EDGECOTE PEER CRACK DOG OF THE SHOW

History of Breeding Shows that Constant Care is Essential to the Rearing of Dogs Worthy of Notice—How Local Animals Appeared.

By J. X. DeWitt. Much credit is due the Portland Kennel club for a very successful and classy bench show. From indications the dog cult is destined to reach a high stage of advancement in the northwest.

The breeding of dogs to type and the development of essential qualities is a desideratum reached by years of observation, experience and judicious mating.

The terrier breeds, bred originally for the destruction of ground vermin, badgers, stoats, foxes, and other vermin, are now endowed with punishing jaws that physically put them on par with their quarry.

Bull terriers are the acknowledged gladiators among dog breeds. The so-called pit bull terrier, whilst a rather formidable looking brute, is a mongrel, and is not to be reckoned with the smooth-coated, buff-eyed, symmetrical, pure bred white bull terrier.

Hinks being bantered about the scrapping powers, his bitch, took up his incredulous questioner with a question to take her off the bench and fight her with the best one that could be found for a turn up against her.

Alredale terriers were a very good exhibit at the show. These dogs are a variety of terrier rather new to the coast. They are grand dogs, possessed of stamina, gameness and intelligence to a degree.

Another good dog overlooked by many devotees of the gun is the Chesapeake Bay dog. These dogs run to size, 70 pounds in the males not being considered too large, but for a water dog they are not excelled by any breed save possibly the Irish water spaniel.

The Pointer Breeds. The pointer display last week was pleasing with type and quality, more so than the writer has noticed at any bench show within 10 years.

Professor Krohn, of M. A. A. C., in the Act of Starting a String of Youngsters Who Will Compete in the Intergrammar Field Meeting.

pointer blood lines in either the United States or England. Otto Schumann's Sport, the winner of the special, is built on sturdier lines than Mason's King, who seems to be a rather more clean-built animal.

English setters were another exemplification of the care and attention sportsmen of the northwest have given the breed. Malloy's Bob, Fleet Sergeant and Handsome Jim are a trio hard to beat anywhere in the United States.

Boston terriers, while showing a nice one here and there, were not as good as shown at some coast shows. The judge could have placed Dandy over Nobaka II without any serious fracture of the show-ring tension.

Cocker spaniels were principally parti colors and brought out several splendid individuals. Butheta is a well-known bench winner and probably one of the best on the coast today.

As a sporting dog the Cocker has its signal uses. These intelligent little fellows are adaptable in low, thick cover.

Retired Champion Declares That Only Disaster Will Get Him Into Ring.

CONTENTED WITH HIS FARM OF ALFALFA

Herrera and Nelson Are Criticized for Their Actions in the Recent Fizzle—Dane Could Have Waived a Point and Met the Mexican.

By W. W. Naughton. (Special Dispatch by Leased Wire to The Journal) San Francisco, June 2.—I saw Farmer Jeffries last week in Los Angeles; he sat next me at the ring of the fight that flamed. While those around were prattling upshoots and cross willows Jim regarded me with interest.

"Well, this is the first chance I've had to put to you the question: are you likely to fight again?" "Now, I'll tell you," said the big man. "When I quit the ring I quit it in good faith. I did not care if I never set eyes on a boxing glove again."

"The best I can say is that there is no immediate prospect. I don't want any more of it, but I can't tell what's ahead of me. Lots of friends of mine lost everything they possessed in the San Francisco fire. If I should meet with a disaster of that kind, it might be that I would have to fight again."

From the foregoing it will be seen that Big Jim is not quite sure. So long as fortune smiles upon him and the alfalfa keeps coming up eight times a year he will never dream of fighting.

HUNT CLUB RIDERS IN TRAINING

Annual Field Meet Next Saturday Attracts Attention of Horsemen.

TWO-MILE EVENT WILL BE CLOSELY CONTESTED

Marengo Is Touted to Be the Best Weight-Carrier for the Distance—Bennett and Oregon Kid Will Be Close Competitors.

Interest in the spring meet of the Portland Hunt club is very evident in the vicinity of the Irvington track these days. Every morning and evening the grounds are overrun with Hunt-club members and one can get "dope" enough there in an hour to last a professional foot half a lifetime.

Furthermore two other local horses, Racivo and Oregon Kid finished only a fraction behind him, carrying even greater weight. In Oregon Kid's case 185 pounds, and the Kid is one of the greatest weight carriers for a small horse that ever walked.

Bob Crawford may do it. His owner, Lou Leadbetter, worked him a mile on Wednesday in 1:48, without urging, with 185 pounds on, and he was so anxious to go on that he ran another half mile before he could be pulled up.

From the foregoing it will be seen that Big Jim is not quite sure. So long as fortune smiles upon him and the alfalfa keeps coming up eight times a year he will never dream of fighting.
