Wealthy Father He Gets Into Serious Trouble.

ALLEGED TO HAVE PASSED BAD CHECKS

When Arrested He Breaks Down and Begs to Be Allowed to Remain in Hotel Guarded by Policeman, but Goes to Jail.

Left to his own resources by his father, a wealthy resident of Missoula, Montana, W. G. Mills faces a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses, preferred by R. W. Gilliland of the Oriental-American company. Mills is alleged to have secured money by uttering worthless checks on the First National bank of Missoula. The complaint against him was drafted this morning by Ernest Brand, representing the district attorney, and Mills bond was fixed at $1,000. He was arraigned before Police Judge Caméron, but requested time in which to secure counsel and enter his ples.

When Mills was arrested last night he begged to be allowed to stay in his room at the Hotel Oregon, under the espionage of a policeman, but there were no men to spare and he had to occupy a cell at the city prison.

Five worthless checks were exhibited this morning by Gilliland, the aggregate amount secured on them being phout $700. The specific charge is that this morning by Gilliland, the aggregate amount secured on them being about $7:00. The specific charge is that Mills secured $55 on a check on the First National bank of Missoula, drawn in favor of Gilliland and Indorsed to E. Byrne, who let Gilliland have the money to give Mills.

"I met this man about six months ago, the introduction being by a common friend," said Gilliland. "He secured my confidence, seeming to be a good fellow. About two weeks ago I discovered that the checks were worth-covered that the checks were worthlask as the bank at Missoula returned them, marked 'protested.' I could get no satisfaction from Mills and wrote his father two or three times. Securing no reply to my letters I had him agrested. That is all there is to it."

Investigation, the authorities asy, shows that Mills pursued the same methods in Montane and was sent to the coast by his father in the hope of reforming him. He is said to be addicted to wine dinners, automobile rides and other expensive forms of recreation. When he runs out of money he obtains it from his associates by uttering worthless checks, it is alleged.

The old saying of water in the milk will then be a reality.

The destruction of San Francisco caused many changes in the markets, chief among them being the stoppage of the large supplies of fish which the trade here usually secures from the source. This is causing considerable scarcity in some lines here. There is hardly a time in the year when the markets are not, supplied with salt, water smelt. This is the first period for many years when that condition has been byought about, and those who like the taste of the slim little fish are doomed to disappointment for a time at least. There are, however, some fairly good supplies of frozen Columbia first year when the freezing of this fish proved a success, and supplies are not as great as they will be in future seasons. In the retail market today and their prices at retail are. Shad, 5 cents, a pound: perch, sole, flounders and They will soon be cheaper.

The vegetables markets are now assuming their usual summer look. Today there is displayed almost everything that could be asked for. There

EAT MEAT THAT IS MEAT!

Lent*is over. Buy good MEAT—we sell it. Not the juiceless, tasteless kind, but the rich, strengthening, nutritious meats which have made these stores famous. There are a very few firms in this city who have the choicest pickings of cattle in the meat houses and we are one of the favored class. First we choose, then some other real good butchers, then the rest of them. Of course it's the heavy cattle we select—they're the best—cost more—scarcer. Buy the best this time and pay less.
