SPOKANE TRIP RESULTS IN CALLING OF MEETING

Representatives of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana Asked to Meet in Spokane on October 2

"The Spirit of Spokane" is the topic Oregonian, and Charles E. Ladd of Ladd of enthusiastic conversation of a dozen or more of Portland's leading business "Spirit of Spokane." men today as the result of the trip of the executive committee of the Port-land Commercial club, with a number of members, to the eastern Washington The party returned this morning and each member is singing the praises of the spirit that has made Spokane one of the most progressive and thriving cities in the west.

The party left Portland Friday evening over the O. R. & N. and were the guests until yesterday of the publicity committee of the Spokane chamber of commerce. The chief object of the trip was to discuss ways and means of best exploiting the resources and advantages of the northwestern states. In that connection it was proposed to establish closer relations, socially and in a business way, between not only Spokane and Portland, but between all the towns within the territory tributary to the Columbia river, as well as those in west-ern Oregon and on Puget sound.

The result of the trip was the calling of a meeting of representatives of the four northwestern states to be held in Spokane, October 2. Delegates from practically every town in the states of oregon, Washington, Idaho and Mon-ana will attend. The meeting will be seld during the annual meeting of the ruit fair in Spokane and will be an im-

The prizes are well worth winning. The first is a deposit of $20 in a savings bank to the credit of the boy or girl under six years old who is declared the handsomest; to three others beautiful silver mugs will be given.

One thing has been clearly proved in this contest, and that is that the parents of the prettiest children in Oregon and Washington do not seem to care so much to get the valuable prizes as they do to have their babies recognized as the prettiest in the two states. The prices, though, everyone knows are worth winning—a deposit in a savings bank of $20 to the credit of the prettiest babe, and beautiful silver cups for three others. No child under 6 years old is barred. If you think yours is the prettiest send a picture, with the name and age of the babe and the address of the parents on the back.

Till June 30 every mother in Oregon and Washington will be given the chance to prove conclusively that her baby is the prettiest. A committee of competent judges will study each picture sent in and pass judgment on it fairly and unflinchingly. All you have to do is to send in your baby's picture before June 30 to the Baby Contest editor of The Sunday Journal, with the name and age of the child and the parents' address. All children under 6 years are eligible.

The pictures of some of the pretty babies in Oregon and Washington will be printed in next Sunday's Journal.

S. T. Lockwood Declares It Rains There About as Much as in Portland.

STREETS SPOKEN OF AS VERY DISGRACEFUL

Refuse and Filth on Every Side-Water Does Not Drain Off Streets -Local Option Movement Is Successful There.

S. T. Lockwood of the Northwest

Mutual Life Insurance company has just returned from southern California, where he spent the past eight months with his wife, who was in search of health. Most of the time was spent in Los Angeles, and though he is enthusiastic over the rapid growth of that city, Mr. Lockwood has returned a more confirmed Portlander than ever.

"Anyone entering the city of Los Angeles," he said, "will be immediately struck with its rapid and remarkable growth. Portland too, is growing rapidly, but Los Angeles seems to have about two years start of it. Much eastern capital is being invested there by tourists, and Los Angeles' stock in trade is its climate. But in reality the difference between her climate and ours exists mostly in printers ink. During February and March it rained more steadily in Los Angeles than I have ever seen it rain here. Considering the climate the whole year around, I should rather by far live in Portland.

"Los Angeles would be a beautiful city if it were not for the streets. They are a disagreeable surprise in a city of its size. The mud is deeper and stickler than I have ever seen in Portland, and there is so much filth and refuse about that a 'city beautiful' movement would not be out of place. It is a disgreeable that is felt by the citizens, yet nothing not be out of place. It is a disgrece that is felt by the citizens, yet nothing is done. The streets are often so flooded that a woman has to hail a carriage to take her across the street.

"Any visitor entering the city will be struck at once with the keen civic pride. You cannot enter into conversation with anyone for more than five minutes with-out hearing Los Angeles and its superi-ority mentioned. Everyone is talking and writing Los Angeles, and this is the source of its prosperity. They claim that they have gained 50,000 in population since the San Francisco disaster. The saloon problem is an interesting element in the city's growth. The statute limits the number of saloons in the city to 200, and before a saloon can be opened a petition signed by a large per-centage of the residents of that vicinity must be presented and due notice given. must be presented and due notice given.

The time is improved by the opponents in getting up a counter petition, and so saloons are very seidom seen in the suburbs or residence portions. Dr. Chapmam a Congregational minister there, who was formerly a lawyer, has done most effective work in this line. There is a high license, and though vice is doubtless as plentiful as in Portland, it is more hidden away and appears more respectable. The strong local option movement, which has been in exitaence there for many years has had its effect."
