

JOHN D. WEAR GARNEW WIG

Oil Magnate in Most Cheerful Mood at Sailing — Followed to Europe by Three Reporters of New York Papers.

(Journal Special Service.)
New York, June 1.—John D. Rockefeller sailed for Europe yesterday and his going was marked by several unusual things which he did. One was to pose for the newspaper photographers. He talked freely to the reporters, giving them a lot of advice, and he also told a confidential representative in the oil business to "cheer up."
Wearing a golf cap, Mr. Rockefeller created great surprise by mixing generally with everybody on board the boat, getting acquainted and shaking hands at every opportunity. He wore a new wig and an old suit of clothes.
Because he was followed by three reporters, who were ordered to keep close to him during all the time he is absent, Mr. Rockefeller abandoned his modest stateroom and engaged a suite de luxe at a cost of $1,150 for the trip. His meals will be served in his own apartments.
One of the reporters, who arrived too

"I like your perseverance," said Mr. Rockefeller, "and in recognition of it I will send you up to my daughter's house with my valet, who will tell her to give you one of my best photographs."
Just before the gangplank was removed Joseph Seep came aboard with a worried look on his face. Seep represents the Rockefeller interests in the oil fields. Apparently he had a message of great importance, for he looked worried when repeating it to the magnate.
Mr. Rockefeller studied over it for some time. Then his face cleared and he slapped Seep on the shoulder and said:
"Don't mind that; take everything quietly this summer. I hope everything will go well; I think it will. Have a good time, be cheerful and don't worry."
Seep tried to look cheerful, but the effort was not a success.

MAN WHO SHAVES HIMSELF IS NOT A BARBER, SAYS THE JUDGE

A man who shaves himself is not a barber, who rocks his offspring to sleep, is not a nurse maid, according to a decision of Judge Frazer in the circuit court this morning in deciding the suit of Jess Manning against the Union Mutual Aid association, an accident insurance concern. Manning sued for the payment of an accident policy and the association contended, alleging that Manning had represented himself to be an electric lineman and was in reality a wood chopper because he was splitting kindling when the accident occurred.

Commenting on this defense, the judge said:
"There is no question that Manning was a lineman by occupation. The fact that he was splitting kindling to build a fire with which to warm himself, or to cut himself while shaving, he would not become a barber; if he were injured while rocking his baby to sleep he would not be a nurse maid; the man who milks his cow in the morning is not a dairyman."
Judgment against the association was given in the same amount as though Manning had been injured while working at his occupation as lineman.

BRAVE FIREMEN FLINCH WHEN IT COMES TO KILLING CANINE

There was a tragedy at the central fire station yesterday that has caused a gloom to fall upon the men who answer alarms from the Fourth street house. A little fox terrier dog was the victim of the tragedy, which took the form of an execution, with a fireman as executioner.
The little fox terrier was playing in the street near the fire station yesterday morning and was accidentally caught beneath the wheels of a huge truck. One of its hind legs was crushed and the dog went limping down the street. It howled in pain as it passed the fire station and attracted the attention of a number of firemen.
They took the creature in and attempted to alleviate its suffering. They tried to set the broken leg, but found the bone shattered so completely that their efforts were in vain.

They summoned a veterinary surgeon, who pronounced the dog in a hopeless condition. Then it was decided that the dog must die, for its suffering was intense and there was no hope of recovery. But the means of death was not so easily decided.
At last, however, the chloroform method was suggested. A fireman secured a bottle of the drug and lots were sent to who should administer it. The duty fell upon a truckman and the dog expired a few moments after the drug was administered.
It was a beautiful fox terrier of the best breed. There was no collar or mark of any kind to indicate the owner and efforts of the firemen to ascertain to whom the dog belonged have been futile.

