SCHOONER OREGON IS DISABLED

Creeps Into San Francisco Harbor With Six Feet of Water in Her Hold.

STRUCK FOUR TIMES IN CROSSING COQUILLE BAR

Distress Signals Unseen, Captain Decides to Run for Bay City, Reaching Port With Exhausted Crew and Vessel Riding Deep.

(Journal Special Service.) San Francisco, June 2.—Riding deep in the water, with her crew worn out from their exertions at the pumps, the lumber schooner Oregon, commanded by Captain Anderson, crept into the harbor this morning from Coquille river. There was six feet of water in the hold when she anchored. Although cabins and forecabin were flooded, there was no immediate danger of the vessel's sinking, owing to her lumber cargo. The Oregon met misfortune while crossing the bar at Coquille river last Tuesday. She struck four times. In less than an hour the hold was filled with water and soon the cabin and forecabin were hoisted but they were not seen and as the weather was too bad to attempt recrossing the bar, Captain Anderson decided to run for San Francisco. The crew worked the pumps for 12

ETHEL BARRYMORE MAY YET WED CAPTAIN GRAHAM

Report That Pair Have Been Married in Secret, But Actress Denies Rumor.

(Special Dispatch by Leased Wire to The Journal.) Boston, June 2.—The presence in this city today of Miss Ethel Barrymore and Captain Graham, the young Englishman she is reported to be engaged to, led to the circulation of a report that the young couple had planned to be married in secret. Miss Barrymore left for Windsor, Vermont, today, and by a curious coincidence Captain Graham went away also. Whether the young Englishman also went to Windsor could not be ascertained, although it was stated at the Touraine that he had gone to the country. Miss Barrymore was not in the most amiable frame of mind when a venturesome reporter attempted to learn from her whether or not she was to be married to her English suitor.

SOCIETY WOMAN SUED FOR DEFAMING CHARACTER

Tacoma Lodging House Keeper Asks Large Sum As Damages for Alleged Offense.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Tacoma, June 2.—Aristocratic circles of Tacoma have been scandalized by a suit brought by Mrs. Ellen Brown, proprietor of a lodging-house above a saloon in old Tacoma against 16 society women of this city, for $10,000 for defamation of character. The defendants are: Mrs. T. C. Harmer, Mrs. W. L. McKenzie, Mrs. Martin Hall, Mrs. R. Wiley, Mrs. Dan Fraser, Mrs. D. S. Price, Mrs. D. C. Hicks, Mrs. James J. Reid, Mrs. James B. Bell, Mrs. J. Christopherson and J. T. Johnson. Notices of the action were served this afternoon on all the defendants.

The complaint, which has not yet been filed, states that the 11 defendants sent a signed remonstrance to the city council objecting to the granting of a renewal of the saloon license, charging that a disorderly house was conducted above and that there was an inside stairway connecting the saloon with the apartments occupied by Mrs. Brown.

These and other charges Mrs. Brown vehemently denies. She asserts she is a reputable woman, maintaining a lodging-house for the support of herself and family and that nothing improper goes on at her house. While greatly flurried, the fair defendants declare they have spiky testimony which they will introduce at the trial.

Plaintiff maintains that she will be in a position to go the defendants one better in damaging counter evidence.

Monument to Yale Boys' Heroism. From a New Haven Dispatch. A piece of statuary unique in the history of sculpture is in process of completion in the studio of James Edward Kelly. It will be known as the Defenders' monument, and commemorates the defense of New Haven against the British by the students of Yale college on July 8, 1779.

The statue represents three figures, bearded youths, operating a piece of field artillery. They are typical American youths of the period.

The unveiling will take place on July 8, 1897. The statue will have cost, when completed, about $30,000.

The figures, which will be cast in bronze, will stand eight feet high upon a pedestal of granite. The monument will be placed upon the spot at West Bridge where 127 years previously the Yale students met the British and repulsed them.

IRISH PATRIOT-STATESMAN HONORED BY PEOPLE

Early in the day the body of the dead patriot was removed from the little Clarendon street chapel, where it had reposed overnight, to the Boardstone station, where a train was waiting to carry it to his old home at Straide, County Mayo.

$220,000 FOR RELIEF OF STATE UNIVERSITY

California Legislature Breaking All Records for Speedy Enactment.

(Journal Special Service.) Sacramento, Cal., June 2.—The extra session of the legislature called to enact earthquake relief legislation convened shortly after noon, and if the spirit of the San Francisco delegation is any criterion, the work of enacting without needless delay all necessary measures will be gone through with at record-breaking speed. Chaplain Meis in his prayer referred feelingly to the calamity that made necessary the calling of an extra session.

In the senate special emergency bills providing for the extension of the time for filing mechanics' liens, validating acts performed since April 18, extending the time in which certain official acts may be performed and extending the time on commencement of suits to recover 30 days were introduced and ordered sent to the printer immediately.

A bill appropriating $220,000 for the relief of the University of California was also introduced before the senate adjourned.

In the house the old organization was chosen, after the usual preliminaries. Bills covering practically everything in the call were speedily introduced, including emergency bills similar to those introduced in the senate.

Fish Caught in Steel Trap. From the Topaka Capital. County Commissioner George W. Ring of LeRoy tells a fish story that he insists is true. George says that William McKay of LeRoy recently caught a catfish in an ordinary steel trap. And more than that, they say that Mr. McKay has been a fisherman a number of years and is still a truthful man.

The fish captured in this unusual manner was a yellow catfish, weighing about nine pounds, and Mr. McKay's theory is that the fish swam over the trap, which had been set in the edge of the water for minn, and in some manner let its weight settle down on the trigger, which went off and the steel jaws of the trap caught the fish.

CHIEF CAMPBELL TURNS TABLES ON MAN WHO CRITICIZED HIM

A fire broke out in the basement of the building occupied by the Citizens' bank, at East Alder street and Grand avenue, last night. It was extinguished without difficulty, after burning a pile of rubbish. The damage was very slight, amounting only to a scorching of the walls. Part of the building is occupied by S. H. Brainard's gun store, and a report was circulated that a number of barrels of powder were stored in the cellar. There was nothing of Brainard's in the cellar except some crated bicycles.

During the fire, Fire Chief Campbell stood peering down a cellar stairway, from which black smoke poured in dense clouds. In the crowd was a young man named Bob Birch, said to have been at one time a member of the Kansas City fire department, and it seemed to him that Chief Campbell hesitated too long over starting down the cellar stairway. He called: "Go on down, Dave. Show us how it is done. I could do it if I had a chance."

Chief Campbell straightened up and looked around till he located Bob. Then he went over and got him by the arm. "I was just ready to start down," said the chief, "and since you want a chance, I will take you with me," and away he went, dragging the unwilling Bob, who was too astonished to make a remonstrance.

Down into the darkness and smoke they went, while the crowd gathered around cheering the chief and seeking to strengthen Bob's flagging courage. They had hardly disappeared down the stairway when Birch reappeared, choking and spitting. Chief Campbell came grinning after him. Birch had seen all he cared to see.

her cruelly and provided nothing for her to eat but potatoes and fat pork. In an affidavit accompanying the answer Dow says that he is 73 years old, and his wife 40. He says he met her through an advertisement in the Matrimonial Register, in which she gave the color of her eyes and hair and represented herself to be the prospective heiress to $10,000. They were married at Eugene in October, 1905, about a month after Dow first saw the advertisement. Mrs. Dow is in Portland and says she is supporting herself on $8 a week, which she earns by menial labor.
