said this morning that he would issue any call which would be the means of bringing about a plan to beautify the city. The mayor has no plan to pursue in carrying out his idea of terraces and boulevards, over which he is an enthusiast, but he believes that some plan can be found which, if adopted, would be of great benefit to the city. One of the greatest barriers in the way of terracing the heights is that in the division and replating of the property which would be necessary to carry out his idea, many property-owners would object, it is thought, fearing they would not receive benefits to remunerate them for the expense and the trouble. It is apparent that many of the opponents to the scheme would have to be forced into line by action of the authorities, thus bringing about legal complications. "Its scenic beauty is one of Portland's greatest assets and Portlanders should take advantage of it," says the mayor. "This city could be made one of the most beautiful cities in the country if the heights were terraced and wound around by drives and boulevards. It would not cost so much to do the terracing and make the boulevards as it would to make deep cuts and fills which spoil the natural contour of the landscape; besides it would enhance the value of property greatly. "I am willing to call a meeting of interested parties or do anything else if we can get the people of Portland interested in the matter. They do not seem to grasp the opportunity offered for making the city famous. They will wake up some day and realize what opportunities they have let slip through their grasp if they do not stir themselves and go all in their power to make the city beautiful."

SUPREME COURT ENDS PENDLETON SESSION

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Pendleton, Or., May 10.—After a three-day session, the supreme court adjourned in this city last evening, all the cases on the docket being disposed of. Among the cases argued yesterday afternoon was that of W. P. Reeder against the state, in which the constitutionality of the sheep tax law is involved. The case for the state was argued by District Attorney Phelps, while H. C. Bryson of Walla Walla appeared for the other side. Other cases argued and submitted were: A. P. Mann against Parker and others; Mining & Smelting Supply company against the Columbia Gold Mining company; Bridget Kane against Dave Littlefield and others; W. D. Huffman against Fannie E. Huffman; William Hanley against J. D. Combs. The latter case was submitted and transferred to Salem.

COUNCILMEN DEPOSED FOR NON-ATTENDANCE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Joseph, Or., May 10.—The common council of Joseph at its regular meeting for May declared the seats of Councilmen Rankin and McCully vacant for non-attendance, and selected for the vacancies thus created A. A. Wrasweller and Daniel Warnock. A telephone franchise was also granted to the Vergara telephone company, an independent company operating in Walla Walla and Union counties, for a period of 24 years.

RAILROAD EMPLOYES BRIBED BY TRUST TO CRUSH COMPETITION

(Journal Special Service.) Chicago, May 10.—The government had a rod in pickle for the Standard Oil company when the investigation into rebates and other methods was taken up here. It was learned last night the witnesses have been secured who are in a position to tell, giving all the necessary data as to dates, amounts, etc., of how the Standard Oil company engaged in the wholesale bribery of railroad employes in order to crush out independents.

This man was employed by Manager Mayor of Kansas City, who has charge of the tremendous distribution stations in Kansas and Missouri. It is said he was entrusted with the work of buying up information from railroad employes, who told of orders received by the independents, of their plans for shipments in advance and various other details, so that the Standard company was in a position at any moment to take such steps as were necessary to crush or hopelessly cripple a small adversary.

ATTACKS SURVEY OF C. V. LINE

Charges That Grade is Filled With Curves That Prevents Building Modern Road.

BUT THREE WITNESSES EXAMINED YESTERDAY

Counsel for the Columbia Valley Insists, However, That When Business Demands, Objectionable Features Can Be Eliminated.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Vancouver, Wash., May 10.—The case of the Portland & Seattle Railway company against the Columbia Valley Railway company to compel the latter to give up certain rights of way on the ground that the latter company has never intended to build a railroad down the north bank of the Columbia river, still drags on before Superior Judge W. W. McCredie here. Yesterday only two witnesses were examined, the third being on the stand when court adjourned to meet again at 10 a. m. today. The cross-examination of Senator E. M. Randa, secretary of the Columbia Valley, was not finished until after noon. Nothing more of special interest was brought out by his testimony yesterday. The main point brought out by James B. Kerr, counsel for the Portland & Seattle yesterday, was that the survey of the Columbia Valley road would not admit of the construction of a modern railway to be equipped with the existing heavy rolling stock in use. It was shown that the survey was full of eight and ten per cent curves, while the Portland & Seattle road has no curves over three per cent. It will be argued by the Portland & Seattle counsel that it will be impracticable for the Columbia Valley to build a road according to the present survey and operate heavy trains over it. Martin L. Pipe, for the Columbia Valley, said yesterday that owing to the small traffic expected it was not the idea of the company to build such an expensive road as the Portland & Seattle. He said the road could be straightened out later. J. Couch Flanders took the stand in behalf of the Portland & Seattle. Following him came P. L. Wise, chief engineer of the Columbia Valley. When court adjourned he was still on the witness stand. This morning his cross-examination was resumed at 10 o'clock.