INSPECTOR JUSTIFIES SALE OF DISEASED MEAT

Chicago Health Commissioner Calls Those Who Object Long-Haired Cranks.
(Journal Special Service.)
Chicago, June 1.—Health Commissioner Whalen's statement that he instructed his inspectors not to interfere with the sale of tuberculous meat when the disease in the animal was "local" has aroused a storm of adverse criticism. His office is besieged by physicians and health inspectors who differ with him. The majority have agreed that it is exceedingly dangerous to permit meat from a diseased animal to be consumed, and all agreed that it is always a matter of doubt whether the infection is local or general. Whalen said:
"It would be folly to destroy $2,000,000

000 worth of meat annually just to suit the long-haired cranks. The meat goes to eat and that much money saved without harming anybody. Under my administration the packers have saved more money than ever before. The packers are enabled to sell meat cheaper, and I am not going to change my methods to please the senseless agitators."
SEEK MILLIONS IN FINES GRANTING REBATES
Railroads Guilty of Granting Favors to Standard Oil Trust Must Pay for It.
(Journal Special Service.)
Washington, June 1.—Fines amounting to several millions of dollars will be sought by the government against the railroads shown by the Garfield report to have been guilty of granting favors to the Standard Oil company.
This report, with added details, will go to the department of justice this week, and it is asserted, the way bills, bills of lading, shipping records and other documents accompanying it will form a complete chain of evidence upon which to base the prosecutions.
Specific violations showing the granting of rebates on shipments aggregating more than 2,000 cars will be alleged in one instance. Recently the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road was fined $10,000 a car for six cars of shipments upon which rebates were given. No imprisonment penalty is covered by this act, but if this is made the standard of fines, the government hopes to teach violators a lesson.

MRS. LIZZIE ERICKSON SEIZED WITH INSANITY
Mrs. Lizzie Erickson, residing at 506 East Tenth street north, was taken into custody this morning by Policemen Price and Burke and booked on a charge of insanity. A number of complaints were received a headquarters that Mrs. Erickson was abusing her children and creating a disturbance. The patrol wagon was sent to the Tenth street address and considerable difficulty was encountered in inducing the demented woman to enter the vehicle. Mrs. Erickson is afflicted with a religious mania and inquired of Patrolman Burke if he was the general of the Salvation Army. Upon receiving a reply in the affirmative she signified her intention of proceeding quietly.
Mrs. Erickson was before the circuit court a short time ago on an insanity charge.

CHAMBERLAIN INTRODUCED BY REPUBLICAN MAYOR

Forest Grove Gives Enthusiastic Reception and Crowds Hear Address.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Forest Grove, Or., June 1.—One of the largest crowds that has ever been in Ver's hall packed the seats and standing room here yesterday until some had to stay without while Governor George E. Chamberlain spoke.
The crowd came from all parts of the county, both Republicans and Democrats, and applauded the popular speaker to the echo.
Mayor Peterson and several prominent citizens met the governor at the train and escorted him up town. Business houses were decorated in patriotic colors and with life-size pictures of Oregon's chief executive.
In the afternoon Mr. Chamberlain spoke at Pacific university, where he was introduced by President W. N. Ferrin and loudly applauded by both students and faculty.
Introduced by Republican.
At 2 p. m. he was escorted by prominent citizens to Ver's hall, where he was introduced to the big enthusiastic meeting by Forest Grove's Republican mayor.
The governor was much more heartily received here on this occasion than four years ago.
Everybody listened, for they knew he had something to say, but many times they interrupted him with rousing cheers when he told of his policy.
Washington county is a strong Republican county, but many strong supporters were heard to give their favor for Mr. Chamberlain yesterday and it is thought that he will poll a much heavier vote in this county than he did four years ago.

TOOZE GOES TO SLEEP

Gottinge Grove Mass Meeting Proves Somewhat Slimly Attended.
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Gottinge Grove, Or., June 1.—The great political speaking of the day, as well as of the campaign, took place here yesterday. After hard work by Bill Landess, John Long and Ike Hingman, assisted by the band in drumming up a crowd to hear Judge Lowell and W. L. Tooze, just 41 voters and three women appeared in Masonic hall—"only that and nothing more."
While Judge Lowell was speaking Walter L. Tooze went to sleep. During the Tooze address and peroration nine of the audience slept in peaceful serenity. At one time in the talk Mr. Tooze, when he was referring to the fact that Governor Chamberlain had always voted the Democratic ticket, a Democrat who had wandered in started applause, when instantly it was taken up. It was about the only applause given during the entire speech. The meeting was a slim and sickening affair.

