UNUSUAL FEELING IN COAST SUGAR MARKET

Failure of Western Refinery to Meet Advances of California Hawaiian Taken as an Indication That a Great Fight is Due.

By Hyman H. Cohen. Front Street, June 2 p. m.—The principal features of the Portland wholesale markets the past week were: Unusual feeling in sugar. Many orders in for hops. Cold storage egg men defeated.

There is a foundation of fear here to the Orient during the past week. A considerable number of inquiries were received, and many sales of moderate amounts reported made.

Higher prices are again being demanded in the local wheat market. The wheat market has been locally and from the Orient, has caused millers to look around for supplies, and this has caused prices to advance.

After an inactivity that lasted for several weeks, the hop market again promises to become active for a while at least.

Weather Outlook Strawberry Crop. The weather outlook for the strawberry crop of the past week, early in the week supplies were quite good, but quality was lacking in almost every shipment.

Weather Outlook Fruit and Vegetables. The first peaches and plums from California came yesterday, but stocks were not so green.

Weather Outlook Cattle and Horses. The cattle market went lower this week, with larger receipts and an accumulation of supplies.

Weather Outlook Potatoes Going Mill Lower. While there is a very good market these days in new potatoes, there is a general lack of demand for old stock.