MEMORIAL FEAST IS HELD BY THE UMATILLAS

Ancient Custom Observed at the Home of the Late Black Elk Where All Assemble.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Pendleton, Or., May 10.—On the Umatilla reservation an ancient custom among the Umatillas has just been observed at the home of the late Black Elk, the favorite horse, and when the beautiful regalia of the deceased, which had been kept in the family for generations, and which the Indian would not part with for a small fortune. He rode Black Elk's favorite horse, and when he appeared the Indians all made loud and sorrowful manifestations of grief. Black Elk had been married twice, being divorced from his first wife. His second wife gave the feast, but was assisted throughout by her predecessor. Black Elk left a son by his first wife and to him the lawful widow presented the priceless regalia which descends from father to son.

To the assembled Indians the widow gave away all her late husband's property except a few blankets and kitchen utensils. The gifts were of every kind and character, including horses, saddles, blankets, furniture, provisions, etc., and many of them were newly purchased for the occasion. The value placed on them was not less than $500, and the widow is left with but few possessions. She is a well-educated Indian woman, being able to read, speak and write the English language with ease. Many delicacies were served and more than $200 was spent on the feast alone. At the conclusion of the banquet eloquent eulogies were delivered by Chief Towata, Small Hawk, Peter Kalliten and Kackameh.

WHITMAN NOMINATES FOR STUDENT OFFICERS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., May 10.—A special meeting of the associated students was held yesterday for the purpose of nominating student officers for the coming year. The following nominations were made: For president, Gaius Greenblade, '07; for academy vice-president, Ralph Dimick; for second vice-president, to be filled by a girl, Miss Lillian Merrill, '07; and Miss Eteldice Paddock, '08; for secretary, Harry Davenport, '08; Thomas Dutcher, '09; Joe Allen, '07 and Walter Ellis, '08. Allen declined to run. For graduate trustees were made but one nomination, P. M. Winans, '04, who has served the association so satisfactorily for several years. The election will take place one week from today. Until that time there will probably be considerable doing in a political way, as there is likely to be a big contest over the girls' vice-presidency and the secretaryship.

REV. LEWTON GETS RELIEF

Properly Fitted Glasses by D. Chambers Was All That Was Necessary to Correct His Vision.

The character of the man or woman behind a testimonial is what gives it its worth. Recommendations from people of standing are the foundation stones upon which the superstructure of a business or professional reputation is built. A pioneer of unquestioned respectability, whose life has brightened the pages of Oregon history with many a kind and generous deed is the Rev. J. T. Lewton, a Methodist divine of this city. For years he has made his home in this community, giving the best of his life to the service of his church. It has been a matter of regret to his many friends, and they were legion, that his eye sight should be so poor. It was a serious handicap in his work, so much so that he felt it necessary to consult specialists at different times in the hope of getting relief. Only recently, as the following letter from him indicates, did he receive the peculiar aid in the way of glasses that was necessary in his case:

PORTLAND, OR., Jan. 1, 1906. D. Chambers, 129 Seventh street, City: Dear Sir—I am not in the habit of giving testimonials, but nevertheless feel desirous of expressing to you my sincere thanks for the glasses recently fitted to my eyes, they giving well-nigh perfect vision to the left eye, which had been twice operated on for cataract, and which had been practically blind. Respectfully yours, REV. J. T. LEWTON, 421 Twelfth street.

KILL DOG; SHOOT AT MASTER

Drunken Marauders Create a Reign of Terror Along Sandy Road.

COMPLAINTS POUR INTO POLICE HEADQUARTERS

When His Dog Is Shot Frank Sesters Demands Explanation and Two Bullets Are Fired at Him by Men in Buggy.

When his dog was shot dead by two men who rode past his home in a buggy last night, Frank Sesters ran out to take them to task for the deed and was shot at twice by the marauders, the bullets whizzing past his head and imbedding themselves in the wall of his house. The two ruffians are said to have caused a reign of terror last night along the Sandy road several complaints being telephoned to police headquarters. A number of policemen were sent out to try to apprehend them, but the guilty persons made their escape. A clue has been obtained by attorney Bro-nough. He heard the dog bark and then the sharp crack of a revolver. Running out of his house to see what was the trouble, Mr. Sesters perceived his dog crawling to the house; it gave up the struggle to reach its master just as he appeared on the scene. Looking up, Mr. Sesters saw the buggy, with two men occupying the seat. One held a revolver in his hand. "What did you shoot my dog for?" demanded Mr. Sesters, as he walked toward the buggy. Jerking out an oath the man who held the revolver raised it and pointed it at him. Instinctively Sesters stopped. As he did so the man jumped forward and the man fired twice. Both bullets were afterward found to have struck the house. The two men then drove rapidly away along the Sandy road, firing in the air as they traveled. Sesters notified the police by telephone of what had happened and men were sent out to investigate. Shortly afterward came other complaints. Promiscuous discharging of a revolver by two men in a buggy, who are shown by description to have been the same that killed Mr. Sesters' dog and fired to murther him, was reported by J. Merrill, who lives not far from the scene. The police have ascertained that two employes of a butcher firm drove out on the Sandy road in a light wagon or buggy about the same time that the shooting occurred. They are said to have been under the influence of liquor. A man named Simon informed the police of two other men who were supposed to go to Linton but did not do so, and are believed to have driven out on the Sandy road. They answer generally the same description as the other men, but are not suspected of the crime. Detectives are working on the case.