INDORSES CHAMBERLAIN.

Citizens Party Rally Hears Words Eulogistic of Executive.
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Warrenton, Or., June 1.—The Citizens party held a meeting here Wednesday evening, which was well attended, being about equal to the Republican meeting of the night before. Dr. H. L. Henderson, candidate for state senator, in addressing the people, dwelt upon the good record of George E. Chamberlain and argued that, having been tried and not found wanting in any way, he should be re-elected. Other candidates made brief remarks and C. J. Curtis made a telling speech for political independence, citing President Roosevelt as opposed to partisan politics. J. M. Hughes, an attorney of Seaside, presided.

Galloway at Woodburn.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Woodburn, Or., June 1.—Judge E. E. Galloway, Democratic candidate for congress, addressed a large joint meeting in this city last night. Judge Gillespie made a strong plea for equal suffrage. Both speakers received enthusiastic welcome and their remarks were heartily applauded by members of both parties.

ALLEGES SUPERVISOR IS WORKING FOR STEVENS

Jacob Coleknon, a laborer employed on the county roads in district No. 1 for the past six weeks, alleges undue influence used by Supervisor Miller to lead him to vote for Stevens.
Coleknon declares that a few days ago Miller tried to "pump" him as to his politics in general and to his preference for sheriff in particular. Coleknon was non-committal and Miller left him with the pointed remark that Stevens was the right man. Last Wednesday Tom Word passed along the road and stopped to talk to the laborer. That evening Coleknon distributed Word cigars among the boys and the next evening Miller, who has learned of Coleknon's leanings, told him to look for work elsewhere.

The Fobes Supply company has been incorporated by Edwin Fobes, M. G. Munly and T. J. Munly. They will deal in machinery and machinery supplies. Capital stock, $500,000.

NO APPEAL FROM VERDICT OF JUSTICE COURT JURY

If the Oregon statutes are to be literally enforced, a man who calls for a jury in a justice's court and loses the suit may not appeal unless there has been a judgment against him for more than $20. To avoid this unfair denial of the right to appeal Judge Frazer this morning held that the failure to secure a verdict for the amount sued for was in effect a judgment against the complaining party and denied a motion to dismiss an appeal in the case of Frank L. Smith against Charles Schulenberg.

MORE LAND FRAUD EVIDENCE FOUND

Valuable Information Comes into Hands of Government Officials.

IS CONTAINED IN LETTER ADDRESSED TO PUTER

Missive Follows Him During His Flight and Finally Falls Into the Hands of United States Secret Service Agent William J. Burns.

Through United States Secret Service Agent William J. Burns District Attorney Bristol has in his possession new and valuable evidence which has not been in the possession of the government until now.
The evidence is contained in a registered letter received from Puter via Burns. The letter is, postmarked at Portland and was stamped on May 15, 1902. This was before Puter's flight to Chicago and before his first trial. Across the end of this registered letter is the name of Finley Morrison, a timber dealer in Portland, who had dealt with Puter in the past, with a request to return if uncalled for.
This envelope, while its contents are unknown, gives the details of the first flight of Puter just as clearly as though his wanderings were chronicled thereupon. It was sent first to Berkeley, but reached there after Puter had left that city. Then it was forwarded and re-registered at St. Louis, Chicago, Davenport, Iowa; back to St. Louis and finally to Puter at Minneapolis, just previous to his arrest in Chicago.
It is known now that the government officials have been acquainted all along with Puter's Oakland headquarters. Burns telegraphed from Albuquerque when he lost Puter's trail there to watch the Berkeley and Oakland headquarters. District Attorney Bristol knew of the Berkeley and also of the San Francisco headquarters of Puter before his first flight, but could not arrest Puter then because he was not a fugitive until the day set for his appearance at court.

This is a case where the plaintiff seeks to set aside a judgment of the lower court which allowed the Northern Pacific railway to condemn certain lands lying on the Tacoma tidewater for railway purposes.
